MINE PEACE NEAR IN EAST, JOHNSON SAYS

Meets All Factions in Washington.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Possibility of a settlement tomorrow of the Pennsylvania bituminous coal strike was seen tonight by Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, at the end of a conference with spokesmen for the coal operators and labor. The operators were represented by Thomas Moses of the H. C. Frick Coal company.

Gen. Johnson called the conference shortly after his return here by army plane with Gov. Pinchot from Harrisburg. He sent for the president of the H. C. Frick company, coal subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation.

Miners' Chief Also There.

Mr. Moses, head of the Frick company, was closeted in Gen. Johnson's office with the general and several others, who were said to include John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Edward F. McGrady, associate recovery administrator.

Mr. Moses, who had refused the invitation of Gov. Pinchot two days ago to appear at a conference in Harrisburg, flew there this afternoon and took part in a three cornered parley at which were present representatives of the state and federal government.

While at Harrisburg, early in the day, Gen. Johnson, in a speech, demanded that the strike be settled because of its effect on the government's recovery plan.

Says Fight Should Stop.

Declaring his relative indifference to the causes of the strike and avoiding any mention of the critical "company union" issue in the coal and steel industries, Gen. Johnson asserted:

"I don't see why blood should flow and people refuse to talk to each other at a time when the whole country is looking to early recovery. It's like turning on a fire siren in the midst of a symphony recital. I am not familiar with the cause of the fight, but I do know it ought to stop."

The chief center of trouble is in Fayette county, Pennsylvania, where the strike is raging intensely. The H. C. Frick Coke company closed its affected mines today in an apparent effort to avert further riots and bloodshed.

Other Mines to Close.

Other mines in all likelihood will be closed tomorrow. The strike continued to spread. Besides the Frick mines, the Jamison mine of the South Union Coal company and the Gillespie mine of the Lowber Gas and Coal company suspended in consequence of walkouts.

Word reached here also that six Allegheny county mines and three Washington county mines of the Pittsburgh Coal company, employing several thousand miners, had been closed.

It was asserted in behalf of the Frick company that the Fayette county mines, now shut, would remain closed until the company officials were sure of "adequate protection" for men who wished to work.

"The mines never would have been opened Monday if the operators had known what they know now," said a man in close touch with the officials.

An assurance that the National Guard force now in the coal fields of Pennsylvania would be able to control the situation and prevent further rioting was given by Maj. Kenneth Momeyer, commanding officer.

Cause of the Troubles.

It is estimated that 20,000 men are on strike already. The fight revolves around the company unions. The men want the right to organize and maintain their own unions.

In the last three or four days, since the coal strike became general, between 3,000 and 4,000 more miners have registered for relief.

20,000 BANKS GET CODE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Fourteen thousand banks of the country today went under federal control of hours and wages for their employés.

The American Bankers' association, negotiating with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, obtained blanket authority for its 14,000 members, with several hundred thousand employés, to enter immediately on a modified form of the President's reëmployment agreement.

The way also was opened for 6,000 other banks, not members of the association, to sign up under the modifications, and thus all the nation's temples

THREE OFFICIALS LOSE JOBS FOR FAVORS TO HIM

Permitted to Remain Outside Walls.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Terry Druggan of Chicago's gangland is causing trouble at Leavenworth federal penitentiary, where he is serving a two year sentence for evading income tax on $313,080. His latest flaunting of prison customs has brought "summary suspension" to a prison chaplain and two other penitentiary officials.

But while it lasted Terry was able to visit regularly his Chicago sweetheart, Bernice Van de Houten. He ran his beer business by long distance telephone from the girl's temporary residence in the city of Leavenworth. He had his meals outside the prison. He did sleep within the prison confines, finding a soft bed in a guard's quarters sufficiently comfortable.

Prison Chief Orders Inquiry.

Word of the beer baron's life of ease was received by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and was relayed to Sanford Bates, director of the bureau of prisons, in Washington, and he launched a quiet investigation. An assistant director of prisons, J. V. Bennett, was sent to Leavenworth, and after a preliminary investigation verified the reports.

The three officials confessed their part in permitting Druggan to roam almost freely about the city of Leavenworth, resulting in the suspensions being ordered and a more thorough inquiry being put under way.

The three suspended employés are Chaplain James A. Ording, Guard Lester M. Wahler and Foreman Auto Mechanic Vernon R. Swearingen.

Director Bates said the trio had admitted making Druggan's stay such a pleasant one. The warden contends, according to the report received by the director, that the liberties accorded the gangster were "without his sanction and contrary to his direction."

Orders Against Privileges.

There have been strict orders, Mr. Bates said, that because several notorious gangsters have been received at federal prisons, including Al Capone himself, for a time no special or unearned privileges should be accorded to any prisoners, and certainly not to the beer kings.

But Druggan could get the favors he wanted just as he had the run of the Cook county jail some years ago.

Druggan himself is now on the carpet before federal authorities. Director Bates said today that "the nature and amount of punishment to be meted out to Druggan will be decided by the warden upon the completion of the investigation and after further consideration by the officials of the bureau of prisons." Druggan was due to be released next February.

Succeeds in Getting Privileges.

A bizarre story of how Druggan wheedled privileges out of Leavenworth prison officials "through influence and otherwise" was unfolded today between the lines of an official announcement issued by Director Bates after a long distance telephone talk with Assistant Director Bennett, who is still at Leavenworth.

Since his arrival at Leavenworth annex, to serve a two and a half year federal sentence, Druggan has been endeavoring to gain exemptions and privileges, Bates revealed today.

Bates declared that he had uniformly refused all of Druggan's requests which had come to him. But it was learned that not all of Druggan's requests were forwarded to the central office here, for some reason that is still unexplained.

Without the information reaching Bates, Druggan was granted the rank of outside trusty and allowed to drive a prison truck. Once granted this privilege, Druggan arranged with the guard to whom he was assigned, Lester M. Wahler, to "call at several places in the city of Leavenworth and also to visit a woman friend," the official announcement revealed today.

Sets Up Girl in Home.

The "woman friend," Miss Van de Houton of 5246 Glenwood avenue, Chicago, also was known as Bernice Van, whom Druggan had known in his old days as a gang leader. When Druggan saw how nice things were he invited the girl to Leavenworth and had her rent a house. She brought a La Salle coupé, bearing Illinois license 581-905, issued to her.

This house is owned by Jake Biddle, brother of W. I. Biddle, former warden of the federal penitentiary, who retired two years ago. He was formerly

DIRECTS ATTACK ON KIDNAPERS, GANGS OF THUGS

7 Sent to Prison

Chicago's organized campaign against criminals gained headway yesterday as ten judges, seven of them volunteers, began sitting in the Criminal court. Seven criminals were sentenced to the penitentiary, two of them for life. Details on page 2.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Campaign plans for a federal war on organized crime were announced by President Roosevelt here today. As the opening move in a vigorous drive on racketeering, kidnaping and kindred crimes, the President revealed that he has relieved Assistant Secretary of State Raymond F. Moley temporarily from his departmental duties in order to place him at the head of a special survey to determine where and how the federal power can best be used as a weapon against the criminal.

The President's announcement was made at the first formal press conference he has held since his arrival at Hyde Park last Saturday, and in the midst of a vacation day packed as full of activity as many days in Washington.

Discusses Many Topics.

In addition to the war on crime, he discussed the recent treasury refinancing operations, the progress of the national recovery program, the Pennsylvania coal strike situation. Later in the day he conferred concerning the bids for the coming naval construction work with Admiral William Standley, chief of naval operations, and Rear Admiral Emery S. Land, chief of the bureau of construction.

The President's action in the federal campaign against organized crime followed his talk of yesterday with Prof. Moley and a long telephone talk this morning with Attorney General Cummings. The attorney general told the President that a serious problem has been created in his department by the demands for federal help in combating kidnaping, racketeering and similar crimes.

As the basis for federal participation in fighting the criminal, the attorney general said, it would be helpful to have a study made of all laws, federal, state, and even foreign, under which crimes may be prosecuted and enforcement activities extended.

Denies Clash with Hull.

Prof. Moley, who is known as a student of criminology, will conduct the study, the President announced. The work is expected to take three or four weeks. The President denied that the transfer of the reputed chief of his "brain trust" was in any way connected with the quarrel between Mr. Moley and Secretary of State Hull over the former's conduct at the London conference.

The transfer of Mr. Moley, it was stated, was temporary only and in keeping with the President's policy of employing his lieutenants wherever they are most useful, regardless of their official titles.

The transfer, nevertheless, is expected to ease the situation when Secretary Hull lands, either tomorrow or Friday, and comes to Hyde Park to make his report on the conference and Prof. Moley's activities there.

Treasury Offer Oversubscribed.

The President also talked by phone with Secretary of the Treasury Woodin and Undersecretary Acheson. Their reports concerning the oversubscription of the recent offer of 500 millions of 3¼ per cent long term bonds and 350 millions of 1½ per cent treasury certificates caused President Roosevelt to declare the government's financial position better than the most optimistic prophet had dared predict.

Subscriptions for the long term bond issue total more than 3 billions, or more than six times the amount of the offer, and those for the 350 millions of certificates total one and a half billion dollars, the President explained.

Subscription books, which were closed for all subscriptions over $10,000 on Monday, were closed to the smaller subscriptions at midnight last night. They were also closed for subscriptions for which payment was ten-

HUNGRY

WAUKEGAN ELKS RAIDED DURING FETE FOR RULER

While 500 members of the Waukegan lodge of Elks, No. 702, were gathered in their club house last night entertaining Grand Exalted Ruler Walter F. Meier and two past grand exalted rulers, Floyd E. Thompson and J. E. Masters, there was a rude interruption.

Marching into the midst of the festivities went Deputy Sheriffs Arthur Grieve and Geno Palmieri. They announced firmly that they had been sent by Sheriff Lester Tiffany, an Elk himself, to confiscate three slot machines which were getting a liberal play from the lodge members.

Cries of "You can't do this!" resounded, and an appeal was made to State's Attorney Charles E. Mason.

Sheriff Tiffany commented briefly on the raid.

"I got a letter from Mr. Mason recently ordering that all slot machines be seized," he said. "I am enforcing the law against the rich and powerful as well as against the lowly. There have been complaints of the Elks club machines from church people and from some Elks, too."

State's Attorney Mason later said he had issued instructions to Sheriff Tiffany to get rid of all slot machines in Lake county, but had not advised him to "pick them up."

Jury Convicts Woman Foe of Bruce Barton

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frances W. King was found guilty tonight by a jury in General Sessions court of blackmailing Bruce Barton, author and advertising executive. The jury, which returned its verdict after seven hours' deliberation, "strongly recommended her to the mercy of the court."

Mrs. King, who styled herself a novelist, was remanded to the Tombs prison for sentence Friday. She showed no emotion as she was led away. She faces a penalty of seven and a half to fifteen years.

Predicts Blackmail Curb.

In thanking the jury for its "intelligence and honesty," Judge Joseph E. Corrigan said he was informed that this was the first conviction for blackmail in New York county in ten years.

"I hope your verdict will have a strong tendency to prevent that crime from being as common in the future as it has been in the past," Judge Corrigan said.

It was charged that Mrs. King wrote a book allegedly based on the life of Mr. Barton. The prosecution contended she sent him a letter offering "to take $50,000" to suppress the book and at the same time to drop a $250,000 slander suit she had brought against him.

Four Possible Verdicts.

Judge Corrigan had told the jurors there were four possible verdicts they might return. They might, he said, find Mrs. King guilty of blackmail, attempted extortion, sending an annoying letter, or they might acquit her.

Assistant District Attorney Charles Pilatsky praised Mr. Barton for his courage in going to court and prosecuting Mrs. King.

"It is men of the type of Mr. Barton," he told the jury, "who take the stand and subject themselves to cross-examination and admit their mistakes who keep women of this type from going on forever. He is to be commended. While he sat on the stand and was cross-examined Mrs. Barton, his wife for the last twenty years, listened and by her presence forgave."

Referring to an alienation suit which Mr. Barton settled for $25,000 with Hugh Rodgers King, Mr. Pilatsky asserted, "that, too, was a shakedown."

IT'S CRAZY TO TRY TO CALL PRESIDENT ON THE TELEPHONE

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Friendship with the President of the United States has its dangers, it was revealed today in a story told with gusto by the President himself.

When Representative Irwin Steingut, minority leader of the New York assembly, recently underwent an operation, President and Mrs. Roosevelt sent flowers to him at the hospital. Mr. Steingut got to feeling better and wanted to convey his thanks. He picked up the phone beside his bed and announced that he wanted to call Washington.

"Whom do you wish to talk to in Washington?" asked the operator.

"The President at the White House," quoth Mr. Steingut.

The receiver at the operator's end went down with a bang. A moment later two doctors, an interne, and an orderly from the psychopathic ward burst into the room.

'KIDNAP' VICTIM FREE ON PROMISE TO PAY RANSOM

New York, Aug. 3 (Thursday.)—[Special.]—What was reported as New York's first installment plan kidnaping ransom came to light early this morning when Nathan Baskowitz, known in Brooklyn sporting circles as Nat Bass, reported he had been released by gangsters who had seized him on Monday night. The kidnapers had demanded $25,000 ransom, but, the police understood, Baskowitz was released on a promise to pay $2,000 as soon as it could be raised.

Negotiations with the kidnapers were reported to have been carried on by Otto (Artie) Bass, Baskowitz' brother. Yesterday, detectives said, Otto convinced the kidnapers he had no cash and agreed to pay the $2,000 in installments if necessary.

Virginia Bruce Mother; Gilbert Sets a Record

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—John Gilbert and his young actress wife, Virginia Bruce Gilbert, tonight became parents of a seven pound five ounce daughter at Cedar of Lebanon hospital. Dr. Norman Williams said Gilbert was the most difficult male parent he had ever attended. He said the actor paced back and forth in the hallways of the hospital for a distance of fourteen miles before the arrival of the baby.

Court Is Asked to Halt School Economy Plan

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

The entire economy program of the board of education was attacked in a bill for an injunction filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Attorney Allan J. Carter and other lawyers representing teacher groups which are fighting the retrenchment plan.

School board officials received notice late in the afternoon that the teachers' attorneys would appear in the court of Circuit Judge William V. Brothers at 9:30 o'clock this morning and ask a temporary injunction halting the economy program. Frank S. Righeimer, special attorney for the school board, worked late last night on an answer to the action.

Attack Legality of Program.

The bill, which was filed five minutes before the court clerk's office closed, alleged that the economy program in its entirety is illegal, and that the board should be restrained from carrying it into effect. The bill was signed by Attorneys Carter, I. T. Greenacre, Leo J. Hassenauer and Wiley W. Mills, who have represented teacher groups for many years. Mr. Carter was retained by the Chicago Principals' club soon after the economy program was adopted by the board.

The suit was filed in the names of nine parents of children attending public schools. The defendants named are President McCahey of the board of education, other school trustees, Harry Brackett, school auditor, Supt. William J. Bogan, Charles Gilbert, school board secretary, Mayor Kelly, City Controller Upham and City Treasurer Kearns.

"Secret" Meeting Charged.

In setting up the charge of illegality, the bill declares that the school board formulated its economy program when it met "secretly and covertly" without notice to all members of the board. It is charged that Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, a member of the board who opposed the economies, sought entrance to the meeting and was refused.

This "secret" meeting, the bill alleges, took place on July 12 in the Sky-Line club, 307 North Michigan avenue, and preceded a regular meeting of the board on the same day at which the economy program was formally adopted. The suit declares that school board rules require that a regularly scheduled meeting should begin at 2 p. m., but that on July 12 the regular meeting did not begin until 5:30 p. m.

Because of these circumstances the bill avers that all the actions of the board on that day were illegal.

Declare Economy Costly.

Other charges made in the bill concern the economy program itself. The assertion is made that it would cost $800,000 to alter school buildings to conform to the board's plan of abolishing the junior high school type of instruction and converting junior high buildings into senior high schools. (John Christensen, school architect, has estimated the changes will cost approximately $125,000.)

The bill declares further that one million dollars in salaries of teachers and other school employés which the economy program seeks to save will have to be paid by the board anyway because the appropriation for this expenditure was set up in the 1933 budget.

The economy program provides that one elementary school principal shall supervise not less than two schools. Another provision is that high school teachers shall teach seven periods a day instead of five as previously.

These two provisions are attacked in the bill with the allegation that "physical exhaustion and nervous dered in treasury certificates maturing Aug. 15, but will remain open until further notice for subscriptions to be paid with treasury certificates maturing Sept. 15.

The total of the two issues is expected to amount to between one billion one hundred million and one billion two hundred million dollars.

Largest Cash Balance in History.

As a result, the President said, the treasury would have a larger cash balance on hand than at any time in the history of the United States, the world war period included, and the financing of the remainder of the year would be far easier than had been hoped for.

Refunding requirements for the balance of the fiscal year will total approximately one billion dollars with perhaps another half billion dollars needed to finance the public works program and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Secretary Woodin is expected to come to Hyde Park to confer with Mr. Roosevelt some time next week.

The President expressed gratification over the progress of the industrial recovery campaign, saying that it was moving ahead of schedule. He is watching and being kept in close touch with the strike troubles in the Pennsylvania fields and has consulted in the matter Secretary of Labor Perkins and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator. A message from Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania described the seriousness of the situation but did not ask for federal help.

Bids for 32 Naval Ships.

Admirals Standley and Land came to Hyde Park by plane, bringing with them the bids received for the construction of 32 naval vessels as part of the navy's 238 million dollar building program under the public works act. The bids, which require presidential approval before the contracts can be awarded, call for some 46 million dollars of work to be done in private shipyards during the coming year and a somewhat larger amount in navy yards.

Following the conference, the President announced that he had given his approval to the plan for awarding contracts which had been presented to him. The details, he said, would be given out at Washington upon Admiral Standley's and Admiral Land's return.

The date of the President's return for an interlude of work in Washington was set today for Aug. 11. On his return he may go beyond the capital to the Blue Ridge mountains and the Shenandoah valley, and on Aug. 12 drive back via two or three of the citizens' conservation camps in that vicinity.

CHIEF ALLMAN'S NEPHEW HELD ON HOLDUP CHARGES

Frank Allman Jr., 18 years old, 7816 Coles avenue, a nephew of Police Commissioner Allman, was held to the grand jury on four charges of robbery and two of burglary yesterday by Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan. His bonds were fixed at $60,000.

Young Allman was arrested a week ago following the holdup of a Standard Oil filling station at 89th and South Park way, and made a confession on which four other youths were arrested, police said. George Ely, 22 years old, 2909 East 79th street, a bartender, Cyril Ahearn, 17 years old, 7929 Coles avenue, and Frank Brady, 18 years old, 8147 Luella avenue, were also held to the grand jury.

The fifth defendant, Joseph Ahearn, 20 years old, brother of Cyril, was discharged when none of the robbery victims identified him.

VOTE TO INDICT 2 AS SLAYERS OF AL STROOK

True bills were reported to have voted by the grand jury yesterday charging Charles Egan, owner of the Lido Gardens, 7009 Stony Island avenue, and John F. Curtin, assistant manager of a chain store, with the murder of Al Strook, proprietor of the Jeffrey taven, 8301 South Chicago avenue.

Strook was shot and killed July 16 in front of his tavern. According to investigators, the shooting was a reprisal for a disturbance created by Strook in the Lido café a short time before he was killed. It is alleged that he fired a revolver in the café and slightly wounded a customer.

Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash said that both Egan and Curtin admitted firing at Strook, but said they fired in self-defense after Strook had fired at them.

TEN JUDGES PUSH CRIME WAR; SEND SEVEN TO PRISON

Two Life Terms Meted Out During Day.

With ten judges sitting on the Criminal court bench the organized campaign against gunmen and other dangerous criminals gained headway yesterday. At the close of the court day seven criminals had been sentenced to prison, two of them for life; a number of gun trials were under way before juries, and a score of other cases were set for early trial.

The campaign against gunmen is being pushed under the joint leadership of State's Attorney Courtney and Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court. It was organized after nine policemen had been slain by gunmen since Jan. 1.

Reject Bargain Offers.

Attorneys for the criminals sentenced yesterday found the judges in a stern mood when they tried to bargain for light sentences. Previously these attorneys had been able to gain some degree of clemency for their clients in return for bench trials or pleas of guilty. But the judges and the state's attorney's staff were in no bargaining mood yesterday. Jury trials were the order of the day. Motions for delays were swept aside.

The final action of the day came in Judge Joseph B. David's courtroom last night when a jury found Charles Kranshaar, 59 years old, guilty of burglary. Judge David immediately sentenced the defendant to one to twenty years in the penitentiary. The defendant was held in bonds of $20,000 pending the filing of a bill of exceptions by his attorney.

Judge David ordered Kranshaar's bond increased to $20,000 shortly after the defendant had been arraigned and placed on trial. Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and A. J. Hornik were outlining their case when Judge David interrupted them.

"Who fixed this man's bond at $5,000?" the judge asked. "The $5,000 bond is canceled and new bond set at $20,000."

Orders Night Session.

When it was indicated that the defendant might be able to raise the bail Judge David ordered a night session of the court. Testimony showed that Kranshaar was caught by Riverside police in the vestibule of a home at 550 Williams street, River Forest. The screen had been cut and a glass panel in the door broken. In Kranshaar's possession were jewels stolen a short time before from the home of Mary H. Miller, 1036 Bonnie Brae avenue, River Forest.

The case was given to the jury shortly before 6 o'clock. A verdict was returned after several hours' deliberation. Before passing sentence Judge David overruled a motion for a new trial. After the trial the prosecutors said that Kranshaar is facing five charges of burglary at Springfield, Ill.

Rebukes His Colleagues.

Earlier in the day Judge David delivered a rebuke to his colleagues in the Criminal court when he charged that their laxity in granting continuances was responsible for the clogged up court calendar.

His charges were made during consideration of the case of Leo Smith, Edward Pierucci, and Joseph Golembiewski, indicted on a charge of robbery last Dec. 15. The state had asked Judge David to advance the case for immediate trial after it had been continued to the September term.

"It's a disgrace to have cases like this pending since last December," shouted the judge, rising in his chair and waving the indictment. "I believe the courts which tolerated these continuances are to blame for the clogged up calendar. The state's attorney should have protested and made his protest part of the record."

Asks for Recess.

When an attorney for the defense argued that the case had been laid over and that the court was without power to advance it Judge David turned to Assistant State's Attorney Mueller and asked: "What have you to say to this?"

Mueller asked for a five minute recess, during which he consulted with Chief Justice Prystalski. He reported back to Judge David that the chief justice had ordered the case sent back to him.

"I will not sit here and be a party to reversible errors," said the judge, apparently angered. "It is my judgment that cases cannot be advanced after a date has been set for trial unless counsel for the defendant agrees."

Judge David meted out two other penitentiary sentences yesterday. He sentenced Douglas Nathaniel, 21 years old, to twenty years for automobile theft and Lawrence Marzano, alias Cirioscia, 25 years old, to one to 20 years for robbery.

Slayer Gets Life Term.

Denying motions for a new trial and a stay of execution Judge Rudolph Desort sentenced Arthur Lavac, 40 years old, 1533 Elmwood avenue, to life imprisonment for killing two policemen. Lavac's victims were Policemen Frank Svec and Edgar Chatterton of the Berwyn police force.

Svec was slain and Chatterton fatally wounded last Dec. 12, when they tried to serve a warrant on Lavac charging him with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Lavac had refused to permit his children to attend school because he objected to compulsory vaccination. Two weeks ago a jury found Lavac guilty of slaying Svec. Formal sentencing was continued until yesterday.

Robber Gets Life.

George Williams, 32 years old, will serve a life sentence as a habitual robber for a crime which netted him only $12.62. He was convicted by a jury in Judge Marcus Kavanagh's Criminal court of robbing Owen McCabe, 801 South Kedvale avenue, a conductor for the Surface lines, on April 28. He jumped on the car at Harrison street and Ashland avenue and, after robbing the conductor, jumped off into the arms of waiting policemen who had witnessed the crime from a squad car.

Williams wanted to bargain for a lighter sentence but Judge Kavanagh held there could be no bargaining in his court and a jury was selected. By evening a guilty verdict was returned. A motion for a new trial was overruled at once and sentence imposed.

"I see of no reason why this defendant, a repeater, should receive any sentence other than life imprisonment," said the judge. "The amount of money involved makes no difference. He had one chance to reform and did not take it."

The records show that Williams was sentenced to Pontiac reformatory on Feb. 20, 1922, for robbery and was paroled Nov. 25, 1923. He was arrested for crimes several times since, but never convicted.

Stanley Lipka, 27, 719 Melrose street, was sentenced to 1 to 20 years for robbery of the Gay-Time Frock shop. He robbed the place three times for a total loot of $218. He asked for probation as a first offender, but this plea was denied by Judge Charles P. Molthrop. He did not display a revolver during his robberies, although he held his hand in his pocket as though he had a weapon. Reese Gault, 25, was sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller for a street robbery.

Delay Scheck's Trial.

The trial of John Scheck, courtroom slayer of Policeman John Sevick, and his pal, Carl Grundhoefer, for another murder, that of a Niles Center bank cashier, was blocked by Assistant State's Attorney Emmet Moynihan. Judge Ross Hall, who is sitting in the Criminal court by special permission of the Supreme court, was prepared for a speedy trial when the prosecutor objected. Trial at this time, Moynihan said, might interfere with the investigation of the courtroom slaying.

Scheck's mother, Mrs. Rose Scheck, 49 years old, who is suspected of giving him the gun with which he killed Policeman Sevick in the detention room of Judge Molthrop's court a week ago Monday, surrendered to the authorities yesterday through Attorney Ross Lee Laird. She refused to talk.

Scheck, who was wounded in his attempted escape, was carried into the courtroom yesterday. Attorney James M. Burke, who represents Frank Keglovitz, another defendant in the Niles Center bank murder case, moved for a severance on behalf of his client. The motion was denied. He then asked for a continuance because he is engaged in the Rooney murder trial.

Against Such Delays.

"I am not going to allow a practice to continue, which has been in vogue in this building," Judge Hall replied to this request. "Few lawyers are specialists in any branch of the law. Just because a few lawyers get most of the criminal business does not mean that cases should be continued indefinitely because those lawyers are engaged in another court. That is one of the reasons the calendars of this court are clogged."

"There is only one reason why the calendars of this court are clogged," replied Attorney Burke. "That is because the judges have failed to man the criminal court properly."

Court Is Manned Now.

"The court is being manned now," snapped back the judge, "and these cases will be disposed of promptly. This case will be held on the call and tried immediately after the Rooney case is finished."

It was at this point that Prosecutor Moynihan suggested a continuance "by agreement to the September term." Under the circumstances the judge said he was helpless and allowed the order to be entered. Chief Justice Prystalski when apprised of the situation said he wanted it understood that the judges are ready to try all cases, including that of Scheck.

While in court Scheck was manacled and guarded by five bailiffs despite his injuries.

Other Cases Go to Trial.

Among the cases which went to trial yesterday in the various criminal courts but which were not finished were those of Sol Feldman, whose sweetheart, Mary Margaret Collins, is known as the "kiss of death girl"; Thomas Hirschman, Tony Rizzo, and Sam Larusso for a series of robberies, and Charles Kranshaar, suspected of committing burglaries in River Forest.

GIFT FOR POLICE HERO FUND COMES FROM "DOWN EAST"

From a Maine summer cottage yesterday came a $10 gift to THE TRIBUNE Police Hero fund, the contribution of an insurance executive who spends his summers there. In a letter, which asked that the contribution be acknowledged anonymously, the writer expressed his sympathy for the widows of Chicago policemen.

A $50 contribution was received from Col. A. A. Sprague. The two contributions, the only ones received during the day, brought the Police Hero fund to $4,406.16. This amount has been raised since the fund was inaugurated on July 25, to provide for families of nine policemen slain in the line of duty since Jan. 1.

Those sending contributions should make them payable to THE TRIBUNE Police Hero fund and mail them to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

MAYOR NAMES BOARD OF BROKERS TO AID IN CAR THEFT CAMPAIGN

Mayor Kelly yesterday appointed a committee of automobile insurance brokers which will coöperate with police and city and state officials in further efforts to prevent the sale of stolen automobile parts. Destroying the market for such parts is expected to put an end to the practice of stealing automobiles for the purpose of stripping them.

The committee will coöperate with the central salvage bureau, already being operated by the insurance companies. At this bureau cars which have been stolen and are recovered stripped are either repaired or junked, the parts in the latter case being sold to legitimate automobile repairmen.

In addition the stolen parts committee will keep a record of all stolen cars, including the point at which they are recovered, where they are towed by police, what repairs are made upon them, and the source of parts used for such repairs. This activity fits in with the new state law requiring dealers in second hand automobile parts to obtain state licenses and to report the source of all the parts which they sell.

F. J. Sauter, chairman of the theft committee of the western branch of the Automobile Underwriters' association, is chairman of the committee.

Desort for stealing two fur coats from Leschin's, 320 South Michigan avenue. He has been on the point of death several times as a result of wounds.

The judges, who were at work yesterday beside those regularly assigned to the court, were Judges Benjamin P. Epstein, Joseph Sabath, Daniel P. Trude, Kavanagh, Hall, David, and Harry Miller. The regular judges are Prystalski, Desort, and Molthrop. Judges Walter La Buy and D. J. Normoyle will go to work Monday morning.

HUNT KIDNAP LAIR

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Three federal agents today searched over a wide area in southeastern Wisconsin for the kidnap lair in which William Hamm Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer, was held and for whose kidnaping Roger Touhy, Chicago gang leader and three of his aids are now held in jail here on federal kidnaping charges.

Extradition proceedings in the Touhy matter are scheduled for hearing Friday before federal authorities here. St. Paul authorities seek to remove Touhy to the scene of the abduction. Touhy is expected to fight extradition. He and his three aids are in the county jail with bail set at $50,000 each.

Agents searched the territory immediately adjacent to Milwaukee and another region in the vicinity of Lake Geneva. Hamm gave this description of the place where he was held until $100,000 ransom was paid: "It is a two story house. During the month of June, and perhaps at present, the windows were boarded over or covered with solid wood blinds. It is not far from a church—close enough so that the ringing of the church bells can be heard.

"It is near enough to a railroad yard so that the switching of cars also can be heard. It is near a main highway. The heavy trucks can be heard from the house but the sound of an ordinary motor car cannot be heard. Voices of a woman and of children at play were heard. The house has all modern conveniences. It is not close to a city but it has running water and bath."

Vacation Time Holds Up Action by Board.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Because it's summertime and members of the police pension board are on vacation, Mrs. Nellie Brosseau, widow of one of the policemen killed in the line of duty, faces a financial crisis. She is four months behind in her rent and must move, but she cannot get other quarters because she has no money to pay a month's rent in advance. Nor has she any income, nor any prospect of any until the vacation season is over, she learned yesterday.

Mrs. Brosseau lives alone in the home she occupied with her husband, Oscar, at 5317 West Congress street. He was a veteran of twenty-seven years on the force, but because the pension to which he was entitled wasn't sufficient to provide for them, he continued in active service. He was beaten in a communist riot on June 1 and died of injuries on their eighth wedding anniversary, June 20. There were no children, but he left an eighty year old mother, Mrs. Virginia Brosseau, who was entirely dependent on him.

All his savings, amounting to $2,500, had been invested in real estate bonds by Policeman Brosseau. These bonds defaulted two years ago. At his death there was $3 in cash in the house and no bank account. There were various debts, too, due to the fact that he had not been paid since the last week in February.

Because of their financial plight the Brosseaus remained at home during his leisure hours, for he had no presentable clothing except his uniform, and was sensitive about making a good appearance. There was no money even to pay for shoe repairs, so he purchased rubber soles at the ten cent store and wore them to save shoe bills.

One thing he did manage to pay—his premiums in the P. B. A. [Police Benefit association]. A $2,000 policy will be paid eventually, $1,500 to his wife and $500 to his mother. But they don't know when they will receive the cash.

Nothing Done on Trust Fund.

Nothing has been heard as yet about the $5,000 trust fund accruing to all widows of policemen killed in action as Brosseau was. At best, the income from this trust will benefit his wife only for a short time, since he was more than 55 years old and the fund is not payable after a policeman would have been 57 years of age.

When Mrs. Brosseau telephoned the pension board yesterday to inquire when she might get the pension of $125 a month to which she is entitled she was informed, she said, that four members were needed to make a quorum to act on this matter; that vacations had prevented such a quorum, and that it would be the last week of this month before her pension could be authorized. After that, she was told, considerably more time would have to elapse before she actually received the cash.

"I can't keep up this place," she said, indicating the six room flat. "It's too big for me, and I can't stay anyway, because I can't pay the four months' rent due. I haven't any living relatives and no money to move, so I don't know what I am to do."

Jimmy Mattern Will Be Welcomed to City Today

A Word of Appreciation

The business of our main retail store showed a daily average increase during the month of July of 52.5% over the daily average business of corresponding days last year.

This is especially gratifying to us in view of the fact that it is the only store on State Street that is closing its doors on Saturday afternoons in July and August, and that gave its employes not only July 4th but all day July 3rd as well, and, of course, with pay.

It is apparent to us that our customers and our employes are determined that we shall not lose because of our generosity, and we take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation to them.

STATE TIGHTENS ITS CASE AGAINST RACKET KILLERS

Story of Star Witness Is Corroborated.

The state yesterday completed the presentation of its evidence against John Rooney secretary and treasurer of the circular distributors' union, and two other defendants, who are on trial for the murder of a department store watchman. The prosecution closed its case after corroborating the story of its star witness, Alex Davidson, presenting evidence to the jury of the defendants' movements on May 23, the morning of the murder.

The defense then made the usual motion for a directed verdict of not guilty before Judge Harry B. Miller in the Criminal court. When this motion was overruled the defense called witnesses to discredit Davidson's reputation.

Sweetheart on Trial.

The defense also attempted to establish the good character of Henry Berry, a business agent of the union, who is on trial with Rooney. The third defendant is Rosalie Rizzo, 24 years old, 2844 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn, Rooney's sweetheart. The three are charged with the murder of Stanley Gross, who was shot down as he guarded the Goldblatt Brothers' department store at 1609 West Chicago avenue.

Joseph Goldblatt, one of the owners of the department store chain, testified Tuesday that the union conducted a campaign of terrorism against his stores when he ceased paying "protection money." The state contends that Gross was slain as the climax of the campaign.

Charles Kompaskey, 3153 North Drake avenue, a Checker cab driver, testified for the state yesterday that at 7 o'clock on the morning of May 23 he drove Berry from the union headquarters at 7 South Racine avenue to Hoyne and Chicago avenues.

"Not Exactly Drunk."

"Berry had been drinking but was not exactly drunk," Kompaskey said. This testimony corroborated the story of Davidson, a bartender at the union headquarters, who testified as a surprise witness for the state on Tuesday. Davidson's testimony was that Rooney had spent the day preceding the murder drinking in union headquarters. Berry joined him at 5 p. m. and the Rizzo woman about 11 p. m. The latter brought a revolver and a car, Davidson said. Later the two men went out, announcing to Davidson that they had "some work to do." They returned a short time later, according to Davidson, who testified that the men boasted of the way they had killed their victim.

Edward McGowan, who was a Pinkerton agency detective employed on May 23 to police a route which includes the union building, said he had joined Rooney and Berry in a drink at their request. He said the two men were "drinking plenty at 3 a. m." He denied, however, that Miss Rizzo had been there, which conflicted with Davidson's story.

Dominates the Union.

Evidence of Rooney's domination of the union was given by Frank Schultz, 30 South Halsted street, a former checker at the union, and Louis Witt, vice president of the union for three years. Schultz said that the union members had to come to headquarters at the end of each working day and put 25 cents of their $3.25 daily wage in the "kitty." Part time workers had to deposit 50 cents each day they worked.

"Rooney didn't handle the money, but he seemed to be the boss," Schultz said.

Witt, who was vague as to his duties as vice president, said that Rooney would order meetings occasionally, but never made a financial report to the members.

Benjamin Campbell, a supervisor for the telephone company, identified toll slips indicating a call from the headquarters the night before the murder to Miss Rizzo's home in Berwyn. This corroborated Davidson's story that Rooney had summoned the girl and that she had driven down in her automobile.

Watch Union Headquarters.

Policeman Thomas J. Maloney testified that he had made a test drive from the union headquarters to the scene of the slaying and back and that the time was ten minutes. Davidson had testified that the defendants had been gone from the headquarters 15 or 20 minutes at the time of the murder, driving in two automobiles.

Policeman Charles Pribyl testified that he and Policeman Bert Gray had been assigned to watch the union headquarters from a neighboring building beginning May 15 when the terrorism campaign was at its height. He told of finding an automobile corresponding to the one used by the murderers in front of Miss Rizzo's home on June 3 and later arresting the girl and Rooney in a resort at Eagle River, Wis.

Attack Davidson's Character.

Attorney James M. Burke began the defense's case by calling several merchants from the vicinity of Chicago and Damen avenues. They testified that Davidson's reputation for veracity was bad. Morris Kulvin, a shoe merchant at 2058 West Chicago avenue, said he had not seen Davidson since the latter allegedly stole a gun from him. Nick Muchair, a restaurant owner, who testified against Davidson, was asked on cross-examination if he knew what truth and veracity meant.

"Sure," Muchair told Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, "it means crookedy way."

Fred W. Leuthesser, 240 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, president of the National Metal Products corporation, said he had known Berry since 1922 and that Berry was a "peaceful and law abiding citizen." He said Berry had been in politics.

The defense will continue its presentation of evidence today.

CONTINUES THREAT TRIAL.

Judge William E. Helander in the Fillmore street court yesterday continued to Aug. 4 a charge of disorderly conduct against Harry Strom, 35 years old, 1019 North Paulina street, said to be an ex-convict, who is alleged to have threatened Policeman Edward Tracey when the policeman stopped his automobile.

HUNT 3 PURSE SNATCHERS WHO KILLED WOMAN

Neighbors Tell Coroner's Jury of Slaying.

Three youthful gunmen, who did not hesitate to shoot to kill when their woman victim resisted their efforts to rob her, were being hunted by police yesterday as the slayers of Mrs. Lillian Bermele, 40 years old, 7000 South Rockwell street, sister of a south park policeman, who was murdered at 70th street and Campbell avenue late Tuesday night. The trio is believed to be a gang of petty criminals who prey upon lone pedestrians on the south side.

Police reached the conclusion that the killers shot Mrs. Bermele when she resisted the efforts of one of their number to snatch away her purse. Early theories that private vengeance might have led to her slaying were repudiated by members of her family. One fact which supported the robbery theory was that the white purse she carried has not been found.

Recall Seeing Robbers Stop.

No eye witnesses of the killing were found, but police were told by several residents of the quiet neighborhood that the slayers were seen to halt their car, an expensive sedan, at 70th street and Campbell avenue about five minutes before Mrs. Bermele alighted from a street car and walked west in 70th street toward her home.

At the inquest, held at the county morgue, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jonik, 7004 Campbell avenue, said they had seen the three men in the car and watched Mrs. Bermele approach the corner. The car drove slowly toward her, they said, and one of the men jumped out and ran toward the woman. They met at a point which was not within view of the Jonik porch.

Sees Slayers Speed Away.

Both Jonik and his wife, however, said that they heard sounds of a scuffle, two shots, and a woman's scream. Running toward the sounds, Jonik saw the automobile speeding up and a running man leaping aboard it. Near the corner he found Mrs. Bermele. She died within a few moments after being taken to the Holy Cross hospital.

Another witness described the killers as Negroes, but the police announced themselves convinced that the men were all white. A description of the automobile used by the gang was obtained.

Mrs. Bermele was a sister of South Park Policeman Walter Lane, at whose home she lived. She was a divorcee, having separated from her husband six years ago. She was employed as a switchboard operator by the Washington Shirt company. When slain she was returning to her home after a three day vacation spent at the home of an aunt, Mrs. Agnes McCoughlin, 2501 North Artesian avenue.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 2.—Dr. Lauge Koch, Danish explorer who is now in Greenland, will soon make a flight to the northernmost edge of Greenland over one of the vastest unexplored areas still remaining on the earth's surface.

Preparations for the flight will begin tomorrow when the expedition's two ships meet near Franz Josef Land. One ship will go north to Denmark harbor, the starting point of the flight. Meanwhile Lieut. Victor Peterson in a seaplane will fly to Lambert's Land and place depots.

Dr. Koch intends to go to Peary Land and after alighting there will proceed to Lambert's Land to pick up the fuel Lieut. Peterson will have left for him. It is hoped here that Dr. Koch, who is an experienced scientist, will make valuable observations regarding the nature of Greenland's ice covered regions in the far north, only the fringe of which has ever been seen by man.

Policeman Loses His Gun But Gets Shoe and an Iron

Policeman Simon O'Grady of the Chicago avenue station is ahead one shoe and one electric iron, but is out one service revolver. Noticing a husky man carrying the iron across Grand avenue and Clark street, Policeman O'Grady questioned and then arrested him. As O'Grady called for the wagon at an alarm box the husky man seized O'Grady's gun and fired one shot wildly. They struggled, but the man got away. As he fled he lost the iron and a shoe, but hung on to the gun.

GARRETT KINNEY IS SERIOUSLY ILL, DOCTORS REPORT

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Garrett Def. Kinney, former director of state finance under Gov. Emmerson, was reported critically ill at the Michell sanitarium here today. Attending physicians declare that death may be expected at any time. He has been in a comatose condition for several days.

Kinney, under indictment in Springfield on charges of failing to turn state funds over to his successor, attempted to commit suicide several weeks ago when an audit of the department's books showed an alleged shortage in his accounts.

ASK INDICTMENTS IN ALBANY KIDNAP CASE NEXT WEEK

Young O'Connell Will Be a Witness.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The New York City police reported today that they are "making progress" in tracing the kidnapers of John J. [Butch] O'Connell Jr. of Albany, and that further than that they dared not say for fear of wrecking promising angles that are developing in this city.

At Albany, District Attorney John T. Delaney announced he would take the case before a grand jury next week, although no arrests have been made.

Young O'Connell, for whose release his family paid $40,000, will be a witness. Dan O'Connell, the uncle who negotiated with the kidnapers through an intermediary, also will be called.

Delaney said he would ask "John Doe" indictments if necessary to conceal what gangsters are suspected of the abduction plot.

Strewell Works with Police.

Manny Strewell, the Albany ex-convict and beer distributor who was the successful intermediary in bringing about O'Connell's release in New York early on Sunday morning, came down from Albany yesterday and spent the day taking the police around to places where he had met the kidnaping representatives, but he returned to Albany last night. His work here is apparently done for the time being, but he will be held—not under charges—by the police in Albany.

It was considered highly significant that acting Capt. Richard Oliver, who has been working on the O'Connell case from the very beginning, under instructions from Commissioner James S. Bolan, was back in New York from Albany today.

Tough Gang, Says Inspector.

"I can say that we're up against a tough gang, but we're making progress," was all Chief Inspector Sullivan would report.

Up in Albany Police Chief Smurl sent out orders for his force to pick up John Oley, an associate of Strewell's, for questioning in connection with the kidnaping.

Strewell served two terms in federal prison in 1923 and 1929 and was tried with Oley on a charge of shooting Joe Green, the racketeer, who was killed in a Glens Falls speakeasy last year. Oley and Strewell went free when a jury disagreed.

'JAFSIE' TELLS OWN STORY OF LINDBERGH KIDNAPING 'RANSOM'

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" in the kidnaping case, involving Charles A. Lindbergh, still believes he was dealing with the actual criminals. He said today he is sure they will be caught and punished some day.

Condon, sitting on the porch of his home in the Bronx, said he would correct mistaken press statements now without violating the confidence placed in him by Col. Lindbergh. He asserted that before any money was paid, the sleeping suit which the baby wore when stolen from its crib at Hopewell was returned. Condon added that seven letters, all identical in chirography, diction and signature, to the one left pinned to the empty crib, were received by him.

Condon insisted he had two personal conversations with the man to whom he finally paid over the money. One was at Woodlawn cemetery where the man, whom Dr. Condon described as a Scandinavian who had difficulty with his "w's" and diphthong "th," made known the demands of the kidnapers.

Dr. Condon declared that he did not hand over the entire $70,000, reminding the kidnapers' agent that $50,000 was the amount originally agreed upon. Finally, the emissary of the criminals accepted $50,000. Dr. Condon said he returned the balance to Col. Lindbergh.

No further word came from the mysterious "John," who had carried on negotiations with Dr. Condon. Condon said he later received a letter informing him the man to whom he gave the money had "died a sudden death."

Merchants' Council Backs Test of Two Cents Sales Tax

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Council of Illinois Merchants, which instituted the suit in which the three per cent sales tax was declared unconstitutional, today started a legal attack on the present two per cent act.

Attorneys for the council filed an intervening petition in a suit against the law which was started here recently in behalf of Gus Reif, a Springfield furniture dealer.

It was contended that the law had not been legally enacted because one representative, Rodmon E. Grigsby, Blandinsville Democrat, who cast one of the 77 required votes, was not eligible to serve in the legislature under the constitutional provision denying office to any one indebted to the state.

Legislator a State Debtor.

Grigsby, the petition stated, owed the state $4,674 in gasoline taxes when he took office. He is a gasoline distributor. Of this amount, the representative paid $3,550, his legislative pay, soon after taking office. The balance was unpaid when the sales tax vote was taken.

The petition charged the law bestows legislative powers on the Illinois emergency relief commission, which apportions the funds for relief to various counties. One reason the state Supreme court held the first sales tax unconstitutional was because it delegated legislative authority to county boards to determine whether sales tax receipts would be used for relief or property tax abatement.

Prepare for U. S. Appeal.

The contention that the law violates the "due process" clause of the federal constitution was regarded as an effort to pave the way for an appeal to the United States Supreme court.

When Grigsby's indebtedness to the state became public Attorney General Otto Kerner said the legislature was the only judge of the qualification of its membership.

Attorneys representing the council of merchants include former Circuit Judge Jesse R. Brown, Alton, who was the judge who held the first sales tax unconstitutional.

The case will be argued here Friday.

California Death Penalty Kidnaping Bill Is Signed

Sacramento, Cal., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Gov. James Rolph Jr. signed two bills today against kidnaping in California. One established a $10,000 state reward fund, the other provides the death penalty or life imprisonment without parole, at the discretion of juries. The new laws become effective 91 days after the adjournment date of the legislature, July 26.

HASSEL'S

Record Breaking VALUES

THE "DERBY" $4 — THE "ASCOT" $3

$3 AND $4

When hides, calfskin, sole leather and labor were at their depression lows, these shoes at $3 and $4 were priced 20% to 40% under the market, due to our low rent location, our low overhead operation and our tremendous volume. Now hides are up 150%, calfskin is up 40%, sole leather is up 20%, labor is up 15%, but our prices are still $3 and $4. We bought heavily, and now we are "playing ball" with the President. As long as present stocks last you can still choose from over 100 styles for street, sports, and dress at $3 and $4. They're going like wildfire; almost every customer walks out with 2 or 3 pairs. As usual, Hassel's guarantee of satisfaction or money back goes with every purchase.

ITALIAN ENVOY TO ADDRESS FAIR THRONGS TODAY

World's Fair Figures

Tuesday, Aug. 1, 1933	112,573
Tuesday, Aug. 1, 1893	80,200
Total to Aug. 1, 1933 [67 days]	6,988,676
Total to Aug. 1, 1893 [93 days]	6,565,613

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1. A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Italian day will be observed at the Fair today, the second time since the opening of the Exposition that Italy has basked in the spotlight as the feature attraction of the Exposition. The romantic flight of the Balbo air armada drew record breaking crowds through the turnstiles and Italian leaders predict that the music and pageantry of today's presentations will equal, if not exceed, the previous attractions.

The ceremonies will open at 1 p. m. with the dedication of the Columbus monument in Grant park. From the time Florence Tocco pulls the cord unveiling the heroic figure, the day will be filled with pomp and pageantry. Participating in the dedication ceremonies will be Ambassador Augusto Rosso, Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio, consul general; Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, representing President Roosevelt, and officials of the Fair.

John Pane-Gasser in "Aida."

There will be another program in the court of the all of States, opening at 3 p. m.

A musical program extolling the great contributions of Italians to this art will feature two presentations. The Italian Women's Auxiliary club will give "The Dance of Tarantella." The opera "Aida" will be sung, with John Pane-Gasser, tenor of the Chicago Opera company singing, and Gennaro Papi as conductor.

Miss Lucille Iasillo, Italian queen for the day, and her two ladies in waiting, Miss Marie Alfano and Miss Anna Marana, will be honored during the program.

Plans to have Premier Mussolini deliver a radio address from Rome were changed late yesterday when the premier cabled Dr. Castruccio that he was going to the country and would be unable to deliver the address by radio. Instead, the premier's message will be read by Ambassador Rosso.

Irish Crowd Hears Consul.

The sons of old Erin held the spotlight yesterday with Irish art and culture presented in displays, song and speeches. More than 5,000 loyal sons and daughters, assembling in Chicago to remember their native land, thronged the court of the Hall of Science for the ceremonies.

Speaking in pure Gaelic, D. J. McGrath, Irish Free State consul, told of the Ireland of old and the Ireland of today and tomorrow. Although it is doubtful that more than a handful in the vast audience understood the words, all were silent to enjoy the rhythm of the sentences.

Changing into English for the benefit of the Irish once removed from the old sod and for the benefit of the hundreds of other nationalities who were drawn by the music and the singing, the consul advised all those present to visit the Irish exhibit in the Travel and Transport building.

Tells How Erin Resisted Rome.

Other speakers included Tom Peet Cross, Irish scholar, who told the stirring history of the little island and recalled days when Ireland was the only nation to fight the Romans with sufficient success to maintain their own tongue and customs.

A chorus of Irish colleens, wearing banners of green, white, and yellow, embracing all of Ireland, sang the songs and danced the jigs and reels that have made the world see the Irish as a happy race in the face of adversity.

Two other special events were presented to create a gala day at the Fair. Culver Military academy cadets paraded with their bands in a review before officials of the Fair and leading naval and military officers of Chicago. For three days the cadets have been seeing the Fair and yesterday the A short program was presented in observance of Oklahoma day, with State Senator W. P. Morrison of El Reno making the principal address.

The attendance totaled 113,318 at 11:30 p. m.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—My studies at A Century of Progress in Chicago included some very intensive glaring at the human form, feminine, as disclosed for 15 cents a peek in several of the little skin-operas in the inclosure known as the Streets of Paris.

Although the architects who built the Exposition, in striving for the unusual, in some cases seemed to have completed the circle and to have returned to the igloo, the architecture of the ladies who performed or just merely held still for so much per look, per head, in the stuffy little oglerooms, proved to be strictly conventional, embodying no innovations.

It was not that they had completed a circle. They had never been away. Moreover, none of them was ever close to the exhibition standard established long ago by the Mr. Ziegfeld and it seemed a little presumptuous of the girls to set themselves up as objects of interest unless, perhaps, they regarded themselves as professional disenchantresses. In that case, I should say, they deserve to be rated as experts.

Conflicting Official Views.

Mr. Kelly, the mayor, having gazed upon all this intimate life for the first time today, finds it offensive and demands concealment. This may be chastity speaking, but not necessarily. The day was hot. Mr. Kelly's esthetic sense was as much exposed to offense in such a place on such a day as his sense of morality.

A Chicago judge in declining to take steps against the peek shows had said that some people wish to put pants on a horse and had dismissed a demand that the ladies be compelled to wear, anyway, something, lest the morals of the community and of the visiting trade be impaired by too direct contemplation of a reality which be held to be more depressing than salacious.

Therein the honorable court seems to have measured off a long step in sophistication which has been taken since the days of the kootch dancer of the traveling carnival and the western wheel burlesque show.

Once Caused Rude Remarks.

I recall when the boys—such shows usually were for the gents only—hollered and stamped and emitted rude remarks at the kootch ladies who danced in cotton tights and abundant other clothing such as veils and vests. But in the Streets of Paris, in the summer of 1933, the upside down girl trod her mirror, throwing her meaty image below as though down into a well, and the other ladies discoursed their weary routines in stuffy apathy. It was quite unnecessary of the master of ceremonies in the Palais de Dance, where the ladies jiggled in silhouette behind a linen screen to the music of a five dollar phonograph, to admonish the boys that this was an exhibition of art for lovers of art, and that therefore all present must refrain from vulgar comment—and throwing objects at the performers.

It was noticeable, too, that, although the management of these little studios generously invited those who had come late to remain for the next demonstration, which was always starting right away, even those who had come in last seemed to feel that a very little was at least enough. There never were any stragglers hanging back to confirm first impressions.

Contrasted with Beach Scenes.

The only curiosity I had left is, I understand, an old common one which has always been noticed in gents who find themselves present where immodest behavior is going on. It is expressed by the familiar question, "Little girl, how did you happen to get into this life?"

But the World Fair ladies of the Streets of Paris just saw an ad and, being out of work and wishing to eat and not being squeamish, responded in large numbers. Twenty dollars a week is a fair price for nature in the raw this summer and, at that, the ladies wore very little less, as a matter of business, than most ladies have been wearing on the beaches of Florida and northern resorts these last few seasons. But one would not ask a lady on the beach, "Little girl, how did you happen to get into this life?" She might be a highly respectable lady and her husband might punch somebody on the nose.

Country Going Broad-Minded.

The country is going broad-minded in the reaction against prohibition and the scoldings of the parsons in the church-crazy era which followed the war. The fine old idea that the poor are good and pious and the rich quite otherwise suffers damage when one examines the change. The country never was governed quite as intimately and people's conduct never was more closely dictated by authority than during the time when the nation was richest and office boys made pools to buy stocks on margin. But then only four states in the Union tolerated horse racing. Elsewhere the law held racing to be immoral.

Now that the people are poor there are not many states with sufficient population to support a horse meeting which do not authorize or anyway suffer the horses to run and the citizens to gamble their money. I was a reporter at the age of 15, but I never saw a roulette wheel in this country until I was rising 30 years. Gambling is common in most cities today where it used to be forbidden, and, what is more, prevented.

When the Country Was Rich.

Morris Gest, when he presented the undressed lady in the second act of "Aphrodite," cautiously painted her over with a layer of something like cake icing to abate the offense to the law and public morals. Even so, I believe he was raided and I know he was denounced by the late Dr. Straton.

That was a dozen years ago in a rich country.

Today, at the end, one hopes, of the great poverty, the citizens in the Streets of Paris would consider Mr. Gest's show prim, sticky, and without any point. A lady in a layer of cake icing is not undressed now.

The Streets of Paris show puts the boys in a difficult position. What are they going to use for an extreme after this?

NUDITY ROUTED FROM FAIR BY KELLY CRUSADE

Undercover Police Squad Watches Shows.

Obscene shows were practically obliterated from the attractions of the Fair yesterday as the cleanup campaign instigated by Mayor Kelly and officials of the Exposition finished a two day sweep of the grounds.

A squad of south park police, acting under the orders of Mayor Kelly in his capacity of president of the south park board, were mingling with the show audiences last evening. They were in plain clothes and in many cases accompanied by their wives and sweethearts.

The under cover detail was under orders to visit the shows and immediately close any that pandered to low appetites as their only reason for existence. In general, the present aim at the Fair is to allow any show which might be presented on the legitimate stage.

Officials Visit Night Spots.

An inspection party of south park officials last night visited three of the night spots, but were apparently content with the shows they witnessed. Those in the party were Philip Graver and William F. McDonnell, park commissioners; Milton E. Connelly, secretary of the park board; and Thomas F. Byrne, a trustee of the sanitary district.

Officials of the Exposition praised Mayor Kelly for his stand, and pointed out they have been trying to shut down objectionable shows since the Fair opened.

For the first time the officials are now confident of a unified support on the part of all enforcement agencies in the Fair's fight to maintain a decent attraction.

A majority of the shows escaped official ire by placing breast coverings and loin cloths on the girls and cutting out much of the suggestive dancing. Maj. Lenox R. Lohr told the showmen that vulgar gestures were not art, and would not be tolerated at the Fair.

Burlesque the Campaign.

Several of the showmen adopted the attitude of burlesquing the cleanup campaign. Long lace drawers of the pre-teddy era were worn by many of the girls, and one showman presented a fan dance with the dancer wearing red underwear. The crowds applauded the burlesque dances as well as ever they did the nude exhibitions.

The cleanup campaign was instigated after Mayor Kelly had paid a surprise visit to the Fair on Monday night and had expressed himself as "shocked and dismayed" at the nude exhibitions. After a conference with Maj. Lohr and George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the South parks, a general shutdown of objectionable shows was ordered.

OHIO'S GOVERNOR REFUTES FALSE RUMORS OF FAIR

Gives People of State True Facts.

BY HAL FOUST.

Columbus, O., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Gov. George White this afternoon advised the million and a half automobile owners of Ohio not to be misled by false reports of parking and traffic conditions at A Century of Progress.

"These malicious rumors," said the governor, "are circulated, I'm informed, by selfish interests that would profit by their lies. They can no longer be ignored. They have become so prevalent that many car owners may deprive themselves of the educational and amusement opportunities at the World's Fair.

"I've heard these false reports. I've heard them in various parts of Ohio. I heard them on the west coast; I just returned from a visit to California. They say automobiles with licenses of states other than Illinois are barred from entering Chicago during the Fair; or that no parking is permitted within miles of the Exposition.

Calls Reports Ridiculous.

"The statements are ridiculous to those informed about the real facts in Chicago but they are finding enough ears that there will be believers. The newspapers and motor clubs of Ohio will be performing a service to the public by giving wide circulation to the true facts. Chicago is caring for its visiting motorists with ample facilities for traffic and for parking."

The interview was given to THE TRIBUNE reporter and to George Barton of the Chicago Motor club, who have been touring the country in behalf of the World's Fair administration to promote automobile travel to A Century of Progress.

The governor's statement was submitted to the Associated Press for circulation throughout Ohio. Here in the capitol of the state W. V. Kneisley of the Columbus Automobile club disclosed that a travel agency, in drumming trade for bus lines and railroads, was responsible for a story that a private automobile from Ohio could not approach Chicago closer than twelve miles.

Other Sources of Rumors.

In other parts of the state THE TRIBUNE roadster, traveling as A Century of Progress official car, disclosed that railroad employés are repeating these reports, trying to drive travel off the highways into trains. Another guilty agent of gossip was a group of operators from Chicago trying to sell space in outlying parking lots with a yarn that cars could not park within three miles of the Exposition.

THE TRIBUNE roadster was dispatched to combat these reports after World's Fair officials declared the lies were hurting attendance at the Exposition and reducing Chicago's general business from the Fair visitors.

DIES OF TRAIN INJURIES.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

An exhibition of deep sea diving will be given at the submarine S-49 in the north lagoon today between 3 and 3:30 p. m. Allaben Anderson, chief gunner's mate of the S. S. Wilmette, will make the dives. Regulation navy equipment will be used.

Former Gov. Richard Yates and Mrs. Yates and Charles S. Deneen, former governor and former United States senator, have assured the committee on Illinois day, headed by Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan, that they will participate in the program Aug. 11. With other former governors they will be guests of Gov. Horner at the review of more than 9,500 troops of the 33d division of the Illinois National Guard.

The Lions club of Mentone, Ind., will bring about 125 boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 15 to the Fair tomorrow. They will visit the headquarters of Lions international and spend the day seeing the Exposition.

Mrs. Chaney Donald, 103 year old Negro woman who will participate in the pageant, "The Epic of a Race," in Soldiers' field on Aug. 12, was a slave in Tennessee and Arkansas. She has 11 children and more than a hundred descendants.

A coffee tree was planted at the A. & P. carnival last night by prominent Brazilians as a living testimonial to the South American republic's importance as a coffee producing country. Among those taking part in the ceremony were Alphonso De Lucca, Brazilian consul in Chicago, and Capt. Joao Alberto Lins de Barros and his wife of Brazil. Capt. de Barros and Mrs. Rosalina Coelho Lisboa Miller, Brazilian delegates to the Fair, called on Mayor Kelly at the city hall yesterday.

Pahihatchi and Ichtchawi, meaning long grass and dipper of water, respectively, in the Seminole language, obtained a license to wed in the county building yesterday. They are both from the Seminole Indian village at the Fair.

A registration and information bureau for alumni of the University of Illinois has been established in the Illinois exhibit in the Hall of States. The directory will be arranged by classes, with local as well as home addresses, so that any alumnus registering can see at once who his or her classmates are who have already registered and where they can be reached if still in Chicago.

The art of the orient will feature a program on the floating theater in the north lagoon Aug. 22. Final details were announced yesterday by the foreign participation and events departments of the Fair. Two of the leading artists will be Wadeeha Atiyeh, who has presented the songs of the east in theaters all over the world, and Julia Taweel, a classical dancer.

The queen of the tropics, who will preside over the exhibit of tropical plants and flowers at the garden and flower show in the Horticultural building at the Fair, will be selected Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the outdoor gardens of the Horticultural building. The selection will be made by Buddy Rogers, orchestra leader.

PANAMA CANAL EMPLOYES SHOW 419 GAIN IN YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA HEIGHTS, Canal Zone, Aug. 2.—The Panama canal's employés have increased 419 in the last year, officials revealed today. Of the Canal Zone's 31,839 residents, 7,591 are employés. Of these 2,520 are Americans. President Roosevelt has approved an outlay of $1,000,000 for canal construction. This includes $300,000 for a junior college and $100,000 for a dump barge.

SCOTCH COP'S GIFT ENABLES AN IRISH BOY TO SEE FAIR

An Irish schoolboy was enabled to see Irish day at the Fair yesterday through the generosity of a Scotch policeman. The boy, Harry Maloney, who lives at 600 North Limestone street, Springfield, O., was arrested when he climbed the fence at the 23d street entrance to the Fair. At the Fair police station he explained to Sergt. Tim Droney that he needed 20 cents more to pay his admission and had come from his home just for the Irish day celebration. As Sergt. Droney reached in his pocket for the money, Sergt. Tom Murray, who is a Scotchman, handed the boy 20 cents and told him to buy a ticket.

7,000,000TH FAIR VISITOR RECALLS 1893 EXPOSITION

Henry J. Salmon, a Milford, Ill., farmer who will be 74 years old tomorrow, yesterday was honored as the seven millionth visitor to the Fair. With him were his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Salmon, and two grandsons, Vernon and William Salmon. Mr. Salmon was presented with a bronze World's Fair medal, free tickets to concessions, box seats to the International Air races to be staged in Chicago Sept. 1, 2, 3, and 4, and a supply of World's Fair stickers for his automobile. He was also a visitor to the Columbian Exposition.

ROB APARTMENT MANAGER.

A masked bandit yesterday held up William Pickel, 4520 Malden avenue, in the lobby of the Haddon Hall apartments at 4528 Malden avenue, of which he is the manager, and took $225.

INJUNCTION SUIT IS FILED AGAINST RAILWAY TO FAIR

Attorney General Kerner filed a bill yesterday in the Superior court seeking to restrain the Grant Park Transportation company from operating its narrow gauge railway leading the the World's Fair and to compel the company to remove its tracks from the park.

The south park commissioners are also made defendants in the case. The bill asks that the railroad be required to account to the park board for fares already collected, and that the board account in turn to the state. An injunction is sought to restrain the company from dissipating any of its funds by payment of dividends or salaries.

The attorney general charges that the ordinance under which the park board permitted construction of the railroad is unconstitutional because of earlier court decisions forbidding the construction of buildings in the park.

SHERIFFS FAIL AS ENFORCERS OF LAW, POLICE TOLD

Prof. Hatton Takes Slap at Meyering.

Sheriffs, as their offices are now conducted, are failures in enforcement of the law, the convention of International Chiefs of Police in the Hotel Sherman was told yesterday by Prof. Augustus R. Hatton of Northwestern university's department of political economy.

"Perhaps we should not get rid of the office entirely," the professor said, "but while he must serve both as an officer of the court in civil matters and as a law enforcement agent the sheriff is of no use."

Takes Slap at Meyering.

Specific criticism was leveled by the professor at Sheriff William D. Meyering of Cook county.

"Unfortunately," he said, "through the state constitution, the sheriff of Cook county has charge of the prisons in addition to his other duties. I am frank to say that the present sheriff is not even capable of taking care of the prisoners."

An efficient warfare against crime, Prof. Hatton declared, requires that police agencies and county prosecuters be responsible to the same head. He pointed out that at present prosecutors often nol pros cases after the police forces have worked hard gathering evidence and making arrests.

Points to U. S. Prosecutions.

The federal government, it was pointed out by the speaker, has coordinated the work of investigators and district attorneys and brought a large proportion of its prosecutions to successful conclusions.

Reform is also needed, Prof. Hatton said, in the practice of calling out state troops whenever local authorities are unable to cope with crime, which he termed "bad policy."

"Soldiers are not trained to be policemen," he averred, "and the governor should have power to draft police from all cities of his state and send them to the distressed communities. Policemen would be far more capable in such emergencies than the military."

Sees Need for U. S. Help.

Another speaker, Emory J. Smith, assistant attorney general of Illinois and a member of the crime detection laboratory staff of Northwestern university, told the chiefs why regular law enforcing agencies had been ineffective and why the assistance of the federal government was needed in the fight on criminals.

Mr. Smith's estimates placed the national crime bill at twelve to twenty billion dollars annually. The "crime tax," he declared, is now $135 a year for the average American family, as compared to $40 per family in 1913.

"State Boundaries Gone."

"The people of the United States are entitled to the protection of the federal government against crime," he said. "Since the advent of hard roads, automobiles, and airplanes state boundary lines have been obliterated. We have no police mechanism by which, when a crime is committed in one state the culprits can be followed into another. The destruction of property and loss of life is a challenge to the American people to invoke extraordinary legal remedies to curb this terror.

"The congress, in order to save the banks, industry and agriculture, has bestowed dictatorial powers upon the President. As much decisiveness is required in this crime problem. I believe there is a precedent for the President to act in the present crisis and to crush this malignant growth. No great hardship would be experienced by the masses of decent, law abiding people in the event of declaration of martial law to suppress gangsters."

Lays Marches to Communists.

Maj. Ernest Brown, superintendent of police at Washington, D. C., declared that hunger marches on the national capital had been inspired by communists who desired the overthrow of the American form of government. He urged that if more such marches are started the local police halt them at once by forcing observance of health regulations in marchers' camps.

Today, which marks the end of the convention, the assembled chiefs will be addressed by Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general in charge of racketeering investigation. He will speak on the government's plans against rackets.

Customs Official Repudiates Appointment of Successor

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Carl Eastwood, local customs collector, refused today to resign to make room for Mrs. Stanley V. Hodge, named as his successor last week by President Roosevelt. Eastwood, appointed by President Hoover, argued he can be removed for cause only. His commission runs until 1936, he said.

Bigamist Held to Grand Jury

Mrs. Lillian Huck Graves, wife No. 1, who caused the arrest of Graves.

George Graves, who was held to grand jury yesterday as bigamist. He married twice without obtaining divorce from his first wife.

First Wife Appears

George Graves, 53 years old, who admitted having three wives "to be sure of a place to sleep and something to eat," was held to the grand jury in bonds of $4,500 yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge Howard W. Hayes in the felony court on a charge of bigamy. Only his first wife, Mrs. Lillian Huck Graves, 842 Lill avenue, appeared in court. She said she had discovered he married Mrs. Tillie Berkley Graves, 1433 West Chilerton street, on April 20. Then, she said, he married Mrs. Clara Frost Graves, 2906 North Racine avenue, on June 3. Wives No. 2 and No. 3 will be summoned to appear before the grand jury, Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash said.

GIVES FUND $10 SO POOR MOTHER MAY TAKE OUTING

Camp Algonquin Gifts Now Total $1,553.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Some tenement mother who has longed for that joyous trip to Camp Algonquin is going to get it through the kindness of a woman who said she couldn't be happy on her own vacation unless she sent a mother to the camp.

"I cannot go away on a vacation without first contributing something toward a vacation for some poor mother," wrote S. D. M. in sending $10 to the Camp Algonquin fund, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. "I love children and I know they need all the help they can get, but my heart aches most for the unfortunate mother who finds herself working so hard in a never ending circle of tasks without a moment's rest. To such a woman will you please apply my contribution so that she may have a rest, and some pleasure."

S. D. M.'s gift brought the Camp Algonquin fund to a total of $1,553.49. THE TRIBUNE'S Free Ice fund received $22 yesterday. One contributor who signed her letter "A Friend," sent $2 for "some little baby," adding "I wish I could make it a hundred." E. M. C., in sending $5, added: "I am very glad to do this and only wish it might be a larger amount."

The other gifts were $13 from E. W. Puttkammer and $2 from S. This gives the ice fund a total of $1,320.53. All gifts to either fund should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

The body of a man about 35 years old, apparently a victim of drowning, was taken from the lake at North avenue yesterday and was sent to the county morgue. The body was clad in a white shirt, gray trousers, black socks and shoes. There was a wrist watch on one arm and a pearl handled knife in one of the trousers pockets. It was believed death occurred about two days ago.

Car Hurtled on Sidewalk Kills Little Girl.

Five deaths in automobile accidents in Cook county yesterday increased the motor toll since Jan. 1 to 588.

The most spectacular of the accidents took place when a car driven by William J. Spalten, 4439 Nevada street, collided with another at Lavergne and Gladys avenues, swerved on to the sidewalk, and killed Dorothy Nolan, 7 years old, 4931 Gladys avenue. The driver of the second car was Wilbur J. Murphy, 902 South 4th avenue, Maywood.

Robert Svec, 15 years old, 2634 South Central Park avenue, died in the Mount Sinai hospital last night of injuries suffered when he fell from a truck on which he was hitching a ride at Troy street and Roosevelt road.

Woman Killed Near Loop.

The other victims were:

Mrs. Rita Gerace, 39 years old, 1152 Sedgwick street. Died in the Iroquois hospital of injuries incurred yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile at Market street and Jackson boulevard. The driver, Nathan Blackman, 33 years old, 5812 Wayne avenue, was held.

William Finley, 48 years old, 7124 Merrill avenue. Died in Billings Memorial hospital of injuries incurred July 31 when his automobile collided with a parked car in front of the hospital on 60th street.

Andrew Linstra, 66 years old, 9708 Eggleston avenue. Killed yesterday when his bicycle swerved into the side of an automobile at 102d and State streets. The driver, Fred Sidler, 60 years old, 9546 Calumet avenue, was not held.

A man carrying papers in his pockets bearing the name Morris C. Albert, 4157 Gladys avenue, Chicago, was killed early this morning in a collision between an automobile and a truck near Mount Olive, Ill. He was about 35 years old.

Four Injured on Way to Fair.

Four Texans en route to the Fair were severely injured yesterday when their automobile, traveling at high speed, turned over after a tire had blown out on Joliet road near Wolf road. The driver, Kenneth Leslie, 26 years old, of Bailey, Tex., is expected to die.

The others injured are Clyde Brown, 17, and his brother, J. B. Brown, 20, both of Bailey, Tex.; and Henry Allen, 20, of Honey Grove, Tex. All were taken to the Hinsdale sanitarium.

Four persons were injured early yesterday in an automobile collision at McCormick boulevard and Simpson street, Evanston. The injured are Mary Howell, 20 years old, 814 Michigan avenue, Evanston; and Ann Litchfield, 20, of Boston, and Thomas Bamire, 22, of West Somerville, Mass., who were riding with her; and Jack Conlin, 30, 1835 Ashland avenue, Evanston, who was driving alone in the other automobile. They were taken to the Evanston hospital.

NRA CODE ADDS 18,000 SIGNERS IN CHICAGO AREA

Chicagoans Accept Jobs on Enforcing Boards.

The "blue eagle" army of business men pledged to support President Roosevelt's reemployment campaign was increased by an enlistment of 18,432 new members in this district yesterday, raising the total registration to 44,731. Of this number, 6,811 are Chicago concerns which employ 357,694 workers.

The office of F. L. Roberts, district manager for the department of commerce, was again swamped under a deluge of pledges from companies and corporations in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa. At the United States courthouse the honor roll of Chicago concerns was scanned by the crowds. Thousands of the banners bearing the blue eagle, the emblem of the national recovery act, and the motto "We Do Our Part," were handed out to representatives of companies which had pledged cooperation with the campaign.

Some of the Chicago members of the "recovery boards" appointed by the President to lead the drive were interviewed yesterday. These boards are designed to be the enforcing agencies of the recovery codes, but their powers and methods of control have not yet been announced by the President.

Chicago Members Accept.

All three Chicago members of the "district recovery board" which will supervise operations in Illinois and Wisconsin indicated they would accept the appointment. Willoughby G. Walling, former president of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies and a Red Cross leader during the war, telegraphed his acceptance to Gen. Johnson, national administrator of the code.

Victor A. Olander, former secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, said he would accept gladly, expressing his approval of the NRA program. Miss Jane Addams, nationally known for her social service work, said she was willing to serve, although she had planned a six week vacation.

Of the appointees to the "state board," which will confine its duties to Illinois alone, Melvin A. Traylor is in the north woods and Edward N. Hurley is abroad, and neither is expected back for a month. Col. A. A. Sprague said he regarded it as a duty to accept, but reserved a definite statement. R. Douglas Stuart, president of the Cook County Emergency Welfare fund, also said he was not yet ready to comment.

Richard J. Collins, president of the Chicago civil service commission, indicated that he would accept. S. J. Duncan-Clarke, writer for an afternoon newspaper, indicated he might refuse because he needed a rest.

Big Companies Accept Code.

Among the large Chicago concerns from whom formal acceptances of the recovery code came yesterday were Montgomery Ward & Co., with 26,647 employés; Grigsby-Grunow company, 2,800 employés; General Outdoor Advertising company, with 2,500 employés, and Madame Love, Inc., with 2,500 employés. The pledge of Deere & Co. of Moline, one of the world's largest farm implement manufacturers, also was received. It was announced that the company had already put a 40 hour week into effect.

On the list of Wisconsin companies reported by Mr. Roberts were the Cutler Hammer company, with 2,881 employés, and Edward Schuster & Co., with 1,450 employés.

Problem of Working Hours.

Business leaders from all parts of the country continued to gather in Chicago to prepare trade codes for submission to Washington for Gen. Johnson's approval. Members of the American Stockyards association met at two hotels preliminary to a general meeting in the Congress hotel today. It was not expected that a final code would be reached today because of the complicated problem of working hours.

"You can't tell a cow when to get up and when to go to bed," remarked Charles S. Rauh of the Belt Railroad and Stockyards of Indianapolis, president of the association.

Other trade associations to meet were the American Dental Trade association; the By-Products Acid Manufacturers, Associated Retail Confectioners, Sales Book Manufacturers' association, Autographic Register Manufacturers' association, and the American Face Brick association.

J. W. Bergthold, superintendent of vocational service of unemployment relief in Cook county, reported that Montgomery Ward & Co. asked him for 15 girls to go to work under the terms of the blanket code, which provides for a 40 hour week and a minimum wage of $14 a week.

U. S. Plans to Rehire 1,000 Men for Geodetic Survey

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—About 1,000 men in many states will be returned to work by the commerce department as a result of the allocation of $2,600,000 by the public works administration to the coast and geodetic survey, Secretary Roper announced today.

The money will be expended within the next 12 months for the purpose of conducting surveying work throughout the country and along the Atlantic, gulf, and Pacific coasts. Mr. Roper said that the benefits would be widely distributed. About 70 per cent of the fund will be paid out directly as wages to men urgently in need of work.

"The remainder," Secretary Roper said, "will be spent chiefly for the operation of surveying parties and thus will contribute to the welfare of many small communities throughout the country.

Charts Out of Date.

"On July 15 it was necessary to lay off about 1,000 men scattered throughout the states who had been engaged on this work during the previous year. Practically all these men will now be reemployed.

"The work on which these men will be engaged consists of expediting progress on programs to which the federal government already has been committed and for which there is urgent present need. Most of the surveys on which the present charts are based were made 30 to 50 years or more ago. Since that time both the forces of nature and the works of man have made radical changes in many sections of this area.

Cites Importance of Project.

"For example, the federal government itself has spent many millions of dollars in providing a navigable channel through the sheltered interior waters which extend in an unbroken belt from the eastern end of Long Island to the Mexican boundary.

"Mariners cannot derive the full benefit from these improvements until they are shown on the charts. About one-half the money will be spent for this purpose. As an indication of the commercial importance of this waterway, recent statistics show commerce in excess of $60,000,000 a year exclusive of the much greater commerce using those portions which connect the ocean with our principal ports. The activities of the coast and geodetic survey do not duplicate or overlap other government functions."

RAILROAD LABOR PARLEYS CALLED ON CODE TODAY

Cleveland, O., Aug. 2.—(AP)—A code for railway workers under the National Recovery Act will be discussed by the railway labor executive members here tomorrow. The meeting was called today by A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, one of the twenty-one railroad labor organizations in the United States.

Whitney had received many complaints from workers in various parts of the country that the "railroads were not going along with the President's recovery program," particularly toward increased employment.

Simultaneously at Cincinnati George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employés, said the railway labor groups were preparing to demand a code.

"Some action ought to be taken by President Roosevelt," Whitney said, "to make the National Recovery Act to apply so as to provide work for the 700,000 unemployed railroad men, and the railway labor executives association proposes to demand such action."

Whitney could not predict, however, what action would be taken, but was sure a national code for railway workers would be prominently discussed. He said he did not know the attitude of the railroads toward such a code.

The Whitney call comes with sixty days of the settlement of a wage dispute between the railways and the brotherhoods.

CROWD PROTESTS AS NRA STORES VIOLATE PACT

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Police were called last night to disperse a crowd which had gathered in front of two food stores to protest their remaining open after the hour set for closing by local merchants adopting the national recovery code.

The crowd, estimated by police at 300, indicated its disapproval verbally, but moved away quietly after policemen arrived.

Frank W. Anderson, chief of police, then asked all stores still open to close, and the proprietors complied.

Threatens Des Moines Stores.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Five Des Moines grocers today said they had received threats of violence after refusals to abide by the opening and closing hours set here recently.

The Des Moines Retail Grocers' association recently voted to open all stores at 8 a. m. and close at 6 p. m. The threats were made yesterday after the five stores failed to close on schedule.

The five grocers declared they were following provisions of the NRA code and were displaying NRA emblems. They maintained they had arranged to comply with the 48 hour week and minimum pay scale.

HANGS HIMSELF IN HOME.

MOVIE MAKERS TOLD TO HASTEN CODE'S WRITING

Oil Trade, Shirt Factory Hearings Held.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The three major branches of the motion picture industry were told today by the recovery administration that they must get together and submit as early as possible a wage increasing, hour regulating agreement.

The word was sent to eight organizations in a telegram from Sol A. Rosenblatt, deputy administrator.

"The motion picture industry, at present divided into groups and factions," Rosenblatt told them, "must compose its differences and unite as far as possible to submit a code at the earliest moment. I understand various groups are working separately They must work together."

Rosenblatt invited representatives of the producers, distributors and exhibitors to a meeting in New York Aug. 8 "to formulate a compact representative authorized group for code formulation purposes."

Packers Preparing Code.

Representatives of the Institute of American Meat Packers are framing a temporary labor code for their industry to make them eligible for display of the reemployment campaign's "blue eagle" pending action on a formal trade practice agreement.

A committee for the industry conferred today with Robert L. Stevens, liaison man between the recovery administration and the farm administration. Following the meeting it was indicated that a definite decision would be reached within a day or two.

When the permanent packing code comes up it will be handled by the agricultural administration, since the farm angle is dominant in the meat packing business, but a representative of the industrial control unit will sit in to see that labor terms measure up to the NRA standards. The temporary agreement, affecting wages and hours only, is to be handled by NRA alone.

Green Opposes Johnson.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told newsmen today he disagreed sharply with the view of Hugh S. Johnson that taking a secret vote among steel employés on whether they like the company union system is outside the sphere of the recovery administration.

Green promised he would carry his case further. He said a ballot, to be true in its verdict, would have to be secret, but it would repudiate the company union policy overwhelmingly.

As to the pending oil code, advocates of government price control are continuing to urge approval of that by Hugh S. Johnson. Today's hearing was before Deputy Administrators K. K. Simpson and Phillip Kemp.

The hearing also brought a clash between J. F. Faulkner of Baltimore, representing a group of independent retail dealers, and Kemp, in which Kemp threatened to call a guard to put Faulkner out unless he sat down

Faulkner demanded that he be heard in opposition to the lease and agency practice of binding dealers to handle exclusively the products of one distributor.

Permission for him to speak was granted after Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and chairman of the advisory board aiding Johnson, interceded.

Garment Code Controversy.

Hearings on codes of competition for the cotton garment and shirt industries opened today with some divisions of the manufacturers seeking exemptions. Southern manufacturers requested greater wage differentials than proposed. Labor announced its intention to demand shorter hours and higher wages than the employers suggested.

The code for the cotton garment industry called for a 40 hour week and minimum wages of 30 cents an hour in the south and 32½ cents in the north. The shirt code provided for a 40 hour week with minimum wages of $11 and $12, respectively, for south and north. Labor intended to ask a 35 hour week with minimum wages of $15 in the south and $16 in the north. Both codes abolished child labor, called for elimination of prison labor and prison made materials, and, with certain exceptions, would abolish home work.

DENIED HIS FACE CREAM, FIREMAN SEEKS DIVORCE

Even a husky fireman has his complexion to think of, and when his wife forbade Lauritz T. Nielsen, 1529 Belmont avenue, a member of hook and ladder company 21, the use of facial creams, that constituted cruelty, Nielsen charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Superior court by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

The wife, Mrs. Walberg Nielsen, now lives at 3538 Oketo avenue. She wouldn't let him use face cream, Nielsen charges, for fear that it would make him too attractive to other women.

ROOSEVELT IS READY TO BAR FOREIGN GOODS, JOHNSON SAYS

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was pictured here today by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, as ready to declare an absolute embargo on foreign made goods the moment it appeared their presence at cut throat prices in the American market was interfering with the success of the industrial recovery program.

The embargo declaration was in response to a question put to the administrator by John M. Flynn, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association. Mr. Flynn wanted to know what was to be done about cheap, foreign made goods glutting the market at a time when the administration was directing its energies toward increasing wages and shortening hours of labor in America.

"If these importations interfere with the success of the recovery program," Gen. Johnson replied, "the President has power, under the recovery act, to declare an embargo and if necessary, the President will do that."

of finance may be plastered with the increasingly familiar blue eagles of NRA.

Five Other Industries Affected.

During the day similar authority to operate under modified forms of the President's agreement also were granted to five other large industries:

Electrical manufacturers.
Radio manufacturers.
Rayon weaving industry.
Bedding industry.
Rayon and synthetic yarn producing industry.

Officials declared that the new orders, which follow closely upon similar concessions made to grocers and other retailers, will result in granting new employment to at least 100,000 of the idle and will increase wages in those industries substantially.

Permanent Codes Later.

The bankers, in the modified agreement which they will sign, accepted the minimum wages of from $12 to $15 per week for their employés, and they accepted also the 40 hour week, all as prescribed by the President. The only concession they asked was that the working periods be averaged over five weeks so that during times of periodic settlements, payments, or emergencies in serving the public employés will be permitted to work longer hours. At other times they will work shorter hours, so that the eventual balance will be 40 hours per week.

It also was provided that the working hours would not apply to guards and watchmen employed to safeguard assets of the banks who cannot be shifted or changed during night periods.

Electrical Code Provisions.

The temporary code of the electrical manufacturers affords their industrial workers a 36 hour week at 40 cents an hour minimum wage, and the white collar workers $15 for a 40 hour week. The same scales of hours and minimum wages will be applied to the radio manufacturing workers.

In the rayon weaving industry the temporary scales were fixed at 40 hours a week, with a minimum wage of $12 weekly in the south and $13 in the north, following the cotton textile code. The rayon and synthetic yarn group agreed to a flat $13 minimum for the country, along with a 40 hour week. In the bedding industry employés will work 40 hours a week, boys between 16 and 21 and women receiving a minimum wage of 33 cents an hour in the south and 35 cents in the north, and men receiving 39 cents an hour in the south and 40 cents in the north.

All of the temporary code agreements included the abolition of child labor under 16.

The regimentation of American industry has taken the widest form of federal control in the case of the cotton textile code, it was revealed today, when amendments to the code were approved and made public.

In the first instance, at the conclusion of the public hearings on the cotton textile code, a committee was formed by the Cotton Textile institute and called "a planning and fair practice committee" for the guidance of the administration in fixing production, receiving and investigating complaints, and in recommending price fixing and any other measures.

Gen. Johnson put three members of the administration, including himself, on that committee, but without vote, to represent the public.

Subcommittees were formed, including one to receive and act upon hundreds of complaints that the code was being violated. Since the members of this committee are heads of textile companies, they are often put in the position of passing upon complaints pressed against their own competitors.

Affects Individual Plants.

Today an even more significant and drastic step was taken when the code was amended to provide for the appointment of boards and committees, reaching down into individual plants, to pass upon disputes between workers and employers.

At the top of this organization will be a national industrial relations board, appointed by Administrator Johnson and including three members, one nominated by employers, one by workers, and one by the government. This board will operate upon per diem salary, and will be given "such secretarial and expert technical assistance as it may require in the performance of its duties."

This board will nominate, and Gen. Johnson will appoint, similar boards in every state. Then, whenever any controversy arises in any mill, "as to the stretch-out or specialization system, or any other problem of working conditions," the employer and the workers in that mill will appoint a committee, with equal representation on both sides, to attempt an agreement on the dispute.

CHRISTENS NEW BABY NIRA AND RECEIVES ROOSEVELT LETTER

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today honored Mrs. Christopher J. Collins Jr., and her new daughter, Nira, who was christened in honor of the national industrial recovery act. It read:

"My dear Mrs. Collins: It is with sincere pleasure that I have heard about your new baby daughter and the sincere tribute you have paid to our effort toward industrial recovery by christening her Nira in honor of the national industrial recovery act.

"Signifying the faith, confidence and cooperation necessary in any great human endeavor, I compliment you on your choice, and hope that your baby will be healthy and happy in the better days to come. Very sincerely yours, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The father was at work on one of the jobs he said was created within the last few weeks by Nira.

"HI" DRIVING COST

When you get off the CONCRETE, HIGH DRIVING COST gets in. Repair bills on your car go up. You buy more gasoline, use up more tires. Depreciation is faster.

And that applies to any type of road that is LESS THAN CONCRETE!

Prove it? It's been proved—by government and state engineers who have been making impartial road tests since 1917. They have measured—in dollars and cents—what it costs to drive on each type of road. They've proved that it costs less to drive on CONCRETE than any other type of road.

That's why "cheap" roads are really expensive! For the real cost of a road is the cost of building and maintenance PLUS the cost of using it. CONCRETE ROADS save money. They cost less to maintain. They lower the cost of automobile operation. Insist on CONCRETE for economy, permanence and driving comfort.

FARMERS JOIN FIGHT AGAINST U. S. MILK CODE

300 Producers Object to Price Fixing.

More than 300 farmers, all producers of milk, gathered at Woodstock last night and declared their intention of warring against the milk trade agreement that has been signed by the Pure Milk association and the big Chicago distributors and approved by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

A new organization, to be known as the Dairy Farmers' Protective association, was formed and those present pledged themselves to make a campaign over the entire milk shed and enroll other producers opposed to certain sections of the milk code, which was supposedly designed to raise the price of milk to the farmers.

Object to Price Fixing.

Speakers, including E. L. Bost, long a leader of the more militant producers, and State Representative James Bolger, objected particularly to the method of reaching a base for milk prices. Under the agreement fluid milk commands a higher price than that put to other uses. The speakers contended that all milk should be paid for at a standard rate, based on quality only and regardless of the uses made of it. They also protested the control exercised over the market by the Pure Milk association.

The marketing code is already under fire by independent milk dealers who sell at stands outside the city limits on a cash and carry basis. Their application for an injunction restraining Secretary Wallace from enforcement of the code provisions is to be passed on by Federal Judge Wilkerson on Monday. Pending his decision the government, it was announced yesterday, will make no effort to close the independents' stands, although they have violated the agreement and defied federal administrative agencies.

Fixes Price at 10 Cents.

A requirement that no milk be sold under 10 cents a quart for fluid consumption is objected to by the independents, who assert that since their customers are their own deliverymen they deserve a lower price for supplies than persons whose milk is delivered on the back porch.

The federal administrators indicated that should the injunction be granted Monday, the department of agriculture would be restrained from enforcing the code pending an appeal. Should the injunction be denied, they stated, enforcement of the code would begin at once.

Two Courses Open.

Attorneys for the milk stand operators indicated yesterday that two courses of procedure were under consideration. If called upon to show reasons why their licenses should not be revoked, they could resubmit their contentions to Wallace that cash and carry milk should sell at a lower price than that delivered on credit. Or, it was pointed out, they could fail to appear, permit the license to be revoked without a hearing, and then seek to enjoin District Attorney Dwight H. Green from criminal action against them.

In either case, it was made clear by Joseph E. Green, attorney for the Independent Milk Distributors' association of Northern Illinois, the final objective of the independents is to obtain a ruling upon the constitutionality of the code.

CON GAME VICTIM IDENTIFIES ONE AS PERPETRATOR

Jack Nelson, house detective at the Dearborn Plaza hotel, 1032 North Dearborn street, who was defrauded of $500 recently in one of the most ancient of confidence games, went to the detective bureau last night and identified Edward Carter, 53 years old, 454 Wrightwood avenue, as a swindler.

According to Nelson, he went with Carter to South Bend, Ind., to aid the latter in closing a real estate deal. There they met three other men and agreed to make a few bets on the races. The bets all seemed to be successful and Nelson was informed he was $122,000 winner.

All he had to do to get it was to prove that he could have paid off if he had lost. When he proved he could put up $500, the swindlers took the evidence and fled.

POLICE ASSAILED BY MRS. PINCHOT IN SILK STRIKE

Phones "Her Mind" to Philadelphia Chief.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's chief executive, extended her picketing activities to Philadelphia today and denounced methods of police on strike duty at silk hosiery plants.

From Croyden, several miles north of the city, where she joined picket lines at the Blue Moon Silk Hosiery company plant, Mrs. Pinchot telephoned Joseph A. Lestrange, acting superintendent of police in Philadelphia, criticizing what she termed disrespect of constitutional rights of the strikers.

Addresses Strikers.

Her red hair set off by a bright yellow dress, Mrs. Pinchot addressed a gathering of 1,800 at Croyden and then conferred with a group of strikers from the Cambria Silk Hosiery company plant in Philadelphia before telephoning Lestrange.

"I am informed the police at the Cambria mills are as bad as deputy sheriffs at Lansdale and in the soft coal fields of Fayette county," she told him, referring to recent strike activities at those places.

"You ought to caution your men to respect the rights of the strikers in picketing and free speech," she went on.

Disorders Renewed.

Meanwhile, renewed disorders occurred at the Cambria plant today. Tomatoes and eggs were thrown at police while they attempted to disperse a crowd estimated at 2,000. A man was arrested, and a girl was beaten in the skirmish, which occurred as workers left the plant to go to their homes.

Police were acting under the order issued earlier that no picketing was to be permitted on the sidewalk in front of the plant.

The 24 men and four women arrested yesterday were discharged at a hearing in a crowded courtroom. Four men, alleged to have thrown stones through windows in which the NRA emblem was displayed, were released in $300 bond each.

Latter Day Saints Church Announces Signing of Code

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 2.—(AP)—President Heber J. Grant of the Latter Day Saints church today announced that institution would sign the NRA code, although its legal counsel has advised it does not come within the provisions of the law.

"The church gladly joins in the measures the President has inaugurated," he said, "and will meet, in its offices, the requirements made of industrial enterprises in the matter of minimum wages and maximum working hours for employes."

Ceremony Saturday

Two sisters, both graduates of the University of Chicago, will be married in a double ceremony Saturday evening at St. James Methodist Episcopal church, 46th street and Ellis avenue. They are Catherine Hall, who will become the bride of Theodore Armour Cooke, 1327 Hyde Park boulevard, and Martha Hall, who will be wed to Dr. James Wilson Clark, 6632 Greenwood avenue. The sisters live at 1142 East 45th street. The ceremony will be performed by Dr. William R. Wedderspoon, former pastor of the church.

AUSTRALIA ACTS TO BRING ORDER FROM RAIL CHAOS

Will Form Billion Dollar Corporation to Run Roads

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 2.—Facing a railroad crisis of the first magnitude Australia is proposing the creation of a national railroad corporation with a capital of more than one billion dollars to take over the operation of the roads.

The importance of the railroads in the national economy is seen by the fact that last year the railway department of all states were in the red to the extent of $1,700,000 more than the total income tax collected in the commonwealth. Each state has its own government owned system and each system is run without any attempt to obtain unity with the other operators. The federal government also owns a railway department.

Roads Lose Much Money.

It is reckoned that if the reorganization now planned is carried through Australia's financial troubles will soon disappear. For years past the railroads have lost money at an alarming rate and in the last ten years they have eaten up more than $500,000,000 of the people's money. The drive to end this seeks to establish a national railroads' corporation, to be created by a special charter, which will take over the merged roads.

The basis of valuation on which the railroad systems would be handed over to the corporation is now under discussion, but the official proposal is a figure of $1,200,000,000 which is set down as their "exploitation value" and will mean the writing off of $560,000,000 by which the roads are now overcapitalized. The commonwealth government suggests that the amalgamation shall take place under guidance of the federal transport council.

Capital of the new corporation will consist of 51 per cent common stock and 49 per cent preferred stock bearing interest at 4 per cent and guaranteed by the government. This cumulative stock will be listed as first class trustee security, making it available for investment by many people who are acting as executors of estates and limited by law to the class of stock which they may take up.

Thus the government visualizes creation of a first class security of more than $500,000,000 and the preferred stock will be secured against twice its face value in assets. This scheme for refinancing the roads has now gone to the scrutiny of a committee of experts who are to report on the details.

See Need for Overhauling.

The federal government claims that the rehabilitation of railroad finance is possible only if a far reaching scheme of reconstruction of the whole railroad system is put into operation. Administration and running of the roads alike need overhauling and federal authorities claim that one of the necessities is a complete plan of coordination of all forms of transport.

Efforts to check the drift in railroad finance by the indiscriminate elimination of competitors, a plan commending itself to countries where the roads are state owned, are seen as ineffective because of the fact that "Australia is well into the period of transition in methods of transport," in terms of the federal report on the matter. Thus reorganization is visioned as necessarily complete.

One feature of the plan is the creation of a "railroads' dead assets fund" which is likely to be the center of controversy for some time. Under this scheme a 5 per cent tax is proposed to be levied on the gross revenue earned by all forms of transport where passengers are carried, embracing not only automobiles but air lines and inland water steamship lines and street railways.

Consider New Taxes.

On the basis of the $155,000,000 earned by this form of transport in 1931 the federal government figures that there will be at least $7,000,000 available each year to pay interest on the government bonds issued for the money which was invested in the railroads and is now represented by dead assets.

In addition the administration is considering levies of 25 per cent on motor registration and license fees, 25 per cent on gasoline imports and 25 per cent on automobiles and parts. Possible revenue from these forms of taxation would range up to $20,000,000 a year.

If the reorganization plan is put through some provision will have to be made to obtain money to meet interest on these "dead" bonds and for that purpose a minimum of $26,000,000 will be needed each year.

NEW YORK'S FIFTH HOT DAY RAISES DEATH LIST TO 45

Temperature Is 95; Open River Piers to Swimmers.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—New York and its environs passed through the fifth successive day of terrific heat. Twenty-two persons died in or near the city from causes directly attributable to the high temperature.

This number exceeded the combined total of fatalities for Monday and Tuesday. On Monday seven were killed by the heat and on Tuesday twelve others died similarly. The total for the last five days is put at 45.

Although a few drops of rain fell late in the day, no relief was experienced. Most of the day the temperature hovered about 90 degrees. At 3 p. m., according to the weather bureau's official reading atop the Whitehall building, it reached its maximum of 95. This was the same as Tuesday's high mark, and was 1 degree below the hottest Aug. 2 on record.

Only Trace of Rain.

The rain, which fell over most of the city forties, beginning just after 6:30 p. m., amounted to less than a hundredth of an inch, and sent the temperature down only from 88 to 86 degrees.

A light wind that started blowing shortly after 3 p. m. had more effect, reducing the temperature to 86 at 4 o'clock. But the wind abated and by 5 o'clock the mercury was back to 90.

Boys who have turned on fire hydrants throughout the city without permission have caused a loss of more than two billion gallons of water in the last two days, water department officials said. Many householders complained of failing pressure.

All city departments were directed by Mayor O'Brien to do whatever they could to make citizens more comfortable during the hot wave. He issued orders to the dock department to keep sixty piers on the North and East rivers open tonight for the convenience of the public.

Thousands Sleep on Beaches.

Thousands of persons slept on the beach at Coney Island again tonight. Special police protection was provided. Some of the campers brought pillows and sheets and others slept on newspapers. About 650,000 persons visited the beach during the day. About 300,000 were at the Rockaways.

A SYMPHONY OF MOVING FEET!

Feet, feet, feet, moving up and down again. (Apologies to Mr. Kipling.) Miles of feet. Hundreds of miles of steps. Thousands of aches and pains. Feet that are tired. Feet that hurt, perhaps. But feet that need not hurt—for through correctly fitted shoes, or shoes that provide the support weak feet require, comfort could be substituted for discomfort. Pleasure for aches and pains.

The Store for Men's great shoe section is ready to provide that comfort. For in these days when feet are put to unusual strain both in the seeking of entertainment and in the pursuit of business, scientifically correct footwear is of the utmost importance. And for years we have specialized in "foot comfort". Foot comfort that is the result of experience in fitting feet with the sole idea of correcting any foot trouble. Foot comfort that is the result of suggesting the right type of shoes to keep good feet well. Foot comfort that comes from the sound advice given by experts as well as from the use of scientific fitting machines that insure your feet getting the exact shoes they require.

Feet, feet, feet. Feet that are tired, feet that are weary from miles of tramping through long aisles; from walking back and forth along the Midway; from wandering up and down endless corridors. A Century of Progress—a symphony of moving feet. Of feet that should be—and could be—comfortable feet.

TERRY DRUGGAN FINDS U. S. CELL NOT SO CONFINING

Suspend Three Officials for His Ins and Outs.

By telephone calls from the young woman's residence, Druggan kept in touch with his brothers, George and Willie, at the Druggan farm in Lake Zurich, Ill., and with the Druggan brewery interests.

Terry was able to discard his prison garb and blossom forth in white silk shirts, flannels, and a soft fedora hat when he went to call upon his sweetheart. In addition to making frequent telephone calls to his mother and brothers, back in Chicago, he had them come to him in the girl's residence on occasions.

No word of Druggan's trusty status reached Washington until the warden reported that it had been temporarily revoked, Bates said today. Word was then sent not to permit Druggan any trusty privileges. How flagrant the privileges had been because of the connivance of the chaplain, the guard and the foreman auto mechanic, was not disclosed until the investigation was made.

FIND RESIDENCE OF GIRL.

A doorplate bearing the name, Bernice Van de Houten, was found at 5246 Glenwood avenue last night by a caller investigating such a name and address as mentioned in dispatches from Leavenworth telling about the latest Terry Druggan prison scandal. The name and address were checked from the license of an automobile seen frequently in front of a Leavenworth mystery house which Druggan allegedly visited.

The Van de Houten apartment is on the third floor. Neighbors described the occupant as a comely, blonde young woman, about 32 years old. They knew her as a widow, they said. She appeared to be of the retiring type, affable in a neighborly way, and quiet, they added. She moved into the apartment a little over a year ago. Neighbors said they saw her last about two days ago. The apartment was dark last night, however, and no one answered the doorbell. Nor was there any answer to a telephone call.

During the last decade Druggan has been in one scrape after another with the federal and state courts. These troubles broke first into the headlines in 1925 when revelations were made that he and his partner, Frankie Lake, then prisoners in the Cook county jail, were receiving extraordinary privileges. The two were federal prisoners, serving a year's sentence each for illegally operating a brewery, and the federal authorities investigated.

The result was that Federal Judges James H. Wilkerson, who originally sentenced the men, cited Druggan, Lake, Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman, Jail Warden Wesley Westbrook, and several jail attachés for contempt of court. The trial was preceded by reports that Druggan, buying special liberties for himself and Lake, had paid Westbrook $20,500 and had passed money to others, excepting Hoffman.

At the contempt hearing Druggan and Lake took the witness stand and calmly charged that they had handed out gratuities liberally. They named Westbrook and the latter's former secretary, Henry Foerst, as principal recipients. According to Druggan, he "kicked in" $2,000 a month, $1,000 on the 1st and 16th of each month. He charged he also paid $2,000 to get Lake out of jail on good time allowance and $1,500 for a similar arrangement for himself. Lake got out. Druggan didn't.

Many Jail Vacations.

Government prosecutors charged that Druggan was permitted to leave jail, without guard, on more than 50 occasions. Druggan put the number at 30, and said that his liberty averaged around five or six hours each time, most of it spent with a young woman in an apartment at 999 Lake Shore drive, where they lived as Mr. and Mrs. Mulvihill.

On the surface, Druggan's grants of liberty were to enable him to go to a loop dentist's office for dental treatment. The beer baron actually went to the dentist's office, but for only a few minutes on each occasion of liberty. These visits, it was charged, were authorized by Sheriff Hoffman.

Judge Wilkerson on Oct. 14, 1925, sentenced Sheriff Hoffman to one month in jail and Westbrook to four months in jail. Hoffman in addition was fined $2,500. A criminal trial in the following year resulted in the acquittal of Hoffman and others. In May, 1927, Judge Wilkerson fined Druggan $1,000 and gave him 30 days for the 1925 jail scandal, and found Lake not guilty.

33D DIVISION AWAITS 50,000 GUESTS FOR CAMP ON SUNDAY

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Illinois national guardsmen at Camp Grant are preparing to entertain approximately 50,000 visitors on Sunday. The visitors will see special ceremonies in honor of Brig. Gen. John J. Garrity, retired commander of the 66th infantry brigade, and will watch the camp's annual horse show. Gov. Horner is expected to spend 24 hours in the camp, arriving Saturday afternoon.

JUDGE FINES 100 MOTORISTS WHO LACK LICENSES

Alibis were of no avail yesterday in the Traffic court of Judge Eugene J. Holland, where the dockets listed the names of 415 persons to whom summonses had been issued for not having automobile licenses. About 100 responded and each was fined $5. Warrants were issued for the 300 or more who did not appear in court. The judge authorized his clerks to accept the $5 fines from defendants without the formality of a hearing unless a defendant insisted on being heard. Several defendants pleaded they were not the owners of the cars they drove and they were told to bring in their employers or whoever owned the automobiles.

BRITAIN, FRANCE, ITALY MAP JOINT REBUKE TO NAZIS

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 2. — The British, French and Italian governments are about to take joint action to discourage German Nazi demonstrations over the Austrian frontier.

Consultations have been taking place for several days among the foreign offices of the three powers regarding recent flights of German airplanes over Austrian territory and the dropping of Nazi propaganda leaflets.

Within a day or two joint representations will be made through the ambassadors in Berlin and a polite reminder will be given to Chancellor Hitler's government that the spirit of the four power pact to guarantee European peace is being violated.

Plan No Outright Protest.

No outright protest is contemplated as yet, although all three governments, especially the British, have become increasingly annoyed by the Nazi pinpricks toward Austria.

If serious violations of Austrian territory by the Nazis should occur there is no doubt that Britain would act swiftly to protest them as infringements of the treaty of Versailles, in which Germany agreed to Austria's independence.

Gets Hearing for U. S. Prisoner.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—George S. Messersmith, United States consul general, has demanded and obtained a hearing for Walter Orloff of Brooklyn, who has been held in Greifswald, Pomerania, since July 1 on a charge of having participated in communistic activities there and in Stettin.

Orloff, a medical student at the University of Greifswald, will be brought to Berlin tomorrow and examined by the police in the consul general's presence to establish his guilt or innocence.

News of Orloff's arrest was brought to the attention of Messersmith by two American fellow students, but it was only recently that the American consular officials were apprised of the exact nature of the charges.

Under recent decrees sponsored by Premier Goering of Prussia complicity in communistic and other subversive activities is punishable with death.

Prussia Tightens Prison Rules.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(AP)—More rigorous treatment of prisoners, both men and women, in Prussia was announced in a new law made public today.

The main provisions specified that a prisoner will be worked harder, especially in land reclamation and other manual labor, the proceeds of which will go to pay part of their keep. Good conduct privileges were made more difficult.

Hans Kerrl, Prussian cabinet member, explaining the law, said:

"The time is past for jail birds being treated to lectures, games and the cinema, making them better off than jobless or laborers. The only effective punishment is to make the offenders dread prison life."

A plea of extenuating circumstances will in the future be allowed only in exceptional cases. Ordinary prisoners will be permitted to receive visitors only once in six weeks and those in the penitentiary once in three months.

German Vets Cause Riot.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The arrival here today of a group of German war veterans on a pleasure trip was the occasion for street disorders in which two persons were wounded when Argentine Fascists and anti-fascists exchanged shots.

The Argentine Federation of Labor continued until tomorrow morning its strike which was declared yesterday in protest against the visit of the veterans which was alleged to be for purposes of Nazi propaganda.

BOUND OVER AS SLAYER.

Decorah, Ia., Aug. 2.—(AP)—M. T. Gratten today was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Claude Meade during a horse race argument.

TROOPS REMOVED AS UNIVERSITY OF HAVANA GUARDS

Civil Status Is Restored After Three Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 2.—The University of Havana, which has been under the rule of five infantry companies since Sept. 30, 1930, today was restored to its civil status. The troops were withdrawn and the property was placed under the custody of the university board, which includes both faculty members and students. Classes, however, will not be resumed until Cuba's political strife is further settled.

United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, who is pushing his program of political conciliation to completion, announced that he is investigating the recent series of disturbances, which oppositionists charge were caused by the government. No further clashes were reported today.

Electoral Code Submitted.

Meanwhile, Dr. Howard Lee McBain, Columbia university professor, handed President Gerardo Machado and Welles his draft of new electoral laws which are designed to eliminate frauds in the republic's elections. Dr. McBain will submit a plan of educational reorganization tomorrow.

Secretary of Treasury Octavio Averhoff will begin at once negotiations to secure a $45,000,000 loan from two or more New York banks, it was learned tonight. If successful, $35,000,000 will be used to liquidate internal indebtedness and $10,000,000 to relieve unemployment.

The debts are owed to business firms, to veterans for pensions and to public employés for back salaries.

SAME BANDITS ROB CLUB AND OFFICE IN LOOP

Within 15 minutes yesterday two young bandits held up the Tower Finance company, 28 East Jackson boulevard, and the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club, 321 Plymouth court. At the finance company they took $332 and at the club they obtained $393.

The youths first entered the finance company offices and terrorized four employés and several customers. From the safe they took $282 and from the customers they took $50. Sollie Redman, 1223 North Hoyne avenue, one of the customers, anticipated the robbery as he saw the youths enter and his in his pocket $60, which was not taken.

The bandits then entered the building at 321 Plymouth court and forced the elevator operator to take them to the club offices on the sixth floor. The club's two bookkeepers were forced to turn over $275 from the cash box and another $118 was taken from the club's bank messenger.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $141,391. A total of $31,665,464 has been collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began last April 28. The day's real estate tax collections and the uncollected taxes for four years are as follows:

Aug. 2	$ 20,469	$ 82,554
Uncollected	16,463,804	48,651,765

Suggest 20 Per Cent Valuation Cut.

In response to the request of Assessor J. L. Jacobs last week for information relative to a proposed reduction in 1932 real estate assessments, the board of tax appeals yesterday recommended a 20 per cent cut in the tax valuations of all classes of properties. Members of the board of appeals were the first of the civic and taxing agencies to reply to Jacobs' request.

The board of appeals suggested that the 20 per cent cut be made in addition to the 15 per cent reduction in 1931 assessments which was ordered by the board on home and two and three apartment buildings. An attack on the legality of this order is now pending before the state Supreme court.

Comment of the Assessor.

"There is nothing to say at this time," said Mr. Jacobs in commenting on the communication from the board of appeals. "I merely asked for data. The members of the board of appeals sent their suggestion. My office is making a survey under which it is hoped there will be a substantial reduction. This will be reflected in the assessment which is to be completed about next February.

"A 20 per cent cut, which the board of appeals urges, would not necessarily mean a 20 per cent reduction in tax bills. This could be assured only if the tax spending agencies did not increase their rates. It is likely the governmental bodies will increase rates if assessments are reduced unless public pressure is brought against such action."

GIVES TENTATIVE O K. TO DIVIDEND BY CLOSED BANK

Judge Robert E. Gentzel gave tentative approval yesterday in the Superior court to the payment of a 15 per cent dividend to depositors in the Kaspar-American State bank, Blue Island avenue and 19th street, which closed June 24, 1932.

He entered an order for the payment on Sept. 1, but at the same time instructed Otto Ring, attorney for Receiver Arthur H. Meyer, to file a motion to set aside the order, which was set for hearing on Sept. 1. The payment order will be rescinded if present plans to reorganize the bank are successful before that date.

Attorney Edward Sager, representing a group of depositors, attacked the reorganization plan, under which depositors would be required to assent to the "freezing" of 60 per cent of their deposits. They have already received a 10 per cent dividend. Attorney Sager charged that "a group of politicians" were backing the reorganization plan.

Rob Woman of $891 in Daylight Street Holdup

Mrs. Grace Fells, bookkeeper for the Crystal Cleaners and Dyers at 2637 North Halsted street, was robbed of $891 by three men at Dewey place and Halsted streets yesterday afternoon. She had drawn the money a few minutes earlier from the Broadway Trust and Savings bank and was on her way to the plant when the bandits forced the car in which she was riding to the curb.

Judge Orders Arrest of Police Lockup Keeper Accused of Beating Sick Autoist

Warrants for the arrest of Policeman Walter Reimer of the Shakespeare avenue station on charges of larceny and assault were ordered issued yesterday by Municipal Judge Leon Edelman. The judge acted after hearing of the mistreatment of a prisoner who was suffering from a heart attack and who was arrested as the result of a policeman's error.

William Hinrichsen, 1213 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, an electrician, who is 40 years old, married and the father of two children, was the prisoner. He said he was arrested last Sunday evening when he was unable to drive his automobile farther without a drink of water, due to a heart attack.

Beaten at Station, He Says.

At the station, he testified, $196 was taken from him, he was beaten and kicked, placed in a cell in which there was no place to lie down or sit down, and which was in a filthy condition. When he fell down a few hours later a doctor was called and later he was sent to the county hospital and finally he obtained his release on $25 bail at 6 o'clock Monday morning, he testified.

"Mr. Prosecutor, I order you to draw up two bench warrants against this policeman, Walter Reimer, one charging assault and battery, the other charging the larceny of $196," said Judge Edelman after he had found Hinrichsen and Hinrichsen's 70 year old uncle, John Haar, 4750 North Damen avenue, not guilty of a charge of disorderly conduct.

"I have repeatedly said I am glad to coöperate with the police in law enforcement, but in line with Mayor Kelly and Commissioner Allman I am opposed to police officers taking the law into their own hands and am opposed to brutality at their hands."

Shows Bruises in Court.

Hinrichsen and Haar were represented in court by Attorney Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club. Attorney Braun presented four photographs of bruises on the chest and back and arms of Hinrichsen and with the permission of the court Hinrichsen bared himself to the waist, revealing several bruises. His right arm was bandaged and he said there was a large lump on it near the elbow.

In addition to his heart trouble Hinrichsen is hard of hearing. His uncle speaks English with difficulty.

"I was driving west on North avenue about 6 o'clock Sunday evening," Hinrichsen told the court. "Nearing Crawford avenue I had a heart attack and I stopped near the corner and told my uncle I was sick and had to get a drink of water. He was getting out to get the water for me when a policeman came up and said 'Hey, what are you parking there for, pull around here and get out.'

Charges Abusive Treatment.

"I told the policeman I was sick and he abused me. I couldn't hear what he was saying. My uncle was telling the policeman not to bother me, that I had done no wrong. He couldn't understand my uncle and he made me drive around the corner and then he called the patrol."

Policeman Philip Larsen, who has been on the force seven months and who arrested Hinrichsen and Haar, said he thought both had been drinking. He said his attention was called to them by a cab driver whose car was ahead of theirs and who said they had been zig-zagging their car.

"At the station I took them before Sergt. Drury Rowan, who asked Hinrichsen to walk up and down," Policeman Larsen testified. "The sergeant said he wasn't drunk enough to be charged with driving while intoxicated so I charged both with disorderly conduct."

The cab driver mentioned by Policeman Larsen was not produced in court. The policean said he had not obtained the man's name. Questioned by Attorney Braun the policeman said the cab had one or more passengers and that it remained at the scene for the ten or fifteen minutes until the patrol arrived.

Policeman Larsen, Sergt. Rowan and Policeman Reimer, who was the lockup keeper, all testified that Hinrichsen and Haar were noisy in the police station and threatened to have the policemen fired. Hinrichsen said he told the policemen they were making a big mistake in arresting him, that he had done no wrong and was sick.

Regarding the money, Hinrichsen said Lockup Keeper Reimer took his purse away from him over his protests and later offered it back to him without the money in it. The station records were produced to show that a receipt was made out for a purse, a wrist watch and a key.

Reimer said both Hinrichsen and Haar refused to give their names. He denied striking or kicking Hinrichsen or taking his money.

Doctor Called to Station.

Dr. T. S. Proud, 3014 Fullerton avenue, testified he was called to the station to examine Hinrichsen. The man's heart was in poor condition, the doctor stated. He complained that he had been robbed in the police station. The doctor said he advised the police that Hinrichsen would not die that night. He said he detected a smell of liquor on Hinrichsen's breath.

Hinrichsen denied that he had been drinking or having admitted to policemen that he had. Both he and Haar said they were denied the opportunity of bail, and were not permitted to call any one until 4 o'clock in the morning, ten hours after they were arrested.

Acting Capt. Peter Tomchek suspended Policeman Reimer after Judge Edelman had ordered the issuance of the warrants.

CANADIAN WAR VET DIES.

Walter G. Paige, 35 years old, 7719 North Hermitage avenue, a shell shocked and gassed Canadian war veteran, died yesterday of heart disease in his home.

BRITISH FARMERS REVOLT AGAINST TITHE PAYMENTS

10,000 Rebel; Arm with Guns, Sticks; Hoot Clergy

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Ten thousand farmers, located mostly in southern England, have banded together to resist tithe payments—a relic of the middle ages when persons were called upon to pay one-tenth of the produce of all land and labor to the support of the church.

Encounters have already occurred. Hundreds of warrants for distraint have been issued by judges of county courts, but auctioneers and officials who have tried to enforce them have been roughly handled. It took 40 policemen to hold back a crowd of farmers bent on violence when three bullocks were seized for tithe recently.

Armed with Sticks, Guns.

In Kent there are more than 600 unexecuted distress orders for unpaid tithes. Here the farmers have formed companies of workers armed with sticks and guns, have dug trenches around their buildings, and have even laid electrified wire in defense of what they consider their rights.

In some rural communities feeling has risen so high that the village clergyman is hooted in the streets by farmers whose cattle are scheduled to be sold to pay his stipend.

Yet the government seems powerless to intervene. There are so many sides to the problem that even the judges are at variance. Spokesmen say the farmers are suffering from the "effects of sixteenth century graft." The church says it has the law on its side and besides has a strong case in equity. The government points out that tithe payments were stabilized in 1925 by an act of parliament which, in its opinion, is both fair and reasonable.

Dates Back to Henry VIII.

The trouble really dates from the reign of Henry VIII. All institutions of the established church then received tithe payments to pay for the educational and social services that the clergy dispensed. But when King Henry raided the monasteries he transferred their tithe privileges to his friends.

Today, therefore, there are two main classes of tithe owners. First, there is Queen Anne's bounty, an ecclesiastical organization under the chairmanship of George Middleton, former Labor member of parliament, which collects and distributes tithes in the interests of clergymen all over the country. Second, there are the tithe owners, largely composed of universities, colleges, and church charities, but including individuals.

It is estimated that the total tithe expected from farming lands amounts to £3,000,000 [about $15,000,000 at par], of which Queen Anne's bounty collects or attempts to collect £2,000,000 and the tithe owners £1,000,000.

Payments Fixed in 1925.

The law is that the tithe has to be paid according to a fixed schedule laid down in the act of 1925, but since then live stock and agricultural produce have dropped in price by about 50 per cent. It would seem easy to adjust it, but when many farmers bought their land the capital value of the tithe was deducted from the value of the land. Moreover, it is argued, if the government abolished the tithe or even amended it in principle it would have to reform all property laws, for the tithe is property.

Figures for County Suffolk show that the annual tithe rent is equivalent to $1.70 an acre. Thus on farms of 1,000 acres the tithe costs the wages of five workers at present English rates.

CITY TO PAY ITS HELP FOR LAST OF APRIL TODAY

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that payment of city employés for the last half of April will be started today. The pay day will leave city employés three months back on their salaries. As soon as the Supreme court hands down an opinion on the 15 per cent cut in assessments on homes and small flat buildings, which has an important effect on the marketability of tax warrants, Mayor Kelly, said, the city will seek funds to pay its employés to date.

A new triumph in fine food—to be announced tonight 9 to 10 C. D. S. T. over WMAQ

Why—

Chesterfields are as good as Science and Money can make them

Every pound of Domestic tobacco used in Chesterfield cigarettes is aged for thirty months—2½ years. Science knows there is no other way to make cigarette tobaccos mild and mellow.

Every process used in the manufacture of Chesterfield cigarettes is modern, scientific and clean—visitors are always impressed with the cleanliness of the Chesterfield factories.

Every ingredient, including the paper, is pure—nothing that you eat or drink is tested more carefully.

And Chesterfields are made right; the right length, the right diameter, and filled right—a detail perhaps, but if a cigarette is "to satisfy" it must be made right.

Everything about Chesterfield is as good as money can buy or Science knows about—you have our word for this.

And Chesterfields are milder and taste better —this much you can prove for yourself.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CRIME AND ITS CONTROL.

Director Hoover, head of the federal bureau of criminal investigation, told the convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police that there is one condition of our crime situation which needs prompt adjustment—namely: Our treatment of habitual criminals. Too many, he said, are at liberty. "Too many are roaming our streets and highways intent upon violence, kidnaping, murder, or any crime that will enable them to inflict their bloody will upon society."

Mr. Hoover surveys criminal conditions throughout the nation and he can illustrate his protest with innumerable cases drawn from many districts. It is one of the most notorious aspects of crime in the United States, although the public gives it little consideration. The prompt adjustment demanded by Mr. Hoover is unfortunately not obtainable promptly. It involves some amendatory legislation, no doubt, but what is needed most is what is much harder to get than legislation—that is, honest and alert application of the laws we have.

Why are there thousands of habitual criminals at large, committing crimes repeatedly, committing, in fact, most of our serious crimes? In some states they are at large partly at least because there is no provision in the criminal code for keeping the habitual offender where he ought to be kept, in permanent imprisonment. Illinois law needs amendment in this respect. This should be remedied promptly. But even with such a law enacted we have taken only the first step. The law must be enforced. Prosecutors must invoke it persistently and judges must apply it without fear or favor.

Something may be done to better present conditions by enacting laws empowering the courts to act effectually against habitual criminals of the dangerous class and other laws restricting the power of parole boards to turn them loose. There should be adequate limitation upon the pardoning power of governors, the so-called executive clemency which has been grossly abused by unscrupulous politicians.

Explicit restraints upon these officials should be enacted, but there are few or none which cannot be evaded or defeated. The gist of the problem is honest and intelligent administration. Sorry truism. A governor who deserves his office will not use executive clemency to commute the sentence of a lawful jury in a fair trial, to open the gates of prison to a vicious brute. A parole board actuated by common sense and a proper regard for the protection of the public will not yield to the appeals of false humanitarianism or the influence of corrupt politics to turn loose criminals lawfully convicted of serious crimes. Yet both of these wrongs are being perpetrated upon the public throughout the country with the result described by Director Hoover. The army of violent habitual criminals is being constantly recruited by slackness or corrupt favoritism in the prosecution and trial of crimes and in the application of parole and executive clemency.

The basic remedy is a public opinion sufficiently aroused to criminal conditions to watch constantly the administration of justice and to discern and punish at the ballot box officials who neglect their duties or abuse their powers. This is in some degree a counsel of perfection. It imposes upon the press a heavy duty of watchfulness and timely exposure and protest. It calls for the establishment and maintenance of such special agencies of observation as the Chicago Crime commission. It demands more zeal and alertness and in some cases more integrity and courage to resist political influence among prosecutors and judges. Crime thrives because of all these weaknesses and it will not abate until they are cured. The flagrancy of crime in America is a product of indifferent citizenship and of the indifferent or corrupt administration which it encourages.

At this moment we have been shocked into vigorous action by the alarming increase of kidnaping and the murder of nine policemen within a few months. We have started a new war on crime. It has opened with commendable vigor. Of great importance is Judge David's imposition of drastic penalties for gun toting and for robbery with a gun. Judicial leniency toward such offenses has been responsible in a substantial measure for their increase in recent years. This campaign is welcome. We hope and believe it will have some substantial results. But the dramatic evils which have aroused us and our officials to action are inevitable products of conditions which have developed through years of corrupt politics and the slack citizenship which will not rebuke it, but often retains it in power long after its unfaithfulness has been demonstrated. Sporadic assaults upon habitual organized crime will bring desirable results, but in the past they have passed away as swiftly as they appeared. The only permanent mastery is in the creation and maintenance of a public opinion which will not tolerate incompetence and unfaithfulness in public office. This is the task of democratic citizenship, of self-government, and it cannot be shirked.

MATTERN HOME AGAIN.

Jimmy Mattern, who with a little better luck might have beaten Wiley Post to the first solo around the world flight, made the last leg in a borrowed plane from Toronto to Bennett field, New York. Bad luck deprived him of his record, but luck and pluck got him safely home.

In a field of adventure in which almost any experience is one to be expected Mattern had the strangest. He is the first veritable Robinson Crusoe of the air. His calendar was of days and not of years, but he was wrecked on Siberian muskeg, where he had to improvise the means of keeping alive until he could find a way to get in touch with rescue.

As it proved, he was 80 miles from anything like a town and in a most hopeless wilderness. He was injured and crippled by the crash when his plane landed. He extemporized a stove from a cylinder and for a while used the fuselage of the wreck to sleep in. After eight days he moved to the river and built a house of grass with a lining of maps. Then he built a raft of driftwood, lashed together with the control wires from the plane. It capsized, and while he was drying off at a fire his oil soaked clothing ignited. He jumped back into the river to save himself. Finally he floated his raft to a small island, where Eskimo boatmen found him and took him to Anadyr.

The Robinson Crusoe of the air only had 19 days of it, but they were spent in conditions and in the face of probabilities which would have caused a man of less pluck to give up in despair. Mattern arrived in New York with a smile on his face. He missed the record he was aiming at, but he established one of endurance and determination which should prove to be a satisfactory substitute for the achievement he barely missed.

WAR AND WORLD OPINION.

The vivid picture of a battle in the Chaco between the Bolivian and Paraguayan forces given TRIBUNE readers by our correspondent, Anthony Patric, makes an interesting appendix to the Kellogg treaty and the orations of our late secretary of state, Mr. Stimson, celebrating the establishment of a new era in which "world opinion" is to be relied upon to insure peace among all nations. The report from the scene reads very like those from the western front in the war to end war. There was the offensive of the Bolivians and the counter offensive of the Paraguayans, the barrage and counter barrage, the flame throwers, trench mortars, machine guns and exploding mines, even the ancient bayonet. The Paraguayans also decorated their achievement by destroying a hospital.

What makes this activity embarrassing to the new statesmanship is that it is not like the rather similar proceedings in Manchuria and Jehol. They were not war, merely the use of force. This is war. One of the parties engaged has been tactless enough to declare it war. There is no getting around this regrettable definition, either at Washington or Geneva. Both parties are members of the league of nations and signatories of the Kellogg treaty. The matter they are making war about is a justiciable matter if ever there was one. In the league system there must be an aggressor in every conflict, but which is which has not yet been explained by the league or by the international court, its legal mouthpiece. As for the world opinion which Mr. Stimson has assumed is all against these obsolete methods of settling difficulties in the family of nations and ready through the new "organization of peace" to discipline any nation so reckless and recalcitrant as to revert to physical force, we do not seem to hear its formidable voice. Any war, even any act which threatens war or the use of force, has been declared a concern of all nations. But here is not merely a use of force as in Manchuria, but a formally declared war with all the trimmings, and going on with great gusto for weeks and months between two members of the organization of peace. Yet world opinion is seemingly either indifferent or mildly animated by the show.

Can it be that world opinion does not really believe that every war is its concern, that on the contrary it believes this war concerns only the nations now enjoying it? Can it even be that there is no world opinion in such matters, but just a variety of opinions which are concerned with their own national problems and their own special interests? Can it be that there will be no world opinion until there is an end of nations and races and in their place a world nation, a world state, a world government ruling from some world capital, a world of one language, one law, one moral code, and one culture?

Editorial of the Day

[Murphysboro Independent.]

The average man in business these days spends about a quarter of his time, a third of his energies, and virtually all of his profits in paying his taxes.

That statement is not a complete exaggeration. It comes perilously close to being true.

This week Murphysboro business firms have received two new sets of blanks which must be filled out and which are comparable to the income tax in the difficulties they present.

These blanks are for the state occupational tax return and for the federal capital stock tax return.

The occupational tax return must be filled out monthly. Not only will the tax absorb most of the profits of the average retailer but the task of making the returns and keeping the necessary records will drive the small merchant to the verge of distraction.

The same can be said of the federal capital stock tax. This came out of a clear sky. Few knew that it had even been adopted until they received blanks to be filled out. It is almost as complicated as the income tax, and it takes its toll whether the business was profitable or not.

Meanwhile the general property tax is due this week.

For years the taxpayers have been protesting with increasing vigor and vehemence, and the tax load has been steadily and rapidly increasing.

Any man with a little idle capital would be a fool these days to invest it in any productive enterprise where he would employ labor and make jobs. Too many greedy tax spenders are waiting to take it away from him. The man who tries to "carry on" and keep his business moving, employing labor, is penalized and harassed at every turn. The man who hoards his money and puts it away in tax exempt securities escapes.

On the one hand the government is urging all employers to raise salaries, shorten working hours, and employ idle men. And on the other hand it is doing everything possible to make it impossible for business to live by pressing down upon it a burden of intolerable taxes.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

KIN.

This silver moth that bruises lovely wings
Against the pane with frantic flutterings,
This little wanderer from out the night
That spends himself in vain to reach my light,
Has come to one who is so near of kin
That she is fain to rise and let him in.
She knows so well the desperate pull of stars;
The hurt of wings that strive to shatter bars.

WHILE THE WAKE-LINE has subscribed to the forty hour week plan of the NRA code, we're almost sorry we made that determination public. In mulling it over we can't help fearing there may be a catch in it somewhere.

F'rinstance, suppose some day Friend Arch—he's our boss when we're back on the sports pages—should say: "Harve, old topper, you've worked forty hours this week. You needn't bother about going out to the Hawthorne handicap." Now, what a fine kettle of fish that would be. Imagine their trying to improve the breed of thoroughbreds for any extended length of time without our customary financial assistance!

Or Arch might say: "Pal, you look tired after forty hours' work. Never mind going to the fights tonight. I need your ticket, anyway, and, besides, it will save cab fare on your expense account." Yes, the more we think of it, the more misgivings we have of this forty hour week.

Another thing. From past experience we've found one spends more money on vacations than when working. Of course, as we understand it, the administration expects our employers to pay us more and more money as our hours become shorter and shorter. That'd be all right, but can our employers do it? This old world has been going along about 4,000 years or more—anyway, before our memory—and if this plan is feasible, why hasn't some one thought of it before?

Still, no one believed in advance that Inlander would win the Arlington Classic, and there have been Fultons and Bells and Edisons and Marconis et al., so mebbe everything is all right. Therefore we don't intend to become infidel to NRA, but just slightly, and, we trust, temporarily, agnostic while our national ship embarks on uncharted economic seas.

ANOTHER NEW DEAL.

Harve: Allow me to call your attention to this clipping from a Freeport, Ill., newspaper: "Herman B. Wieck of Berlin, Germany, who will be assistant brewmaster at the Fritz Brewing company, arrived in Freeport yesterday. He will reside at the Y. M. C. A." B. E. L.

ONLY THIRTY HOURS FOR THEM.

BAY DE NOCQUET ARROWHEAD.

Like some magician's stone of old repute
That conjured scenes from the forgotten dead,
So in my hand lies this crude arrowhead
Fashioned by one who has been long since mute.
The flint is hard, yet time has dulled the edge
That once flew sharply in a whistled pledge.

This was an arrow, and it knew a bow.
Perhaps its owner crept in padded stealth
Along this very shore, though none shall know;
Perhaps it met the flesh one autumn's day
Of towering buck or some too pensive doe
Or even perhaps it wished a perilous health
To wandering heels of one Jean Nicolet.

MAYOR KELLY DIDN'T WAIT for any code to be drafted for the nude dances at A Century of Progress concessions. His ukase was simply "Clothes or Close."

A PROTEST.

Harve: What's this old world coming to, anyhow? Even our eagle has gone futuristic on us. To think we should live to see the day that a bow-legged, hawk-faced bird of prey should replace our good old American eagle! Lu.

AN OLD-TIMER'S VIEWPOINT.

Wake-Line: Now that the Baseball Game of the Century is a month past and THE TRIBUNE has received full glory for suggesting and putting it over, won't you risk the accusation of growing old and agree with me that what we saw was a nice, gentlemanly exhibition by some fine business men? Aside from poor old Babe, there was about as much color as there is in a London fog.

Imagine a game between the two leagues played twenty-five years ago and what would have happened! Just put Bresnahan and Kling, Mathewson, Brown, Waddell, Chance, Evers, Hans Wagner, Donlin, etc., against Sullivan, Walsh, Joss, Johnson, Chase, Lajoie, or Collins, Cobb, Speaker, etc., in the same ball park!

Harve, in my opinion we didn't see nothin' on July 6. J. Allan Simpson.

THE BOARD OF TAX APPEALS has recommended a 20 per cent cut in real estate assessments to Assessor J. L. Jacobs. That's the kind of a new deal we cottage owners would have no difficulty in understanding.

1:00 P. M.

Colors not so bad, I trow—
Red is gorgeous; blue does grow;
Yellow's atrocious, green so-so;
Sort of conflict, friend 'gainst foe.

9:00 P. M.

What a change the lights have brought!
Truly, a miracle they've wrought;
Exquisite, lovely, silvery sheen,
Mystic, mysterious, magic scene;
Beauty from riot of color uproarious—
Just a shift from gay to glorious.

NEARLY 90 PER CENT of the mail which comes to the Wake-Line is verse. The other 10 per cent is prose. Look at this column and figure it out for yourself. Transposing the oft-quoted remark of a former statesman, what this column needs (if its present conductor is also to enjoy R. H. L.'s vacation) is more good 5-cent prose.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

RICKETS.

THERE is no reason why any child should have rickets today. The disease can be prevented and, if that has been neglected, it can be cured. The methods are inexpensive. They can be had anywhere. There are several of them and, within limits, we can choose the one we want to use.

We know enough about diagnosing the disease to serve all practical purposes. If X-rays are at hand we can diagnose it very early, before any symptoms appear. If they are not we can diagnose it by symptoms in ample time to prevent material harm from being done.

There will doubtless be improvements and further advances, but that will be velvet. All of the essentials are available now and here, wherever the here may be. We doubtless will gain more knowledge, but that, too, will be velvet. We have all the information necessary and the only present need is distribution. Somehow we must find a way to scatter what is now known, so that all persons will become as familiar with it as they are with baseball players as the playing season draws to a close.

There are six methods to choose from and they are: The use of irradiated milk, yeast milk, cod liver oil, viosterol, irradiated yeast, and exposure of the child's skin to irradiation with lamps or to sunlight.

In each group there is more than one choice. The irradiated milk may be either whole liquid milk or it can be irradiated milk powder. The irradiation may be done with an ultra violet lamp or with a carbon arc. Instead of cod liver oil halibut liver oil may be used. Irradiated milk may be fed to prospective mother, to the nursing mother, or to the baby. There is a choice between any one of several types of lamps or between lamplight and sunlight.

Dr. J. F. Hess, who has done more than any one else to discover the facts about rickets and to find remedies for it, evaluates these several methods as follows:

In cities of 100,000 population and over the best method is to use milk irradiated by means of a carbon arc lamp. It costs only one-twenty-fifth of a cent a quart to irradiate milk by this method. The exposure of the milk to rays is only for a fraction of a minute. In all cities of that size it is possible to supply pasteurized and irradiated milk at a low cost to all the babies and children.

In smaller places, where irradiated liquid milk is not available, irradiated milk powder can be used with satisfaction.

Wherever a supply of certified milk is available it should be possible to get certified milk from cows fed in part on irradiated yeast. This is an excellent source of preventive and curative food in places where certified milk is marketed. If a farmer wishes some milk for the babies in his own family he can feed irradiated yeast to one cow.

Where no irradiated milk or yeast milk is available, cod liver oil or viosterol can be used. Viosterol is much the more powerful of the two in curing rickets. Taking all in all, cod liver oil is better for general use as a preventive.

Irradiated yeast has a taste to which babies and young children are apt to object. It is a fine source of vitamin D for expectant mothers and nursing mothers.

Exposure of the skin to lamps is of great service when the treatment is available. But the lamps are too delicate, complicated, and expensive to be of service for the masses.

Sunlight is uncertain. It is least available when we need it most.

ABSCESS.

W. J. writes: Would like information as to a friend who has had a severe case of blood poisoning after gangrene had set in. This was after an operation for appendicitis. No healing has started as yet. We all wonder just why this happened.

REPLY.

The probability is that this was a case of appendicial abscess. In this type of appendicitis the organ bursts rather promptly and pus discharges into the tissue around the appendix. Fortunately, peritonitis promptly follows. This usually walls off the pus, resulting in what is called an abscess and preventing general peritonitis.

Unfortunately, the pus germs of the abscess are apt to cause some gangrene. Occasionally some of them get into the bloodstream, causing blood poisoning. Infected blood clots sometimes break away and cause liver abscess or pus near the liver.

Why some cases rupture so rapidly we do not know. We say the germs are virulent or the appendicitis is of that type; but those are statements of fact and not satisfactory explanations.

BIRTH CERTIFICATE.

Chicago, July 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly inform me where I can inquire to find out my correct age. My mother does not remember the correct date, but guesses it's about the year 1913 in Chicago. N. G.

Your first step should be to apply to the bureau of vital statistics in the city hall for a birth certificate. You do not tell us what clews you have in your possession. If the birth was in a hospital you might apply to the management.

FARM LEASE.

Olivet, Mich., July 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A rental lease was drawn up and signed by renter and rentee and by two bankers who were witnesses. After all this (1) the man who works the farm this year took the two leases to some one and (2) had a clause inserted which made owner of farm pay him $300 under the lease with security of first lien on the owner's crop. 3. It made the witnesses perjurers and they might never have seen the lease again. 4. Any penalty under the law? J. L. H.

1. By this expression do you mean some one different from the tenant whom you refer to as the rentee in your first sentence?

2. Clearly such clause would not be enforceable on the facts that you state.

3. This statement is not accurate.

4. As far as the matter has gone we do not see that any one is injured. If any attempt is made to enforce the alteration it should be easy to defend at that time.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 3, 1917.

LONDON.—The German emperor called a war council of his high military and naval leaders to meet in Brussels yesterday, but nothing has come through to indicate the trend of the discussion or concerning any decision reached. It is assumed that the parley had as its objective an analytical survey of the allies' offensive in Flanders which, if carried out as planned by the entente, would prove a menace to German positions in Belgium, and especially along the coast.

PARIS.—France must win peace by force of arms or its people will become the slaves of Germany, Premier Ribot declared in the chamber of deputies. The chamber passed a resolution reaffirming its declaration of June 5 that peace conditions must include the liberation of territories occupied by Germany, the return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, and just reparation for damage in the invaded regions.

WASHINGTON.—The pinch of President Wilson's embargo policy, designed to shut off Germany's foreign sources of food and war munitions, is being felt in the neutral countries of northern Europe. Norway is the first to come forward seeking an understanding with the United States whereby American products may be obtained. In return, Norway promises to export nothing but fish to Germany, and to place almost its entire merchant fleet at the disposal of the allies. The administration is confident that Denmark, Sweden, and Holland, all of which are selling immense quantities of supplies to Germany, will not be able to hold out much longer and will follow the example of Norway in seeking an understanding with the United States.

WAR SUMMARY.—Petrograd admits the loss of positions near Riga, between the Rivers Zbrocz and Dniester, between the Dniester and Pruth, and west of the Putna river. Berlin reports an advance north of Czernowitz and in the Carpathians. London reports the repulse of heavy German counter attacks northeast of Ypres. An unofficial dispatch says the Rumanian army has cut a twelve mile breach in the Austro-German line in Rumania.

CHICAGO.—With twenty-six of the local boards going at a fast pace, and eleven more ready to face the long lines of army candidates this morning, Chicago's exemption machinery is getting away to a fair start. The outstanding features of yesterday were the large numbers of aliens and men with dependents winding in and out of the examination stations.

BUTTE, Mont.—Two companies of National Guardsmen are patrolling the streets of the city to prevent further outbreaks as a result of the lynching of Frank H. Little, chairman of the executive board of the Industrial Workers of the World. The authorities are without clews as to the identity of the lynchers.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

ANSWER—This is one of the bureaus which has received a letter of indorsement from A Century of Progress.

ANSWER—A Century of Progress proper is not exhibiting anything such as this. However, you might write Remington-Rand corporation, which has an exhibit of typewriters in the General Exhibits building at A Century of Progress.

INDIVIDUALISM DEFINED.

Chicago, July 30.—The article entitled "The Case for Individualism" appearing on your editorial page today makes a clear instance calling for a definition. This word "individualism" and the doctrine which it designates have lately been brought into general discussion, which will probably grow intense under the pressure of recent legislation. So it is important to know what speakers and writers mean by "individualism."

The article mentioned makes no distinction between the individualism of a single person and the privileges or restraints pertaining to the single person when acting collectively with other persons. This confusion of elements is almost universal in such discussions. Yet, a very important principle requires that the distinction be made.

The matter is, of course, a subject for extensive historical and legal exposition. But putting it briefly, the Declaration of Independence and the constitution of the United States dealt only with the rights and privileges of the individual as a single person.

At that time the activities of persons in private enterprises were almost universally individual. Partnerships were rare; there were probably not a dozen private business corporations in all the colonies; trade associations and labor unions had not come into existence. The rights and conditions of persons in collective enterprises did not call for consideration, and no provision was made for them in these original covenants, which are the basis of our constitutional rights and social order of today.

Partnerships, corporations, and other forms of association of persons do not embody the rights of the individual members; neither do the individual members possess the collective rights or suffer the restraints which may lawfully pertain to the association. A purpose lawfully pursued by an individual may be unlawful for an association.

So the true meaning of "individualism" is to designate the fabric of rights, privileges, and restraints pertaining to the individual person. Associations of persons, in any form, cannot in their collective right claim the privileges and exemptions bestowed on the individual person by the fundamental laws of our land.

For the sake of clarity in such discussions this distinction should be observed. It accounts for restraints and punishments which may be imposed by law on persons acting in corporate or collective enterprise, but which are not imposed on an individual acting to the same purpose. ANDREW R. SHERRIFF.

COAL FIELDS AND GOVERNORS.

Elmhurst, Ill., July 30.—Gov. Pinchot has sent the National Guard into the Fayette county coal fields of Pennsylvania to restore order in the strike region, to see that the constitution of the state is respected and to suppress all violence, whether it comes from mine owners, deputy sheriffs, or miners.

Could not Gov. Horner have preserved peace, saved the lives and the maiming of working men and women, and spared his administration a perpetual blot of shame had he adopted Gov. Pinchot's policy of fairness to all and the guarantee of their constitutional rights?

E. J. KENNEDY.

RESCUED BY THE COAST GUARD.

Chicago, July 27.—I think it is only fair to use your column, if you may permit, to express my thanks to the coast guard station of Michigan City, Ind.

I am a Chicagoan, and on July 23, while driving through Indiana, my son and myself took a dip in Lake Michigan on a Michigan City beach. What started out as a pleasant day almost ended in a very tragic one for our little family. While my son and myself were in the water we were caught by an undertow which carried us out a great distance from shore. A call of help was sent out, and after being in the water for approximately fifteen minutes and being absolutely unable to swim against the undertow a rescue party finally arrived. My thanks are extended to the heroic work of Mr. George Cornick of Cicero and Mr. Arthur Taft of Berwyn, who were the first to reach us.

While they were bringing us to shore the coast guard also arrived. At this point the coast guard of Michigan City took entire charge of my son and myself and worked on both of us with first aid with all the kindness and care in the world—far more than any one would ever expect. As soon as it was possible, due to the exhaustion, I was rushed to the coast guard station, and here again was another example of their very fine work in caring for me with blankets and hot water bottles, taking care of me until I was able to move.

After going through an experience of this kind and meeting this type of people it makes one feel that this is not such a cold world after all, and my thanks go to Indiana and its Michigan City coast guard station from our entire family. HARRY BIRCH.

BLACK BREAD.

Evanston, Ill., July 28.—The editorial "Black Bread" deserves copying by every newspaper and socially interested periodical in the land. Today comes the announcements of the almost 50 per cent reduction, or rather destruction, of our most vital food supply. This is all right, we are assured, because it will be fully repaid by taxation on the processes that make the residue fit for food. Meanwhile a helpless consumer pays this tax, plus sales tax, etc., etc. Only this morning I paid an advance of 30 per cent on a well known wheat cereal for breakfast [all unbeknown to Mr. Wallace].

We know that the administration hopes to increase purchasing power, hopes to put millions to work, hopes to raise wages. In view of conditions that cannot possibly be ameliorated for months to come, would it not seem wiser and more humane to purchase foodstuff outright than to create an artificial scarcity and subsidize it, especially now that nature has made a way for good farm prices? EVANSTONIAN.

CHASED OFF THE BEACH.

Chicago, July 31.—I would like to know by what right or authority Capt. Harding of the Rogers Park police station has instructed his officers to chase citizens off the street-end beaches at 11 o'clock p. m., especially when a man is there with his own wife and is not creating any disturbance, but is simply trying to enjoy the breezes of Lake Michigan that we so widely advertise. Guide Children with Reason— Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

First How to Become Beautiful Show to Be Held at Fair Today

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Today is the day, 1:30 p. m. the hour, the Blue Ribbon Casino the place at which Mrs. Ford Carter, fashion counselor and style dictator of A Century of Progress promises to effect before our eyes the transformation of an ugly duckling into a lovely swan. Well, maybe not into a lovely swan, for who'd want to be a swan, I ask you, when you could get in a lot better work being a terrifically smart young woman?

And beside, there is no such thing as an ugly duckling any more. She's just a girl who does not know how to make herself attractive. And Mrs. Carter is going to present one of the so-called plain girls and prove her claim that clothes—line, color, snap and cut—along with becoming makeup and coiffure will give any of us women just about all the snap and go we can use in a lifetime.

It's going to be an interesting presentation. First, you'll see Miss Plain Jane as she is, unfortunately, often seen. Badly dressed, hairdress bad and made up badly. A clever beautician will do her best with rouge and powder, lipstick and eyeshadow, and the necessary foundation work. The girl's hair will be rearranged effectively. Then, Mrs. Carter will put her into the type of dress she thinks the girl, who can't be pretty and who should never attempt to be pretty, should wear.

There's a valuable lesson in this modern adaptation of beauty. If we can't be one thing—we can be something else. If not beautiful, then unusual, striking, something. This way every woman gets a break! Every one has some gift, maybe two or three, which she ignores when she should be exaggerating it. So, come on over to the Fair today and pick yourself a few good ideas!

Tomorrow at the same time and place Miss Business Girl will be on view in her often oddly assorted raiment, inefficient looking get-up and then, as she might be—a striking ornament in an office. [And don't you believe that this has nothing to do with her success! It has, and a plenty.] Wish you could wheedle the Boss into letting you take a later luncheon hour. It might just be his gain, as well as yours—later.

And Saturday Mrs. Home Woman, town and suburban dweller, will be there in person and in character as she is sometimes caught hostessing, and as she might be doing it with much more pictorial effect.

Styles in Hair Follow Hats to the Up and Up

Fashions Are Displayed at Meeting in City.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Members of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association, who met last night at the Hotel Sherman for the serious business of preparing their industrial code and the still more serious business of deciding how the well dressed woman will wear her hair this fall, can condense their fashion findings into two words—"modified Victorian."

The hair stylists have decided that on the hat line will depend the hair line, and at their show exhibited all the new millinery variations in conjunction with the hair styles. They demonstrated that hair, like hats, is on the up and up—in back. And hairdress, like hats, has the tintype touch. One of the most sophisticated of the deceptively demure styles brings back the center part, with curl clusters at the sides and in the back.

Curls, layers and layers of them, and so small they just miss the adjective "corkscrew," start upward at the nape of the neck and extend almost to the crown of the head—presenting the perfect Victorian beneath the bits of felt and velvet that will be perched on feminine heads this fall.

In general the new hair line, as exhibited, is extremely feminine. Women who find curls unsuitable will take to soft, wide waves—generally no more than two, with the ends in ringlets at one side. The boyish bob is dead and buried, and curls, like curves, are back. The experts say so, and everything points that way.

The board of directors of the hairdressers' association last night forwarded to Gen. Hugh Johnson in Washington a protest against the classification of their calling under NRA regulations. Beauty culturists, it was pointed out, had been grouped with "dishwashers, janitors, porters, watchmen, etc."

After calling attention to the educational requirements for beauty workers, the directors added: "We respectfully ask that beauty operators be placed in a class befitting their professional education and training."

Jesse Lasky Seeks Debt Compromise in United States Court

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Jesse Lasky, movie producer, sought the relief of the newly amended bankruptcy act today to compromise with creditors and secure time to make payments. He filed a debtor's petition with the federal district court. One of the organizers of Paramount nearly twenty years ago, but recently an associate producer with Fox corporation, Lasky lumped his liabilities at $2,020,024, and listed assests of $134,718. Through his attorney he blamed his financial difficulties on his liability as guarantor of an issue of $750,000 bonds on two New York buildings.

One item listed against Lasky was $51,000 unpaid income taxes. His attorney said Lasky was turning over his life insurance policies, stocks, other negotiable paper and interest in two recently completed movies.

Three Berlin Newspapers Near End of Their Careers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Three Berlin newspapers are at the point of ending their careers: Tempo, which once had a circulation of 150,000, will appear for the last time Saturday. The National Zeitung petitioned for a receivership, but the judge rejected it, saying that the paper did not have enough assets. It is also reported that the Zwoelf Uhr Mittags Zeitung is nearing an end.

Good Morning!

Hard to understand why "A Nous la Liberte" hasn't hit town before. [Downtown. It was shown out at the University of Chicago.] Months ago New York had it, and, if I remember aright, Manhattan critics almost burst their buttonholes endeavoring to tell the world JUST how good it was. But, for some subterranean reason, the piece was sheered away from these parts. However, now that it's here, go over and see it, will you?

The film's fascination—its remarkable entertainment value—is largely due to direction. Rene Clair, who made "Sous des Toits de Paris" and "Le Million," has, with the jocularity of a Sennett, the finesse and cunning of a Lubitsch, the warm, common touch of a Vidor, and a peculiar, rich whimsicality all his own, given us in "A Nous la Liberte" a different and delightful version of slapstick comedy.

Far from scorning dialogue, Mr. Clair uses it merely as accessory to the fact. And now you understand why so many of our beloved silent screen comedians failed to ever really come back after the advent of sound. Forcibly is brought to mind the fact that the cinema comedy that makes you laugh MUST primarily rely on its pantomimic legs. Mr. Clair knows, too, the value of speed and brevity. So—"A Nous la Liberte" is a dashing, laughter brimming, artistic thing that completely captivates. Burlesque, pathos, suspense—it has 'em all!

The story is slight, satirical. About a couple of convicts who plan to escape from jail. One gets away. The other doesn't.

Time passes, as time will, and comes a day when the lad left behind finds himself working in the highly efficient victrola factory of his one time cell mate.

This, that and the other transpires. Comparing notes, the cronies agree that the machine age hasn't got much of an edge on jail, and so . . . ! And so you march over and see the picture!

Brilliant acting! I understand that Henri Marchand, who plays the luckless jail breaker, was a taxi driver before genius erupted all over him. There is a wistful quality to his portrayal that is very winning. He'll make you think of Harry Langdon.

Jotting by the way: For solid comfort, those loges at the World have it over anything I've struck lately. You sink back luxuriously in an upholstered chair, and, in the cool and quiet, watch the reels go by. Smoke, too, if you want to. Lovely!

See you tomorrow!

New British Housing Scheme May Bring End to 'Semi-Slums'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The problem of Great Britain's "semi-slums" may be solved by drastic proposals aimed at securing better houses for the working classes, which are recommended in the report of the government's departmental committee on housing issued tonight.

The suggested plans include widespread acquisition of unfit dwellings, a big rehousing scheme to evade overcrowding and construction of smaller homes for smaller family groups. The committee proposes that local authorities be given compulsory powers to acquire unfit properties for reconditioning.

It is suggested that government subsidies be available to prevent overcrowding in the houses acquired and that the dispossessed owners be refunded the value of the properties at the time they acquired them.

Figures May Be Figures in New Fashions

Curve Conscious Styles Appear in Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A new curve-conscious silhouette, recalling the days when figures were figures, held the spotlight today in Paris fashion showings as the likely winter mode.

Though a few designers clung to last season's straight profile, most dressmakers favored a silhouette gently outlining the busts and hips.

Luxurious fabrics such as wools, velvets, and ribbed crepes by day, and ottoman, faille, moire, and velvet by night, in rich hues such as wine reds, bottle greens, blue violets, red violets, and blue grays, gave an air of elegance to the mode.

Lavish fur coat trimmings were being used by many houses.

The new day's silhouette is designed with high necklines, long sleeves with occasional elbow fullness, and trimmings to emphasize the shoulders and natural waistlines. Hiplines are generally slender, though several designers have added flaring basques at the hip bones, indicating hips may return to the fashion picture. Skirts eight or ten inches from the floor have a slight fullness in front and back instead of the sides.

Evening gowns, designed with richest fabrics, show two new style notes in longer skirts and higher décolletés. They are generally designed in the princess silhouette, with a high front and low back décolletés and floor length skirts.

Eighteen inch trains on scores of models indicate a return of the day when the fashionables will sweep into ballrooms.

SCOUT NO. 66 tells about the two Chicago politicians who were in a bierstube discussing the number of men who accosted them

Frame-Up—	in the street
Sign—	asking for jobs.
Wisecrack—	The discussion
Local—	ended with each
Painting—	claiming he was annoyed more than the other.

As a result, a $50 bet was made. The winner would be the one who was hailed oftenest as they walked together down Randolph street from Wells to the entrance of the city hall.

The high point of the story, however, is that a henchman of one of the politicians heard the argument, slipped out and lined up all the newsboys, hangers-on, and pedestrians he could find, gave them a little change and coached them. Thus when the two passed down Randolph street one of the two was greeted like Balbo and the other got two lone greetings.

HOW mixed up things are nowadays is demonstrated once more by the sign on an establishment at Lincoln and Southport avenues. The sign reads:

DANIEL CATTON RICH, curator of painting at the Art institute, was chatting with a friend about George Dillon, the youthful and handsome Chicago poet who is abroad traveling and studying after being awarded the Guggenheim fellowship. Dr. Dillon's first book was "Boy in the Wind," you may recall. An unsuccessful attempt was made by the two to recall the name of his second volume, "The Flowering Stone," and finally Mr. Rich wisecracked:

"Well, it ought to have been named 'Boy's Second Wind.'"

THEN there was the Walker cup team star to whom Alex McWilliams was showing the sights at Princeton. When he pointed out a statue of George Washington the young Englishman said:

ANGUS S. HIBBARD stood looking at a painting in the World's Fair exhibit at the Art institute the other day. He described it as a canvas that seemed to show bundles of brownish yellow shingles, slithering to the ground. A woman visitor also was gazing at the painting. Finally she addressed the guard and asked what in the world that was.

"That, madam, is the 'Nude Descending the Staircase,'" he answered.

"The what?" she asked.

"The Nude. N-u-d-e," the guard answered.

"O," she said. [And so did Mr. Hibbard.]

Buddy Rogers Party Is Postponed; Sally Selects Circus Guests

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Seems rather strange to have a Thursday and no party, doesn't it? If my guests for the Buddy Rogers party have read their invitations carefully, they won't run down to the Hotel Sherman today, because our party has been postponed until Saturday.

Circus letters just about buried me yesterday, and so many of them were good that I had quite a difficult time choosing my guests. However, the decision had to be made, so I judged them all very carefully and finally selected 50 boys and 50 girls. The names of the winners will be listed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE, and invitations should reach them a day or two later. If your name is printed and your invitation doesn't arrive by Tuesday, please notify me. Don't wait until the day of the party to tell me about it, because there's very little to be done about the situation at that late date.

We're going to have a very gay time at the circus and I shouldn't like any one whose letter merited an invitation to miss the party.

City to Enjoy Opera Season of Four Weeks

BY EDWARD MOORE.

For the first time since the Civic and Ravinia Opera companies went into the silence, a definite season of opera is promised for Chicago. Fortune Gallo is bringing his San Carlo Grand Opera company to the Auditorium for a season of four weeks beginning early in September.

This is good news for those who consider that opera is still a live issue in the world of music. It is better news to realize that Mr. Gallo has gone in for the new deal on admission prices in a large way. With the exception of the boxes, no seat anywhere in the house will be priced higher than one dollar, and there will be several hundred as low as 25 cents.

"My experience last season when featuring such artists as Jeritza," said Mr. Gallo yesterday, "has convinced me that these are the prices opera patrons want. The Auditorium has the capacity for us to put the policy into effect without impairing quality."

Apparently Mr. Gallo has a good company. It was good on his former visits to Chicago, and for his coming visit he promises, among others, Mary Lewis of the Metropolitan company, and Ina Bourskaya and Leon Rothier of both the Metropolitan and Ravinia organizations. He adds that there are pending negotiations with other nationally recognized artists, and there will be a full roster and complete mountings as to chorus, ballet, orchestra, and scenery.

He promises a répertoire of twenty works during the stay, including "Carmen," "La Boheme," "Mme. Butterfly," "The Barber of Seville," "Faust," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Traviata," "Tales of Hoffman," and "Tosca," also "Samson and Delilah," "Romeo and Juliet," "Aïda," "Trovatore," "Rigoletto," "Lucia di Lammermoor," and "Thais." Works to be sung in English include "Lohengrin," "Martha," and "Hansel and Gretel."

Fourth World Boy Scout Jamboree Is Opened in Hungary

GODOLLO, Hungary, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The fourth World Jamboree of Boy Scouts began today with the parade of 30,000 boys, including 387 Americans, past Regent Horthy of Hungary.

Scout flags from about 50 countries were blessed in Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, and Mohammedan services preliminary to the formal opening of the Jamboree in the late afternoon. A telegram arrived from the Prince of Wales thanking the Scouts for a greeting sent to him and wishing them success.

'AE,' Famous Irish Poet, to Visit Son Here

Geo. Russell Has Friends of Former Trip.

BY JUDITH CASS.

GEORGE WILLIAM RUSSELL, the Irishman who holds the power to make poetry of economics and actuality of dreams, is about to make a third visit to America. This interesting news reached this society desk yesterday by way of cable.

It is doubly interesting to us since Mr. Russell's son and daughter-in-law, the Diarmuid Russells, are residents of Lake Forest and his American itinerary will undoubtedly include a prolonged visit here. When we called young Mr. Russell to verify the news he knew of "a" journey, but could give us no more definite details about its course.

Our dispatch, however, related that the distinguished Irishman, better known perhaps by his pseudonym "AE," would make the trip by way of the far east purely for the purpose of rest and change. Then it goes on to say that the rumor that Mr. Russell intended to settle permanently in America is incorrect. Although he has given up his little house in Rathmines that has been the setting for so many brilliant literary evenings and always a haven to strangers, it is still hoped that he will continue to live in or about Dublin.

Many Friends in Chicago.

So many persons here who met Mr. Russell on his first visit to Chicago in 1928 have frequently expressed the desire that he return. His extraordinary combination of qualities charm wherever he goes. A mystic poet and painter of exceptional gifts, he has devoted the greater part of his life to the very prosaic work of helping the late Sir Horace Plunkett in organizing the farming industry of Ireland.

Now he is in his sixties and a picturesque character, indeed, with his whiskers of early days rapidly whitening. He is practically retired from any form of public life, although two things have found in him a champion.

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Swell Garrick—the World's Perfect Tailor's Dummy—is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training, rather than tailoring skill. Maitland, a crooked gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough. He and Schewan, his chief, plot to trick Rhoda out of a fortune. Maitland has Rhoda adjudged insane. She has been administered a drug which will produce temporary madness. Having no proof of guilt, Garrick determines to settle the matter in his own way. His solicitor tells him that if Rhoda can gain and maintain her liberty for twenty-eight days she will be considered legally sane. Garrick undertakes a bold rescue. He escapes to London with Rhoda. Garrick hires Alf, a farmhand out of work, as a helper and buys his silence. One of the gang is shot during an encounter in Garrick's home and the police suspect Garrick. After a series of narrow escapes from the police and Schewan's gang, Rhoda finds shelter in the home of a Mrs. Tarranio and her cousin, Gus Esdale. Rhoda believes they are friends of her uncle. Garrick suspects the couple have designs on Rhoda's property and, therefore, will shield her. They discourage his visiting Rhoda and his messages to her are intercepted. A faked announcement of Garrick's wedding to another is shown to Rhoda. Mrs. Tarranio suggests that Rhoda marry Gus to save her from returning to the asylum. Garrick confers with his solicitor.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

AN INSTINCTIVE WARNING.

"I assumed that you wished me to undertake your defense and I have made a number of inquiries," Bonniwell announced. "The police have verified one or two of your statements, and I must admit they do not seem to be pressing the case against you, though the warrant for your arrest still stands. They have proved, for instance, by means of some gun expert and a microscope and what not, that the bullet that killed Lawson was not fired from the carbine which was in your hands when the police came. They proved that the bullet in the wall was fired by that carbine, therefore they have substantiated that statement of yours."

"Didn't I always say that Scotland Yard were pretty good at their job!" exclaimed Garrick.

"I don't know what you always said, sir!" grunted Mr. Bonniwell. "Further, they seem to have obtained some rubber boots which would appear to bear out your statement that these men climbed the wall at the back of your house."

"Mr. Bonniwell, you convince me of my own innocence!" laughed Garrick. "But if they've proved all that, why do they want to arrest me?"

"You must blame partly your own conduct and partly the fact that a reserve supply of carbines was found in a warehouse that I learned with astonishment belongs to you."

"I take it that if I can find out where those carbines came from the whole thing would be dropped as far as I am concerned?"

"That is, no doubt, true. But you cannot find out. The police have not found out."

"Er—no, perhaps I can't, after all—and perhaps I can!" said Garrick.

Three days later Esdale confronted Mrs. Tarranio after breakfast.

"At ten thirty tonight the twenty-eight days expire. The girl is legally sane and will step into her own property herself. You've done everything to bully her into it and you can't get her to come up to the scratch. What about this wonderful eleventh hour plan you spoke of the other day?"

Mrs. Tarranio was flushed and excited.

"What has the whole stunt cost us up to date?" she demanded breathlessly. "A hundred or so in preliminary work. This house and everything else—well under a thousand. Say another thousand for Voller for helping and keeping his mouth shut. Total two thousand."

"Well?" he demanded. "Out with it!"

"What would you say to twenty thousand as a little compensation for our failure, if we do fail?"

As he stared at her uncomprehendingly she explained:

"I've fixed it with Schewan and Maitland. They expected to make sixty thousand out of their racket. As it is, they're going to make nothing. So I've fixed it with them that we are to have a twenty thousand pound rakeoff. I tried to get more, but they pointed out they've taken all the risk and done all the work. Anyhow, it's enough. If we fail."

"But if we hand the girl over we've failed in our particular stunt!"

"Listen to me!" snapped Mrs. Tarranio. "You've got the special license, haven't you?"

"Yes."

"About twenty minutes ago I telephoned Nympstone House. The man in charge, Kendall, is coming along himself with a couple of nurses, who will use force if necessary."

"But——"

"Don't talk, listen! I'll get Rhoda dressed to go out—and upstairs in the drawing room. When this man turns up with his nurses we'll give her a last chance. If she takes it, you slip out with her at the back and take her to St. Barnabas. I'll delay Kendall in the hall while you get her out. And I'll join you at the church if I can. If I can't, don't wait for me. Go through with the ceremony. Don't forget it's all nonsense what we've told her about marriage upsetting the twenty-eight days. . . . Get the car all ready and join us in the drawing room."

Rhoda was in her own room. Mrs. Tarranio changed her "character" as easily as if it had been a dress. She knocked and entered.

"May I come in, darling? I've been out—scouting. There are a couple of plainclothes men walking about in front of the house. It does look rather as if they were coming here with a search warrant, doesn't it?"

Rhoda blanched. Her feelings towards Mrs. Tarranio had undergone a change during the last few days. She secretly thought it disgusting of the woman to keep on urging her to marry Esdale. Nevertheless, she believed that she and Esdale were well disposed towards her—that they were shielding her solely out of friendship for her uncle. The thought of involving them with the police in return for their kindness appalled her.

"Let me run out of the house!" she begged. "If they were to catch me in the street I would never tell them I had been here and——"

"That's frightfully sweet and unselfish of you, darling, but I'm afraid it would be no good whatever!" said Mrs. Tarranio. "But it would be just as well to put on your outdoor things. Gus is getting the car ready and he's looking round to see if there's any chance of escaping at the back."

Esdale was with Mrs. Tarranio when she went to the drawing room. Her feelings had changed towards Esdale, too. At first he had seemed a quiet, friendly sort of man. But in the last few days there had been something furtive in his eyes as he had looked at her, though he had given her no cause to complain of any overt act.

"Gus says there are also a couple of plainclothes men at the back of the square," announced Mrs. Tarranio—and Rhoda believed it.

"Mind you, they're on foot!" he told Rhoda. "And I daresay we could run past them in the car. But they'd get the number broadcast all over the place. We couldn't calculate on being free of them for more than an hour or so. Of course, that would give us time——"

"Shut up, Gus!" said Mrs. Tarranio. "You were going to say there would be time for you and Rhoda to get married with a special license. She doesn't want to marry you. Don't suggest it again or you'll annoy her!"

Even then Mrs. Tarranio was hoping that the girl would acquiesce.

"I know it's only suggested for my benefit and I'm really very grateful," said Rhoda formally.

It was a polite lie. She had never felt grateful for the marriage proposition. Although in every other way they had successfully deceived her, some instinct warned her that, whether it had vaguely to do with her property or not, the marriage proposition was not for her benefit.

A desultory conversation followed. Mrs. Tarranio was standing by the window. Suddenly she called Rhoda.

"Here comes somebody in a huge car. It doesn't look like a police car. Come here, darling, and see if you can make anything of it."

Rhoda came to her side by the window and through the curtain looked out on the path. Out of the car stepped Kendall, followed by two nurses.

"It's Dr. Kendall!" gasped Rhoda. "From Nympstone House."

"That's torn it," ejaculated Esdale. "We're in it as well, Alice. I don't mind a dose of prison, but I don't fancy it'll do you any good."

Esdale turned to Rhoda and cried, "Rhoda, you don't want her to go to prison after all she's done for you! You don't want to go back to that damned asylum yourself! You'll stay there all your life. It's still just possible for us to break out at the back, and we can get married before they collar us and then they won't be able to do anything. Will you?"

As he spoke Esdale looked at her—looked right into her eyes. And there was that in his eyes that warned her instinct that never could it be right to give herself to this man.

"No!" she sobbed. "I can't—I can't do it!"

"Very well, then! That's settled!" said Mrs. Tarranio. She came away from the window and so did not see another car draw up behind Kendall's.

Rupert Hughes Is Glum While Others Laugh

Accident Makes Hughes Laud Hughes.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Rupert Hughes was looking glum after being toastmaster at a gay dinner party of the Writers' club here. Hughes is president and a dominant member of the club, and is the film colony's favorite toastmaster. Of the 400 persons at the dinner, 399 were gay and chuckly over Hughes' cracks. They thought it a great occasion. Finally one noticed Hughes' downcast look and wondered about it.

"Well," said Hughes, "I don't mind being publicly called the best toastmaster in the country, but I hate to have that remark prominently printed on club stationery I send out under my own signature." The Writers' club had inadvertently sent out letters with Hughes lauding Hughes.

Howard Jones, football coach at Southern California, played his own self in one of the Mickey McGuire two reel comedies made this week by a gang of juvenile actors under Producer Larry Darmour. In this particular two reeler, called "Mickey's Touchdown," Jones was demonstrating how to throw a pass, when he slipped and fell. It was instantly a case of Gulliver beset by the Lilliputians. The kids in the picture swarmed all over the prostrate celebrity. Jones took it good naturedly.

Six weeks ago June Knight left the stage cast of "Take a Chance" and flew west for a screen debut in "Ladies Must Love" at Universal. Now she's flying back to New York to play the screen lead in "Take a Chance" again when Paramount makes a film out of the stage musical. In another six weeks she is scheduled to fly west again for a second movie appearance under her Universal contract.

May Robson says that in the 22 years she was featured in successive Charles Frohman stage hits, under personal contract with Frohman, she never had one word of written contract with Frohman. Miss Robson also says, sighing, that the movies are different.

Pugilist Max Baer has spent the last three days having himself photographed in different postures and different togs at MGM. He begins his movie career next Monday in "The Prizefighter and the Lady," in which Lupe Velez plays the society girl who defies her family to love a gladiator.

Crazy-Quilt Star.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Crazy-Quilt Star" is a rather recent addition to the family of star patterns. Like the old fashioned crazy quilt, this design affords ample opportunity for utilizing the many small pieces of prints reposing in your scrap bag. Each of the sixteen star points is cut from a different print.

For a quilt pattern of this design send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The new United States ambassador to Argentina and Mrs. Alexander W. Weddell, who are spending a fortnight in Washington before sailing for the former's post of duty, were entertained at luncheon yesterday by the assistant secretary of state and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr.

The secretary of the navy and Mrs. Swanson had guests dining with them tonight and took them afterward to the Slyvan theater for the opera.

The new United States minister to Czecho-Slovakia, formerly assistant secretary of state, and Mrs. Francis White sailed today from New York for Mr. White's new post of duty. Miss Nancy White, their daughter, is at Hot Springs, Va., where she was joined today by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Benjamin Harris Brewster of Baltimore.

'AE,' Famous Irish Poet, to Visit Son Here

Geo. Russell Has Friends of Former Trip.

ago by the Free State government and the other is support for the recently formed Irish Academy of Letters, of which he is the secretary.

The friend Mr. Russell will miss the most in visiting America this time will be, without doubt, Dr. Kingsley Porter of Harvard, who drowned recently, it will be remembered, in the sea off the Donegal coast. Dr. Porter occupied a large mansion there several months of the year called Glenveagh castle.

Diarmuid Russell married a Lake Forest girl, Rose Lauder, who is a sister of Mrs. Harold Ambler. Their wedding was one of the social events of the June season just a year ago.

Dinner Dance at Barrington.

Gayety in Barrington Saturday evening will center at the Barrington Hills Country club, where one of the smartest of the summer dinner dances is to be held. Dinner service will start at 7:30 on the cool verandas and at 8:30 dancing will begin in the equally cool living room.

Edwin A. Seipp, president of the club, and Mrs. Seipp have invited a score or more of young people to come to their beautiful home in Barrington for appetizers and then go over to the club with their debutante daughter, Miss Pauline Seipp.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Gillies of Winnetka are doing the same for their daughter, Miss Betty Gillies, and her house guests. This will be the largest party of the evening, for nearly forty of the debutante and post-debutante crowd along the north shore have been invited.

Others entertaining Saturday will be Mrs. H. Stillson Hart, who is having a dozen guests; Mrs. Russell A. Pettengill and Mrs. William E. Webbe, all of Barrington, who are having about the same number, and John A. Wilson of Woodstock.

For the benefit of Skokie members we hope the weather man produces a cloudless sky Saturday night. The club has declared "full moon nite" and invited all of its members and their guests to dance on the veranda from 9 o'clock on. Dinner service will be from 7 to 10 o'clock.

One of the most popular features at the Skokie club this summer is the mixed foursome. There are three of these events during August, one today, another the 17th, and still another on the 31st. Each one will be followed by a buffet supper with dancing on the terrace.

Visitor Sees Fair as Child Would.

The best World's Fair story we have heard in some time concerns Miss Hilda Foster, the delightful sister of Mrs. Albert D. Farwell who divides her time almost equally between Boston and Dublin, Ireland.

Here to visit the Farwells, she determined to see the Fair as a child, to get a child's perspective. She had heard the delightful stories told by her young relatives, Marcia Tuttle and her brother, son and daughter of the Arthur Tuttles of New York, who had made a trip about the Exposition grounds with the Children's Guide service.

She dressed herself up in a little girl's dress, sox, and hairbows; took her doll, and set off with a couple of leaders of the Guide service to see A Century of Progress as any 10 or 12 year old.

The result was enchanting, and Miss Foster is telling her friends about the House of Magic and the Chinese restaurant where she had all sorts of strange and delectable dishes.

Yesterday Miss Foster left Lake Forest with Mr. and Mrs. Farwell and their two daughters, Marian and Edith, to spend three weeks on Lake Superior. After this holiday she will return to Boston for the early fall.

Incidentally, the Children's Guide service will have no orphans to show the Fair this week. Funds provided by the Wednesday night dances have run out, temporarily, we understand.

Give Tea Today for Ambassador.

Italian sherbet and a sweet cake will highlight the continental tea to be served at the Italian pavilion this afternoon as part of the Italian day celebration at A Century of Progress. Three hundred prominent Chicagoans have been invited to come and meet Italy's ambassador to the United States, Augusto Rosso.

Before the tea Ambassador Rosso will dedicate a statue of Columbus in Grant park. After that he will attend the dinner party of the Arthur Meekers at the Century club, and then the concertized version of "Aida" in the outdoor court of the Hall of States.

Mrs. Philip Maher, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, and Miss Josephine Blackstock are confronted with the difficult task of naming the new fleet of magic mountain moat boats at the Enchanted Island at the World's Fair. Already more than 200 names have been submitted by the boys and girls who play on the island. When the decision is made on Aug. 12 the winners will wear World's Fair medals and have the freedom of the isle for that day.

Dr. Alfonso De Luca, the Brazilian consul in Chicago, and Mrs. De Luca will head the receiving line tonight at the reception and supper that is being given for the Brazilian commissioners to A Century of Progress. Gen. Joao Alberto Lins de Barros, Mrs. Rosalina Coelho Lisboa Miller, and Silva Reis are the commissioners. Gen. De Barros is here with his wife and small children.

Exchange Sale at Oconomowoc.

In Oconomowoc today interest will center around the summer sale of the Woman's Exchange to be held at Draper's hall. In charge of the selling will be Mrs. Frederick Thwaits and Mrs. George Baldwin of Milwaukee and Mrs. Walter Faithorne of Chicago.

Dr. and Mrs. Dan U. Cameron are motoring in town today from their summer home at Lake Delavan to celebrate their silver wedding anniversary with a World's Fair dinner. Birthday congratulations will also be in order for on Aug. 14 Dr. Cameron will mark his anniversary. Guests of the Camerons tonight will be their four sons, Jack and Gordon, Dan and Barton.

Miss Myra Little, the Charles Littles' charming daughter, was the youngest but not the least entertaining of the several guests Burton Holmes invited for dinner last night in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Little were in the group, also the Evan Evanses, and James King Steele, who is in the city as Hawaiian commissioner to A Century of Progress.

Most of the beautiful things Mr. Steele has brought with him are on display at the Fair but there are a few that are far too precious to be shown publicly. These he has in his apartment at 20 East Delaware place.

The Pina cloth is perhaps the finest among these articles. The sheerest of linens, hand drawn, it is, strangely enough, harsh to touch. Another interesting cloth is Pinapoh made of the fiber of pineapples and bananas.

Howlands Leave for Craven Wedding.

Prof. and Mrs. George Carter Howland left yesterday by motor for Annapolis to attend the wedding of Miss Olga Craven, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas Tingey Craven, and Lionel Glenn Anderson. The wedding will be solemnized Saturday afternoon at Wardour on the Severn, the Craven home. After the wedding the Howlands expect to continue to Maine and Kennebunk Port, where they have spent so many delightful summers. Their son, Richard, writes that he is having the time of his young life on the Edgar Uihlein range at Saratoga, Wyo.

From Ogden, Utah, comes a note from the Otis Weekses, who have so many Chicago friends, telling of the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Robert Franklin Walker Smith, son of Mrs. Felix Koerner Smith of Evanston. It is an eastern college romance for Miss Weeks was graduated from Smith in the class of '31 and the year before Mr. Smith finished at Harvard.

Music Student Best Soprano in Fete Tests

Hotel Doorman Winner in Bass Division.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A 21 year old girl with operatic ambitions triumphed over fifty-six other contestants in the north side soprano contest of the Chicagoland Music Festival preliminaries last night in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Winners were also selected in the bass contest in which ten men were entered.

The soprano winner is Sara Corinne Mason, 521 Lee street, Evanston, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. U. Mason of 8499 Drexel boulevard. Miss Mason was the youngest of the six winners in the two north side contests. She was one of nine sopranos requested by the judges to sing again and was placed first with her rendition of "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino."

Miss Mason is a graduate of Parker High school and later studied at the Sherwood School of Music. She has been studying for the last five years.

The preliminary contests in the festival will be resumed next Tuesday and Wednesday for west siders at the Midwest Athletic club, and on Aug. 17 at the Drake hotel the winners of the divisional contests will compete in the finals.

Second place among sopranos was won by Mrs. Ruth Summers, 27 years old, of 934 Crescent place. She is the mother of two children whom she supports by working as a beautician. She confided after the judging that she had never taken a lesson in her life and only once before had she sung in public. That was at a political rally for Gov. Horner. Her contest number was Deutsch and Altman's "Play, Fiddle, Play."

Ruth Kutta, 23 years old, 1443 North Avers avenue, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Kutta, won third place. She holds a secretarial position with her teacher in order to pay for her lessons. She sang "My Hero," from Straus' "Chocolate Soldier." Miss Kutta is a graduate of Austin High school and hopes to go into musical comedy or radio work. None of the three winners had entered a Chicagoland Music Festival contest before.

A doorman at a north side apartment hotel, a gasoline filling station attendant, and an electrical engineer, their nationalities German, Norwegian, and English, respectively, were the prize winners in the bass contest.

Raymond Steiner, 25 years old, the doorman, placed first with his rollicking German drinking song, G. Fischer's "In Cellar Cool." He arrived breathless from the Admiral hotel, where he works, and immediately was called to the platform as the last of the bass singers. His selection covered a two octave range, considered difficult by musicians. Mr. Steiner is a graduate of Lake View High school and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Steiner, 2423 Cullom avenue.

After high school he worked first as an usher in downtown theaters to help pay for his lessons. He hopes for an operatic career. Last year he placed third in the festival contest.

Walter Barthold, 38 years old, the gasoline filling station attendant and winner of second place, lives at 1046 Pine street, Winnetka. He is the father of four children. His selection was Jude's "The Mighty Deep." Mr. Barthold was born in Norway, coming to this country when he was 8 years old.

Arthur Green, 28 years old, of 1411 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, the third prize winner, set out from England ten years ago to seek his fortune in Australia. He got as far as Canada, then came to the United States. He had been studying voice only two years. His contest selection was Earl K. Smith's "The Billowy Sea."

The judges were Hanna Butler, teacher; Rose Lutiger Gannon, assistant supervisor of music in the public schools, and Raymond Koch, oratorio singer. All expressed delight over the high quality of the singers' voices.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

THE STOLEN JEWELS.

"What were you doing tonight when the lights went out?" Prof. Fordney inquired of Simon Barrett.

"Why, I was in my study writing," responded the art connoisseur.

"No one else in the house?"

"No, I was alone. My wife was at the opera and the servants had an evening out."

Fordney compared his own accurate timepiece with the electric clock on the magnificent radio. They both read 12:31. Then he asked, "What did you do when you found yourself in darkness?"

"Well, I was in a bit of a panic . . . I've always had an intense fear of the dark, but I managed to locate a flashlight and ran to the cellar. I found that the electric switch controlling this part of the house had been thrown off. I fumbled with it a bit nervously, put it up again and after searching the cellar came back here. Although I thought I had closed the door on leaving, it was partially open when I returned. The lights were on, of course. The safe door stood open and I found Mrs. Barrett's jewels had been stolen!"

"How long were you away from the room?"

"Not more than seven or eight minutes."

"What was the value of the jewels?"

"About $50,000."

"Certainly."

"H'mmm," mused Fordney. "After returning to the room did you touch anything but the phone?"

"Why, no. That is, just the pen and paper . . . thought I'd try and finish the letter I was writing."

"Come, Barrett," Fordney admonished, "your story doesn't hold at all. Where did you put the jewels?"

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—After a considerable stretch of super-feminine beach fashions, girls are dallying with the idea of being boys again; but lots of them stop half way. They like the freedom—and the modesty—conferred by a pair of pants, while they hesitate to sacrifice one whit of the advantage in charm the all-feminine formula undoubtedly gave them.

Chanel solves this problem with the same authority which has made her "master" [since we're talking of pajamas we can hardly call it mistress] of so many sartorial situations. She gives frilly, feminine tops to virile trousers and so cleverly does she combine them that they never look incongruous—as you can see for yourself by the accompanying sketch.

The gaucho pants are of navy blue shantunel, made with a wide flaring plait down the outsides, giving the effect of an apron front. The top is of geranium red shantunel with an incrustation shaped like a pointed peasant bodice in front that becomes a narrow belt to which the prolonged shoulder straps are buttoned with mannish navy bone buttons. The upper part of the bodice, tied in a soft bow on the bosom, is fitted like a waist length brassiere is back and the buttons are red.

Chanel's new beach hat is of the red shantunel, lined with navy blue. It has her characteristic brim prolonged into a long visor—or should one call it sunbonnet?—line in front diminishing into a mere bow at the nape.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

He was a neglected child. You could tell it, if you knew much about children. He had the look—the look that is indescribable but is there. Not in the clothes, for a child may be clean and mended but still neglected emotionally or spiritually—that is, in his relations with his parents. It shows mostly in his face but sometimes also in his bearing.

Children who are just dressed and fed and turned out to play, who aren't taken into the lives of the grownups who are their guardians, show it. It stands to reason that it should be so. It's the give and take, the interchange of ideas in human intercourse that develops intelligence and sharpens wits.

I remember a social worker telling me something interesting in this connection some years ago. He said cigar makers were the most intelligent group of workers he had encountered. Why? Because they used to sit around in a circle as they worked and as they became so skillful with their fingers that their work was practically automatic, they had the opportunity to talk and exchange ideas. They formed a sort of forum, not deliberately, of course, and had long hours in which to discuss many things and exchange ideas.

This is a developing thing, as any one knows who thinks about it. Don't you know how satisfying good talk is and how developing it is to be associated with people whose experience of life is richer than yours or whose mentality is keener, or with people who are responsive to your feelings and interests? It is so with children. It isn't enough to care for their health and their clothes, to send them to school or to camp. With all that they can be carelessly reared.

Neglected children are to be found among the poor, the middle class and the wealthy, though it is among the two extremes that they are most numerous. The children in the middle class have the best chance of all.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

There are many lovely details to this dress. Note the new sleeves with pillowcase points, the smart and becoming neckline, the scalloped hip seaming, and the length giving paneled skirt. The plaits provide ample freedom at the hemline. Black satin crêpe with a white faille collar, and a light pebbly woolen in oxford gray with the collar of toning crêpe marocain are pleasing suggestions.

The pattern, No. 2761, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

Events on the Stage

The State-Lake theater, recently reopened under the direction of Aaron Jones Sr., has had marked success thus far with its new policy of high grade cinema and vaudeville entertainment at bargain prices. The attendance at its continuous performance recalls the early years of this theater's career, when the customers were so numerous that they wore out the carpets every three months.

The programs at the State-Lake contain a film drama, a copious vaudeville show, and a revue of the "stage band" type, with Verne Buck's orchestra as the focus of the final frolic. The revue is supplemented by a ballet. This week's acts include: Jackie Heller, cabaret and radio singer of Chicago popularity; Sidney Page, a comedian with two auxiliary soubrettes; Freda and Palace, Italian comedians; the Four Flushers, acrobatic clowns in sailor togs; the Gaudsmith Brothers, with trained poodles; and Joseph E. Howard, the veteran song writer, assisted by the three Andrews Sisters.

Howard's appearance recalls the made-in-Chicago musical comedies of twenty-five and thirty years ago, for which he composed the tunes. Several of these shows had runs of a full year, and all of them are much mentioned traditions of Chicago theatrical life. They included "The Umpire," "The Time, the Place, and the Girl," "The Prince of Tonight," and "Louisiana Lou."

Howard sings several of his ballads —"Hello, My Baby," "Honeymoon," "Farewell, My Lady Love," "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," and "The Good Old Summer Time"—which deserve to be called folk songs of the middle west.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who was featured on the current vaudeville bill at the Palace theater, has been compelled by illness to abandon her Chicago appearances. She is now under treatment in Michael Reese hospital.

Equipment Varies from Simple to Complex.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

You've certainly jammed, preserved, and pickled all your cookery life—but have you yet learned the knack of preserving foods by drying? So many letters have come in lately asking all about it that this seems to be the time for us to do a bit of explaining and for you—if you'd like to save an interesting penny—to do a bit of adventuring. And by the way, because these writers-in were the first to rouse the drying spirit within us, we dedicate this piece to Mrs. M. S. and Mrs. J. T.

Drying is one of the oldest, simplest, and cheapest ways of preserving perishable fruits and vegetables. Dried foods keep well, refresh and cook easily, require small storage space, and retain a good texture and flavor.

The equipment for drying may vary all the way from the simplest screen for sun drying to the many-shelved cupboardlike arrangements using artificial heat. A drier may consist of a series of trays hung from the ceiling over the kitchen stove. Or the oven may be used. Spread the prepared foods on baking pans or pie pans and place in the oven with the door open and the temperature not higher than 150 degrees F. Whichever plan you follow and whatever type of equipment you select, consider the protection of the foods from dust and insects and the free circulation of dry air.

Vegetables and fruits that are fairly mature and those with a high sugar content are easier to dry than the quick growing, immature kind. They should be fresh products and of first class quality. The vegetables that can be dried most successfully are sweet corn, beans, and peas. The fruits are apples, pears, and peaches.

Vegetables, for instance, are cleaned thoroughly and then blanched with hot water or steam. Fruits, like apples and peaches, are peeled and sliced and then dipped for one minute in a cold salt bath (two and one-half tablespoons salt to one gallon of water) to prevent discoloration.

When ready to submit them to the drying process, remove the surface moisture, then spread them out in a single layer on the screens you have provided with netting covering the top to keep off insects. Stir them frequently while drying. Fruits are dry enough when a handful of the slices is elastic to the pressure of the hand, when the slices separate promptly on the release of pressure, and when they leave no moisture on the hand. This stage will be reached after a period of two or three days in the sun.

Store the dried foods in pasteboard boxes or paper bags which will be free from insects and dust.

All of this general information is boiled down and crystalized for you in the following recipe. The same directions hold for other fruits:

DRIED APPLES.

Select apples that are firm and in good condition. Peel them, remove the core, and slice in eighths or in crosswise slices forming rings one-eighth inch thick. Discoloration will be prevented if the apples are dipped in a salt and water solution as we directed above. Do not allow the fruit to stand long before drying. Remove the fruit from the salt bath, dry the surface moisture, and spread out in a single layer on the screen. If you dry them outside in the sun see that a net covers the fruit to protect it from insects and dust. When thoroughly dried store the fruit in bags or boxes for delectation next fall and winter.

Must 'Petting' Be Finale to Modern Date?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She's 19. Athletic. Has grown up with boys as constant companions. Can give them competition any day in tennis, golf, swimming, riding, building model ships or airplanes.

"Yet I'm not a masculine type of girl. Perfectly normal every way. Have had a dad's close and invaluable companionship up until his death six months ago. I dance well. At least, never heard a grumble yet from a partner nor experienced a quick shift. Am never in need of a partner, it seems. Am generally dated for a dance, show, party or dinner three nights a week.

"And here's my problem. Am going with one chap, well mannered, popular, companionable mentally. I guess I don't love him. Maybe have known him too long. He's too much like a brother. Anyway, he has become the blinketiest kissing bug all of a sudden. I just can't respond. In fact, it's about this kissing business I want to ask. My dad naturally tipped me off to the stupidity of making yourself common. I'm just wondering if he made me a little bit too 'off' on the now popular game. My girl friends carry on nightly in this sort of thing without any apparent wrong in their minds. They say they are playing the game that men play. Taking it all lightly.

"Am I am coldblooded animal that can't bring myself out of old-fashioned illusions my dad planted? Does a girl owe a fellow that much after showing her an enjoyable evening? If I thought it O. K. I'd practice and become perfect in this game, too. What do you think?"

I think I'd advise the illusions for awhile longer. I wouldn't worry about the cold-bloodedness. The Big Heart just hasn't happened along yet. When he arrives on the scene—you'll be glad that you're not a champion at the kissing game. He'll recognize this as a charm and give you all the tutoring along the named line you'll need. But don't believe that girls can play the game as usually as men. They're not emotionally built that way.

Protestant Home.

The Illinois Protestant Children's Home is to benefit by the luncheon and card party to be given at 1 o'clock on Aug. 10 at the home of Mrs. Emmet Fulkerson, 8910 South Hamilton avenue. Assisting Mrs. Fukerson will be Mrs. W. E. Steuart and Mrs. Carl Dunn.

Old Settlers' Picnic.

The 59th annual old settlers' reunion and picnic will be held on Aug. 14 at Riverview park, under the sponsorship of the Chicago Turngemeinde. L. O. Greiner is general chairman of the reunion committee.

This summer, Chicago is not only the "Vacation City," but the "World's Fair City" as well. Because of its perfect location and its breeze-swept tower rooms, the Morrison is always a favorite with vacationists.

SARAH M. WEED, CHICAGOAN SINCE 1840, IS DEAD

Daughter of the Founder of Morgan Park.

Mrs. Sarah Morgan Weed, pioneer Chicagoan and last of the Thomas Morgan family that founded Morgan Park, died yesterday at her home at 530 South avenue, Glencoe, in her 94th year. She had lived in Chicago since 1840, having been brought here by her family from Surrey county, England, when she was a baby.

Mrs. Weed often told of seeing wild deer and Indians within what is now the city limits of Chicago.

Father Owner of 3,000 Acres.

On settling in Chicago, Mrs. Weed's father, Thomas Morgan, purchased 3,000 acres of land on the south side and built a homestead, called the Upwood, in the vicinity of what is now 95th street and Vincennes avenue. The area later was named after Mr. Morgan.

Historic Chicago was familiar to Mrs. Weed. She was a friend of the pioneer, Mrs. John Kinzie. She often visited the second Fort Dearborn. She had to cross the river by ferry at Rush street to attend Mrs. Emilia Barr's school. She was a passenger on the first train out of Chicago to Blue Island. Many notable Chicagoans were her friends, among them Marshall Field. Her home, at Jackson boulevard and Michigan avenue, was destroyed in the big fire of 1871.

Funeral to Be Held Tomorrow.

Surviving Mrs. Weed are four sons, William F., Morgan, C. Fred, and George L. Weed, and a daughter, Mrs. P. C. Barnes, the latter of St. Louis. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Graceland. Mrs. Weed's husband, William A. Weed, pioneer druggist, died in 1892.

BRITON WHO HELD JAMESON RAID SECRET IS DEAD

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Sir Graham Bower, 85, who was closely associated with the famous Jameson raid into the Transvaal in 1895, died here today.

At the time of the raid he was secretary to Sir Hercules Robinson, governor of the Cape and British high commissioner for South Africa. It had been openly reported that Sir Graham was in Cecil Rhodes' confidence for several months before Dr. L. S. Jameson led his armed raiders into the Transvaal and had not communicated his knowledge to his superior officer.

Sir Graham himself always asserted that the raid was forbidden ground and that it was a story which should be told in full or not at all. He kept the full story a secret until his death.

[A historical account says the raid was to obtain redress for alleged grievances of the Uitlanders of the Rand. It was frustrated by Gen. Piet Cronje, and ended disastrously by surrender to the Boers.]

5 Cent Beer Restaurant in Waukegan Is Bombed

Waukegan was aroused this morning by the explosion of a heavy bomb at the front of the restaurant of Nicholas Dracos, Lake and Genesee streets, Waukegan. Damage was estimated at several hundred dollars. The only motive for the bombing that police could advance was that Dracos is selling 5 cent beer.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: At Bay!

N. ANGELICA'S WIDOW DIES 3 WEEKS AFTER HIM

Mrs. Carmen Angelica, 76 years old, died yesterday at her home at 446 East 29th street. Her husband, Natalino Angelica, for fifty years a café owner in Chicago, died only three weeks ago, and her death, it is believed, was hastened by grief over his.

Mrs. Angelica was a native of Lamari, Tuscany, Italy, and had lived in Chicago for more than half a century. Surviving her are six children, among them Mme. Galli of the Italian restaurant bearing her name at 18 East Illinois street. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at St. James Catholic church, 29th street and Wabash avenue. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery.

William G. Donne, state manager for the Home Owners' Loan corporation, will tell about the work of the new federal aid in solving the mortgage problems of harassed home owners in a talk over W-G-N this evening from 7 to 7:15 o'clock. His subject will be "The Home Owners' Loan Corporation; What It Means and How It Operates." Seventeen thousand persons flocked to the new offices at 134 North La Salle street on Tuesday, the opening day, for application blanks. Yesterday about 5,000 applied for aid.

WM. G. DONNE. [Wallinger Photo.]

In addition to applicants who appeared in person about 3,000 letters poured into the corporation's offices yesterday. Victor L. Schlaeger, assistant manager for Illinois, stated that already 200 filled out applications for aid had been received from persons who got their blanks on the opening day. It will be at least two weeks, Mr. Schlaeger said, before any loans can be made.

Loses 28 Pounds of Fat

The improvement in this woman's figure, after she had lost 28 lbs. of unwanted fat, can easily be imagined from the comparative measurements which she gives below. Note also the effects of the treatment she used. Her method is evidently a good one to follow.

"I am 24 years of age; height 5 ft. 5½ in.; and a short time ago my weight was 28 lbs. above normal. I was listless and without energy. Now, after taking Kruschen Salts regularly, I have lost 28 lbs. in weight and have much more vitality. Also I have a very good complexion, and I do not have face blemishes of any kind. Surely this must be due to my having pure blood, and I attribute the fact to my taking Kruschen Salts.

"I made the above reduction in four months, during which time I must admit that I did not touch chocolates or sweets of any description, pastries, or potatoes. I kept to this for four months and lost 28 lbs. I honestly think it would not have been possible without the aid of Kruschen Salts, because, as my weight is now normal for my height and age, I am able to keep it without dieting, just by continuing with the Kruschen Salts alone.—I give my measurements below:—(Miss) M. S."

Before	After
Bust ..... 42 ins.	Bust ..... 34 ins.
Waist ... 31 ins.	Waist ... 26 ins.
Hips ..... 40 ins.	Hips ..... 36 ins.

If one inexpensive jar (lasts 4 weeks) doesn't joyfully satisfy, money back from Kruschen—prescribed by many physicians and recognized the world over as the SAFE way to reduce and at the same time gain in health and physical charm.

COURT IS ASKED TO HALT SCHOOL ECONOMY PLAN

Suit for Injunction Will Be Heard Today.

The bill charges that abolition of junior high schools and elimination of physical education, manual training, and household arts teachers in the elementary schools as provided in the economy program, constitute a violation of the state constitution of 1870. The constitution, the bill declares, directs that a board of education "shall provide a thorough and efficient system of free schools to give every child a good common school education."

Courses in physical education, manual training, and household arts, the bill maintains, are not "fads and frills," but parts of a thorough and efficient school system.

GOVERNOR HEARS PROTEST

An attack against the board's economy program was made on another front during the day by the "Save Our Schools" committee. Representatives of the committee, headed by Mrs. Holland Flagler, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, conferred with Gov. Horner in his suite at the Congress hotel and urged him to use his influence to have the board rescind its program. The governor replied that the board was outside his province.

"These people are sincere and intent in what they are doing," Mr. Horner said after the conference, "but I have no power over the board of education in Chicago. They left me material on their arguments which I shall look over. Any inquiry on my part, however, would be instituted as a private citizen and naturally before taking any steps I should want to hear the school board's side."

Six Changes Are Made.

The delegation that called on Gov. Horner gave him a letter containing six charges against the school board and its retrenchment plans. The charges were:

1. No investigation was made by the school board prior to the adoption of its program.
2. Many members of the board, including the president, had been in office less than 60 days.
3. Supt. Bogan and leading educators were not consulted.
4. Sessions were held in secret.
5. Reductions were adopted despite cuts previously taken.
6. Recommendations of Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university, in his report on a survey of the Chicago school system, were ignored.

The letter also declared that "funds obtained by taxes for the educational system during the last 15 years were wastefully expended" and said that the "save our schools" committee sympathized with the efforts of public officials to bring school expenditures within the revenue.

In conclusion the letter requested Gov. Horner to appoint a public commission to work out a program for the Chicago school system.

The delegation that talked with the governor included, besides Mrs. Flagler: James E. White, education chairman of war orphans for the American Legion; Mrs. Frederick Bradshaw, education chairman of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Aaron Kline, president of the Principals' club; Mrs. W. B. Dummer of the Progressive Education association; Mary Murphy, representing the Child Labor Association of Illinois; Mrs. Emile Levy of the Chicago Woman's club, Mollie Ray Carroll of the Illinois League of Women Voters, and John J. Oros.

Protest meetings against the school board economy plan were held last night in Grand Crossing park, 77th street and Ingleside avenue, with Dr. Charles H. Stone, University of Chicago economist, as the speaker; in Shotwell hall, 55th street and Blackstone avenue, with Attorney Clarence Darrow as the speaker, and in Palmer park, 111th street and South Park avenue, with Attorney Barratt O'Hara speaking.

LEGION VOTES TO DEFER ACTION ON SCHOOL ECONOMY

The Cook County council of the American Legion, meeting in the Great Northern hotel, voted last night to defer action on resolutions denouncing the school board for its economy program.

Three resolutions condemning the economy program and asking for revisions were offered by the 3d, 4th, and 9th county districts. The executive committee of the council recommended that the resolutions be referred to a special committee for consideration. This recommendation was unanimously approved by the Legionnaires and Council Commander Joseph De Lacour appointed Fred Boissy, Edward Clamage, Frank Kee, and William Devine as members of the committee.

At last night's meeting Edward F. McGinnis, 421 Melrose street, was elected Cook county commander for 1933-'34. He served in the 374th aerial squadron during the war. Matthew J. Murphy was elected vice commander.

ECONOMY IN OMAHA

Word that another large city has undergone reductions in school expenditures similar to those ordered in Chicago was contained in a letter from Mary E. Bird, secretary of the board of education in Omaha, to school officials here.

"In the summer of 1926 our board of education saw the necessity for retrenchment, and in order to stay within the budget, our superintendent of schools, with the approval of the board, curtailed the work of all special subjects," said the letter.

"It was the consensus that the manual training work in the elementary schools could be abolished with the least harm of any of the special subjects, and we have, therefore, had no manual training in the elementary schools since June, 1927. We have never had very much domestic science work in the elementary schools, and that subject was abolished years ago."

Few Complaints Received.

A number of people were disappointed by the economies in Omaha, but complaints were few, according to Miss Bird. She said there have been no harmful results from the action, either to school children or taxpayers.

"We have effected other economies in our school system by increasing the size of classes, raising the number of classes required for a department head, reducing the number of special teachers, etc., her letter said.

MOSCOW PRAVDA TELLS OF GRAIN HARVEST 'FLOP'

MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—Somewhat dismal is Pravda's weekly summary today of the news from the southern grain front. It is unpleasantly reminiscent of last summer's harvest reports.

Harvesting machines are reported unrepaired or badly repaired, with frequent breakdowns and availability for use only a small part of the time. Oil and gasoline deliveries have failed and there are shortages of parts, tools and skilled mechanics.

Some grain has been reaped green, while some fully ripe, has been left to drop to seed. Failure to bind and stack the grain after reaping is frequently noted and there is often a great disproportion between the acreage reaped and the quantity threshed. The "tempo" of the harvesting is slow and almost all regions are badly behind in their programs.

It is perhaps true that the purpose of Pravda's reports is to stimulate communists and communist youth throughout the country to a special effort. But they denote that two of last year's evils have not been wholly eradicated.

The first of these is inability to get full efficiency from the more complicated machines. The second is a lack of hands for harvesting.

This is due partly to the unwieldy growth of administrative personnel in collectives, partly to the flow of about 10,000,000 of the most energetic peasants during the past five years from the farms to industry and partly to physical weakness, lethargy, and consequent prolonged food shortages in certain sections.

150 AIR PILOTS CALL OFF STRIKE PENDING INQUIRY

A threatened strike of 150 pilots and co-pilots on the Trans-continental and Western Air Express lines and the Eastern Air Transport lines has been settled temporarily through the efforts of the department of labor's conciliation bureau, it was announced in Washington yesterday. A similar threat to strike made by 160 pilots and co-pilots of the United Air lines was temporarily settled here a week ago. In each case the pilots and air lines executives agreed to postpone adjustments of salary until the air industry code has been submitted under the national recovery act.

Wages of the pilots were the question in controversy in each case. The eastern pilots, as had those of the United Air Lines, protested that the installation of faster transport planes by the air lines had in effect lowered their salaries since the companies proposed to pay salaries on an hourly basis instead of on the basis of miles flown.

The Washington dispatch asserted that the temporary settlement was made for a thirty day period during which wages will be investigated by the pilots' council and by company executives.

LONG MACHINE DISLOCATED BY 2 COURT RULINGS

More Ballots "Counted" Than Were Cast.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 2.—By action of two criminal district judges, Huey P. Long's political machine today was dispersed from the field of battle over a recount of November's election ballots.

They sent back one of their counsellors, James O'Connor, assistant attorney general and former member of congress, to file a petition citing Leonard K. Nicholson, president of the New Orleans Times-Picayune Publishing company, and James M. Colomb, one of the grand jurors, for contempt of court for the publication of a statement by Colomb exposing the grand jury procedure.

Plans Later Hearing.

The judge ordered the petition filed and said a date for hearing would be fixed later.

At the same time appearing before Judge Axelander C. O'Donnell of another section of the same court, a committee of citizens were engaged in recounting six of the disputed ballot boxes used in the vote on the state constitutional amendments last November. The count was in open court, with the public invited to watch. The citizens worked as hundreds of people filed by to look.

In the afternoon the committee reported to Judge O'Donnell they had found discrepancies in each of the boxes, with the vote on the fourteenth amendment used as a test case. The fourteenth amendment empowered the city of New Orleans to purchase ferry systems.

More Counted Than Cast.

The committee reported their recount showed 1,715 votes were cast for the amendment and 301 against it, compared with the commissioner's returns of 2,419 for and 220 against. The figures of the recount, the committee reported, differed for each box and in each case the vote against the amendments was increased.

District Attorney Eugene Stanley, chief target of the Long forces, said he would study the report before determining a future course. He already has charged fifteen election commissioners with making false returns and capiases have been issued for them.

GEN. O'RYAN REFUSES TO QUIT UNTIL FUSION FORCES MAKE DECISION

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan declined this afternoon to withdraw his name from consideration as an anti-Tammany mayoralty candidate unless the Republican fusion committee, meeting tomorrow, demonstrates "unanimity" against him.

He made this declaration in a letter to W. Kingsland Macy, state chairman, who had called on him to withdraw. Mr. Macy responded, on the receipt of the letter, with a statement calling it "unthinkable" that a man without the full support of Samuel Seabury should lead the campaign against Tammany Hall.

"I am in complete accord with your statement that unity in action against Tammany Hall in the coming contest is necessary," wrote. Gen. O'Ryan.

"As you know, I am not a candidate for the mayoralty nomination, nor have I accepted the proposal of any of the fusion elements in regard to the mayoralty. It may be said, therefore, that I am not in a position to withdraw from a candidacy which I have not accepted."

Gen. O'Ryan said he would await the decision of the G. O. P. committee meeting tomorrow.

CHICAGO CHAMPIONS FIGHT IRELAND TONIGHT

REDS HELP OUT BY COMIC STRIP FIELDING PLAY

Henshaw Comes to Aid of Root.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs devoted yesterday afternoon to making amends for a few of the indignities suffered at the hands of the Reds from Cincinnati. The Reds didn't seem to object. They fitted right into the scheme and rendered as much assistance as possible to their own downfall by a score of 10 to 6. The victory helped to narrow by a half game the distance between the Cubs and leading Giants. The interval now is five games.

The first and most important thing the Cubs did to lessen their dissatisfaction over past happenings was the removal of Red Lucas, an old nemesis. Red was around only long enough to let the 15,000 women fans enjoy a good look at his sorrel top. He pitched to six batters. Four of them hit and he hit one. That little blast was good for a mess of four runs, and from then on the game was decidedly on the comic strip order. The Reds conducted themselves as if they wanted to crawl into some position below eighth, which they now occupy.

Henshaw Succeeds Root.

Charley Root started for the champions, but his work didn't seem to strike the fancy of Manager Grimm. The veteran was shaky in the first, also in the second and the same in the third, but the total output against him at that stage was only two runs and four hits. Because of the flying start made by his mates he still had a three run advantage, but Grimm evidently preferred to entrust this edge to the youthful Roy Henshaw. The guess proved correct, although not because of any marked display of skill on the part of the tiny southpaw. The Cubs gave him further protection with rallies in the third and fifth.

The Reds not only lost some of the edge they had piled up by taking nine of the first fifteen played with the Cubs but also were deprived of the services of a couple of stalwarts. A tip foul off Root's bat in the first inning removed Catcher Rollie Hemsley with an injured right hand.

A moment before this Jim Bottomley, trying desperately to accomplish a freak double play, twisted his arm in a collision with Grimm and was forced to quit. His withdrawal made necessary a revision of the Red infield and that's how one Otto Bluege happened to get into action. He touched the high or low mark of the afternoon by perpetrating three errors at shortstop in one inning.

Root Shaky at Start.

Root yielded two hits, not to mention a few other things, in the first inning and probably considered himself lucky to get off with a settlement of one run. Adams opened the battle with a single over short and Morrissey sacrificed. Hafey drove a liner toward third and Koenig slowed it down enough to restrict Hafey to a single and to hold Adams at third. A wild pitch was the next happening. It let Adams score and put Hafey on second. Moore then fouled out, Bottomley walked, and Rice was disposed of on a grounder to Grimm.

A bit of luck started the Cubs on the right path in their half of the first. Koenig's grounder took an unexpected hop over Bottomley's head for a single. Billy Herman singled and Koenig went to third. Cuyler's contribution was a single to center, Koenig scoring and W. Herman taking third. Babe Herman hit a fly on which the other Herman scored. Demaree was hit by a pitched ball and Campbell singled to drive Cuyler home. Out went Lucas and in came Kolp.

Umpires Win Debate.

RUSSIANS HAVE NO PLOW CHAMPS; CANCEL OLYMPICS

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—The Russians have postponed their Olympic games, which were to have differed from the familiar athletic program of the Olympic union in that they would have exalted useful toil and rebuked mere play as a foolish pursuit of capitalistic peoples. The Russian plan preferred contests in plowing and post hole digging, bricklaying, coal mining, and general pick and shovel work.

The possibility was seriously considered that the Russian people, properly influenced by state propaganda, might one day worship some horny handed son of toil as fanatically as the goofy Americans adored the nonessential Dempsey and the nonessential Babe Ruth.

The program has been deferred because the Russians are not yet ready. This may mean that they have not yet developed a sufficient number of workmen of championship class to fill the entry lists. I have heard that they are easy-going laborers who lay down their tools to scratch themselves. Under Olympic conditions, at work or at play, the competitor should be capable of prodigies and possibly not many of the Russian workmen were good enough to qualify.

It Made a Lot of Professors Go to Work.

At the time the panic broke in this country I thought the disaster a sort of rebuke to the playful temperament of the U. S. A. Mussolini had put the Italians diligently to work and had written that he had no sympathy with people who spent their energies in a passion for games. The Americans had been playing very industriously for several years and play had become a science in which young students of both sexes were seriously instructed by professors in the colleges. Every year, hundreds of young men and women were graduated with credentials which certified them to be competent play directors. It seemed that the most playful people on earth were not efficient players.

It took them a long time to play a little, whereas under expert instruction they could learn to play twice as much per hour. I had read my copy books seriously and had taken to heart the story of the grasshopper and the ant and it was this influence which gave me to think that the panic was a come-uppance or a judgment.

Subsequent developments have changed me around somewhat. It began to be shown that the Americans, playful as they were, to the apparent neglect of productive toil, had not played half enough. Working in an apparently offhanded manner, between ball games, races, foot ball fêtes and travels to Europe, they had worked so fast while they were at it that, even under this reduced schedule, they had laid up a surplus of food and goods which would not be entirely consumed in a four years' holiday.

Like John Fitzgerald, the horse journalist, who said, "I do not sleep long, but I sleep awful fast," the Americans were speedy operators who didn't have to putter around all of 60 minutes putting in an hour's time.

They'll All Start Playing Once Again.

Working abstemiously, they were more effective than the striving Russians, who worked an awful lot but didn't get much done.

The profession of play director suffered somewhat from the panic, but merely because things were disorganized. It will come back fast now that the hours of labor are to be restricted even more under the federal law, and I look for large enrollments in the play departments of the colleges next fall. The graduate play experts should find a good market for their services almost immediately, for the short week of short days will leave the citizens even more time in which to play. And, naturally, being Americans, one and all will wish to play efficiently.

The manufacturers of sporting equipment, including golf tools, boats,

WHITE SOX WIN 2 GAMES, 2-1, 4-3, FROM DETROIT

9th Inning Rallies Decide Both Contests.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.—A couple of swell ninth inning outbreaks enabled the Sox to take a double header from the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 1 and 4 to 3, today. It gave the Sox their second successive double header and gave them possession of a four game winning streak.

Catcher Charley Berry scored the winning run in each contest and his effort in the first game was strictly of story book caliber. Firpo Marberry had only one putout to go to ring up his 14th victory of the year by a score of 1 to 0. But with two out and Ted Lyons on base, Charley socked a home run, the score became 2 to 1 for the Sox, but the game was not over.

They Even Beat Umpire.

Fox led off the Tiger ninth with a double and got to third on a sacrifice. At this point Mr. Berry again took charge. Greenberg grounded to Appling, who threw to Berry in time to head off Fox. Berry then outsprinted Fox in the dash to third. That sank the Tigers.

The second game was won with one out in the ninth, despite the discouragement of some very lazy and inept umpiring. Dykes opened with a double, but Hayes fanned. Berry grounded to Herring, who threw to Owen to get Dykes. It didn't seem possible, but Umpire Dineen called Jimmy out from some place over near second base. Gaston then walked, after which Swanson drove home the winning run with a double to right.

Pitchers Do Well.

Sam Jones was the winning pitcher in the first game, holding the enemy to seven hits, two of which were scratches. Gaston held the Tigers to eight hits in the second game, but caused anxiety by permitting the first three men to single in the fourth and in the seventh.

The Sox hitting was well scattered. Al Simmons drove in the first two runs in the second game with fly balls, but his hitting operations for the day were confined to a scratch infield single in the fourth inning of the first game. The Tigers didn't get Mule Haas out until the third inning of the second game. In the first encounter he singled the first three times up and landed the fourth time on an error. In the second game he singled in the first inning and later scored the first run. At this point he had a record of 12 hits in 16 times at bat.

The Sox and Tigers will play the final game of the series tomorrow.

FIRST GAME

The Sox had the moral advantage in the first three innings of the first game, for 12 of them faced Marberry while only nine Tigers faced Jones.

The Sox made three singles in the fourth inning, but didn't get a runner past second. Simmons opened with a single over second, but Appling hit into a double play. Dykes singled to left and stopped at second on Hayes' single to center. Berry then flied to Stone.

The Tigers broke their goose egg chain in their half of the fourth. Rogell pushed off with a single to right, moved to second on Owen's sacrifice and scored when Gehringer caromed a double off Webb's anatomy. Stone flied to Simmons and Dykes threw out Fox.

Haas Keeps on Hitting.

With two out in the fifth Haas made his third straight hit of the game and his 11th in 14 times at bat. Mule reached second on Webb's infield hit, but the threat died on Simmons' tap to Owen.

Appling's boot of Gehringer's grounder with two out in the sixth stirred up some short lived excitement, for it was followed by Stone's double along the right foul line. The inning ended on Fox's pop to Berry after Berry and Dykes had wrestled

PASSING FIRST TEST FOR INTERNATIONAL BOUTS

Martin Plays Dawson for Title Today

This pairing came as a result of two rounds yesterday, Martin defeating Don Armstrong in the quarter-finals, 2 and 1, and winning by the same margin in the semi-final round from Hunter Brown of Green Valley. Dawson won 4 and 3 in the first round from Jimmie Garard of Skokie and former University of Chicago captain, and in the afternoon he defeated Al Andereggen of Cherry Hill, 7 and 6.

Brown Hard to Beat.

Martin had a hard time disposing of young Hunter Brown, despite the fact he was 4 up at the turn. Brown was wild as an Indian, being on the fairway but twice in the 17 holes played, but he "got them up there" in nearly every instance.

He won the tenth coming home when Dick shot into a trap. Brown's tee shot soared far over in the seventh fairway, but he laid his next one right up for a par 5. His star effort was at the twelfth, where he holed a 125 yard approach for an eagle two to be three down. He got another hole at the fourteenth, despite the fact that his drive landed far down the tenth fairway. Martin overshot the green.

Tee Shot Beats Him.

On the sixteenth Brown was stymied and curled around it for a half, but lost on the seventeenth when his drive sailed far over the eighteenth fairway and his next two were short. The card:

Martin—Out	544	553	554—40
Brown—Out	554	564	645—44
Martin—In	634	455	44
Brown—In	542	445	45

CHOCOLATE WINS FROM MATCHENS; CROWD JEERS

BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, the Cuban Negro who holds the featherweight championship, won an unpopular decision from Matchens, claimant of the Belgian title, in a ten round bout here tonight. The crowd of 6,000 jeered and shouted at the decision, believing the Belgian's great work in the closing rounds had earned him a draw, and threatened to mob the referee, Juan Casanova, and the two judges.

Sammy Mandell Scores Four Round Knockout

Rain Just Delayed Victory, Chicago Golden Glovers Claim

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Golden Gloves champions were keenly disappointed last night when rain prevented the international bouts with the Irish. They had waited at the Illinois Athletic club since weighing in and were on edge for the third international test sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

Just before time to leave for the Stadium, word was received that the bouts had been postponed. Coach John Behr immediately called the eight boys together. All were sorry they had to wait 24 hours to tackle the Irish champions, but their attitude was such that you may be assured they will be ready tonight.

Several of the Golden Glovers were excused to make brief visits to their parents, but all retired at the I. A. C. last night at 11 o'clock. Their training routine will continue today as it did yesterday. If anything, the postponement will favor some of the boys, whose nerves were too tightly strung from constant thought of the fights. The extra day will give them a chance to relax.

Pacek Needs Weight.

For instance, John Pacek, the Chicago heavyweight, who scaled only 179 pounds yesterday afternoon at the Midwest Athletic club, will probably enter the ring tonight several pounds over the 180 mark. Pacek didn't attempt to reduce, but his two weeks' drill at Grand Beach brought him to this poundage.

Pacek may have the opportunity to win the international series. Most fans who know the Chicago boys and who have seen the Irish fighters work out, agree Chicago should win five of the eight bouts. In this case Pacek's battle with Paddy Mulligan, the last tonight, would be the deciding bout. If Mulligan wins, the series may end in a tie. If Pacek wins, Chicago may win.

All of this is predicated on victories by others on the Golden Gloves team. It isn't fair, however, to suppose that any of the Chicago team will lose. Each believes he is superior to his Irish opponent. Nothing less than eight triumphs will satisfy the

If a postponement is necessary the bouts will be held tomorrow night.

Radio broadcast—W-G-N, 9:30 p. m.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Rain last night caused the postponement of the international Golden Gloves bouts between the amateur boxing champions of Ireland and the Chicagoland team. The matches will be held this evening. Soldiers' field will be the scene of the encounter, the preliminaries starting at 8:30 o'clock and the international bouts at 9:30.

After a day of intermittent sunshine and drifting clouds, the skies began to darken. Shortly after 5 o'clock showers fell in some sections of the city and THE TRIBUNE telephone operators began to receive hundreds of queries whether the bouts were to be postponed.

Predicts Better Weather Tonight.

Despite the threatening weather the advance guard of the expected throng began moving toward Soldiers' field. They waited under leaden skies until a heavy downpour made necessary the definite postponement of the matches. C. A. Donnel, weather forecaster, predicted that the weather tonight would be much more suitable for the outdoor show.

Tickets will be on sale all day today in The Tribune Tower lobby and at THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street. Three ticket booths at Soldiers' field will be opened at 10 o'clock this morning and all booths will be in use after 6 p. m.

The prices of seats are $3.30, $2.50, $2, $1.10, and 55 cents. There are several thousand tickets still available in the reserved sections. If the demand is sufficient an additional 20,000 spectators can be seated in unreserved areas. The reserved sections accommodate 50,000.

Last year also the International Golden Gloves bouts were postponed because of rain, but on the following evening a crowd of 45,000 assembled to watch the Germans and the Americans fight to a 4 to 4 draw.

The crowd was the largest ever to see an amateur boxing match, but the throng which will gather tonight is expected to equal or exceed it.

Boxing's Biggest Show.

A boxing show which promises to be one of the best in the history of the sport is in store for this huge army of spectators. They will see eight Irish boys, who have battled their way to the championship of a fighting race, pitted against eight American boys who are rated as the strongest Chicagoland has ever sent into international or intercity Golden Gloves matches.

Thousands of the throng will be there to cheer for the Irish boys, thousands more for the Americans, and still other thousands will be present just because they want to see a good show with plenty of action.

Great Chicago Record.

The Chicago boys will go into tonight's encounter with a record of a 10 to 6 victory over the New York team in the intercity bouts last March. Before them they will have the example of other Chicago teams, which beat France 5 to 3 and tied Germany, 4 to 4, in the two previous interna-

'Star' Loses to Mr. Sponge at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Pacific coast turf folk were shedding tears again last night. Genuine tears about the size of hazelnuts were streaming down their cheeks.

And why shouldn't they mourn?

Gallant Sir, the big horse from out on the Pacific slope, which races for Norman W. Church of Los Angeles, was beaten again in Chicago. This is the same Gallant Sir which all the people in the golden west believed would sweep everything before him in the big time racing this season. It was the same Gallant Sir that dared to challenge Equipoise.

It was his fourth start in Chicago and it brought about his fourth defeat.

Mr. Sponge Is the Winner.

When the battle ended Gallant Sir was charging nobly toward the winning post but when he passed that objective he was a length and a half behind Mr. Sponge, which races for C. Leroy King of Memphis, Tenn. In third place, three lengths back of the winner, came Big Brand.

Indian Runner, Polydorus, Rehoboth and Cathop trailed the leaders home. They all had high weight up and the poundage evidently made it impossible for them to run any faster.

Indian Runner, under the crusher of 123 pounds, was fourth but was making very little progress near the end. It was too much weight for such a little horse.

Still Hope for Gallant Sir.

It happened in the Sky Harbor handicap, which was a dash at 6½ furlongs. The race engaged candidates for the $5,000 Hawthorne handicap at a mile and eighth, to be run on Saturday. Gallant Sir carried 126 pounds in yesterday's dash. He will pack 124 pounds in the handicap and he more than likely will win it for he ran yesterday as if a mile and an eighth will suit him much better than the 6½ furlongs did.

Mr. Sponge, carrying 116 pounds and ridden by C. Critchfield, jumped into the lead when Starter Morrissey gave them the word. He was in front for the entire trip with Polydorus and Gallant Sir offering the main challenges.

Polydorus Folds Up.

Heading into the stretch Polydorus began to wilt but Gallant Sir moved on toward the leader. He couldn't catch Mr. Sponge in such a short dash. Big Brand, coming from far back, jumped into third place near the end and appeared to be running over horses.

Mr. Sponge ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:19 1-5. The track was slow and his performance was remarkable. In the mutuels he was forgotten by the big army of players, so he paid $19.10 to win, $8.38 to place, and $4.14 to show. Gallant Sir's place price was $4.50 and he paid $3.28 to show. Big Brand's show price was $6.92.

Lady Higloss again demonstrated that there are few two year olds in the country that can beat her when she won the Brockwood purse by four lengths from the Kentucky champion, Penncote. Greyglade finished third.

The Lady never was in danger of losing the race, for Jockey Jack Westrope rushed her into the lead at the start and kept her there. Greyglade, American Red, and Technocracy tried to outrun her at different stages, but she never weakened.

Her Lead Expands.

Heading into the stretch she sprinted out into a longer lead and lost her rivals as she dashed toward the winning post. She finished the 5½ furlongs in 1:07 4-5. The track was slow.

She was the topheavy favorite and paid $4.52 to win. She won so easily her backers would have been satisfied with a much shorter price.

Time, :25, :49 4-5, 1:02 4-5, 1:10 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Windsong, $16.50 straight, $9.52 place, $5.30 show; Gay Follies, $19.14 place, $7.54 show; Parafour, $3.00 show. Winner trained by S. B. Ott. Went to post at 2:10. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

WINDSONG bore over sharply soon after reaching the turn, saved ground the final three-eighths and, holding on well, outstayed GAY FOLLIES. Latter also swerved over abruptly from outside at end of first quarter, maintained her speed gamely and was wearing down the winner. PARAFOUR, probably best and sharply crowded back on the turn, closed with fine speed on inside.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :24 4-5, :49, 1:14 3-5, 1:21 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Threat, $4.84 straight, $2.70 place, $2.20 show; Shoot, $3.06 place, $2.44 show; Grey Kitty, $2.66 show. Winner trained by B. Parke. Went to post at 2:43. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

THREAT, much the best and having an advantage in the going easily disposed of SHOOT and, drawing into a long lead, won with speed in reserve. SHOOT, quick to get going and taken to inside before going an eighth, weakened after reaching final furlong, but held others safe. GREY KITTY dropped back on the turn and also weakened in final drive.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :25 2-5, :50 2-5, 1:16 1-5, 1:42 3-5, 1:50. Two dollar mutuels paid: Flat Rock, $16.64 straight, $4.84 place, $3.18 show; Battling Girl, $2.86 place, $2.36 show; Glove, $2.78 show. Winner trained by F. F. Brant. Went to post at 3:08½. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

FLAT ROCK, much the best and having speed from the start, was under steady restraint for five-eighths, took command with a rush and, continuing well, won thereafter. BATTLING GIRL, away slowly, saved much ground, moved up gradually, and weakened in final eighth, but stalled off GLOVE. Latter, under strong riding the final half mile, held on fairly well.

FOURTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

†Field. Time, :24 4-5, :49, 1:14 3-5, 1:21 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Sun Thorn, $21.82 straight, $9.10 place, $8.24 show; Merry Chatter, $5.20 place, $5.30 show; Gallop Along, $10.88 show. Winner trained by B. A. Jones. Went to post at 3:33. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

SUN THORN worked his way to the front under strong riding, came away on the turn and, holding on in improved fashion, won thereafter. MERRY CHATTER moved up fast immediately following the spill and weakened in the final eighth, but outstayed GALLOP ALONG. The latter raced wide much of the trip and closed resolutely.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :24 3-5, :48 3-5, 1:01 1-5, 1:07 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Lady Higloss, $4.82 straight, $3.10 place, $2.40 show; Penncote, $3.70 place, $2.70 show; Grey Glade, $2.82 show. Winner trained by O. L. Foster. Went to post at 3:00½. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

LADY HIGLOSS, quick to get going and working her way clear before going a quarter, pulled away fast on the turn and, much the best, won with speed in reserve. PENNCOTE, slightly forced back at the far turn and brought to the outside after reaching the stretch, closed resolutely in a fine effort. GREY GLADE, a factor from the start, weakened in the final drive, but outstayed ESSIE WESSIE.

SIXTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 4-5, :48, 1:12 3-5, 1:19 1-5 [weather cloudy, track good]. Two dollar mutuels paid: Mr. Sponge, $19.10 straight, $8.38 place, $4.14 show; Gallant Sir, $4.50 place, $3.28 show; Big Brand, $6.92 show. Winner trained by O. L. Williams. Went to post at 4:22½. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

MR. SPONGE, away fast and going in his best form, raced wide and, under slight restraint the first three-eighths, drew clear gradually on the stretch turn and did not require strong pressure to hold GALLANT SIR safe. The latter, a strong factor from the start, could not get to the winner when under vigorous urging in the final eighth, but held on gamely. BIG BRAND closed with a rush.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :25, :50 1-5, 1:16, 1:42 3-5, 1:50. Two dollar mutuels paid: Blameless $8.74 straight, $5.04 place, $3.54 show; Beauty Secret, $16.76 place, $8.80 show; Heads Up, $6.88 show. Winner trained by D. S. Fountain. Went to post at 4:47½. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

BLAMELESS, racing improved and allowed to remain off the pace for five-eighths, responded well when called upon and, working her way to the front, outstayed BEAUTY SECRET. The latter, also improved and far back for three-quarters, closed with a rush on the outside. HEADS UP had speed from the start, saved ground in the stretch, and held on well.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :25 1-5, :50 3-5, 1:15 3-5, 1:42 1-5, 1:55. Two dollar mutuels paid: White Legs, $9.64 straight, $4.58 place, $2.82 show; Chokoloskee, $4.44 place, $3.02 show; Tarnish, $3.14 show. Winner trained by J. Lowenstein. Went to post at 5:12½. Left at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

WHITE LEGS, well ridden and lucky, was allowed to remain out of it for three-quarters, slightly improved his position when racing wide on the stretch turn, and, coming through on the inside in the final eighth, was up in the final fifty yards. CHOKOLOSKEE, probably best and having speed, bore out badly on the stretch turn and held on gamely while racing wide in the final drive. TARNISH, on the outside throughout, weakened after working her way to the front.

Sireci Meets Lawless in 10 Round Bout

Vincent Sireci, New York welterweight, and Bucky Lawless of Syracuse, N. Y., will meet in a 10 round bout tonight at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. Sireci will be making his fourth appearance in Chicago. He has knocked out Mickey O'Shea and beaten Puggy Weinert and Al Salbano here. Lawless defeated Young Jack Thompson, then welterweight champion, in a nontitle match at the Chicago Stadium two years ago in his last start here.

Leo Rodak, south side featherweight, will seek his second victory in as many professional bouts, meeting Al De Rose at four rounds. The remainder of the card follows:

Eddie Stiegal vs. Henry Hamburg [6].
Joey Bozak vs. Johnny Fitzpatrick [6].
Moss A. Brawner vs. Frank Ketter [4].

Eddie [Red] Chinski, Kankakee, Ill., lightweight, will box Lou Vine in the six round main event at the Rainbo Fronton tomorrow. Jack Robinson, Chicago heavyweight, and Verne Trickle meet in a return contest at four rounds. Other bouts bring together George Williams and Bobby Millsapp [4], Elnar Hedquist and Sammy Adams [4], Erwin Dillon and Jerry Kucera [4], Ralph Ramson and Joe Orawiecz [wrestling].

A wrestling show will be presented tomorrow at Northwest stadium. Lou Talaber, former middleweight champion, will meet Jack Zaravitch, Tony Hajdich faces George Schwab and Fred Kohler will wrestle Johnny Holda.

An intercity tournament between amateur boxers from Gary, Ind., and Chicago will be held tomorrow at Ashland arena. The card is:

GARY.		CHICAGO.
Tony Zale	vs.	Charlie Neigo
Henry Parry	vs.	Allen Asp
Joe Barco	vs.	Marty Cherkasky
Charlie Brodak	vs.	Art Cherkasky
Walter Bryson	vs.	Henry Konecki
Frank Yukon	vs.	William Dewberry
Joe Jaski	vs.	Frank Mirabal

Walter Larson meets Eddie Klechi and Martin Polka faces Johnny Heoth in wrestling exhibitions.

Nine bouts will comprise the amateur card tonight at the C. Y. O. stadium, 1140 Jackson boulevard. It is a closed tournament, Ed Mileski and Bob La Monte, C. Y. O. welterweights will meet in the windup. The semi-final will bring together Henry Fuscaldo and Jack Sullivan, flyweights.

Lou Vine, local lightweight, and Young Terry of Davenport, Ia., signed yesterday to box the eight round semi-windup to the Henry Firpo-Kid Leonard contest at East Moline, Ill., Monday.

A Leech Doesn't Care Where He Gets Next Meal

BY BOB BECKER.

Out door fans in Chicagoland see some interesting huntig expeditions during the course of a year. We have a wide variety of animals from badgers to weasels in northern Illinois. This summer, however, a few of the citizens in Chicagoland are engaged upon an entirely different kind of hunt. In this case the quest is for leeches, those curious bloodsucking creatures which for centuries have been used by the medical profession to draw blood from the human body. Inasmuch as leeches live in ponds, sluggish water in ditches, and lakes and streams [especially in the northern states], a hunt for these bloodsuckers takes one to water.

Nearly every boy who used to frequent the "old swimming hole" has had the thrill of coming out of the water with a leech clinging to his body. This ability of the creature to cling to its host and its medical use has resulted in the phrase

Walker, Vaughan Trade Punches in Ninth.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 2.—(AP)—St. Louis trounced Pittsburgh, 4 to 3, today in a 12 inning contest marked by a fistic exchange between Bill Walker, Cardinal pitcher, and Arky Vaughan, Pirate shortstop, and disputes with the umpire.

The Cardinals evened the score in the seventh, registering two runs, and forged ahead in the ninth with another tally. The Pirates added one in their half of the ninth to knot the score.

The Pirates had the tying run on second with one out when Vaughan grounded to Crawford. Walker covered first and Vaughan crashed into him. Walker swung at the base runner and the shortstop retaliated. Meanwhile Paul Waner raced home with the tying run. The contestants were ejected.

Umpire Magerkurth allowed the run but reversed his decision after a storm of protest from the Cardinals. Waner finally went back to third and scored on Traynor's grounder which Durocher threw low to Crawford.

The Cards won in the 12th, Frisch getting to third when Crawford's grounder to Piet took a bad hop. He scored on Medwick's single.

Yankees Slip Back; Macks Triumph, 16-3

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, snapping their six game losing streak with 19 hits behind the effective pitching of George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg, today defeated the New York Yankees, 16 to 3, in the first game of the series. The defeat shoved the Yanks two games back of the Senators, who defeated the Red Sox.

Earnshaw, pitching seven innings before being relieved because of the extreme heat, yielded seven bases on balls, but set the Yanks down with seven hits and only two runs. Walberg yielded one run and three hits during his two innings sojourn on the mound. The Athletes hammered four Yankee pitchers. Score:

SENATORS, 2; RED SOX, 1.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Dave Harris, substitute outfielder, and Pitcher Alvin Crowder today put on an all star act between them to help the Washington Senators to a 2 to 1 decision over the Boston Red Sox, stretching the Senators' lead over the Yankees to two full games.

While Crowder held the Red Sox to four singles, Harris hit a home run into the left field stands to tie the score in the eighth. It was his third homer within two days. A single by Heinie Manush to center in the ninth, while three of his teammates were on base, brought across the winning run with only one out. Score:

LEAL AND BOYER TIE FOR MEDAL IN LINKS GOLF

Portland, Ore., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Three birdies on the last nine enabled Leslie Leal of Bellingham, Wash., to forge into a tie with Tab Boyer of Portland, Ore., for medal honors in the 36 hole qualifying round of the national public links golf tournament today when he posted a total of 144, even par. Leal's two cards were 74—70, and Boyer's 68—76.

The defending champion, Robert Lee Miller of Jacksonville, Fla., just barely squeezed into the match play when he finished the qualifying round with a total of 153, nine over par.

George Thomas, the only Chicagoan to qualify, shot 150. Hank Foley, another Chicago entry, carded 154 and tied with 11 others for the highest qualifying score.

They will play it off tomorrow morning.

Bush, Derringer Pitch in Final of Reds Series Today

The Reds will close their visit today and the Cubs, now that they have learned to beat the fellows, will be sorry to see 'em depart. Guy Bush will pitch for the champions, and Paul Derringer for the tail enders.

Yesterday was Grimm's first anniversary as a Cub leader. When he took Hornsby's job Aug. 2 last year the Cubs' standing was 53 wins and 46 defeats, and the team was in second place, five games behind the Pirates. The Cubs now are in third place, five games behind the Giants.

If anybody doubts that the Cubs at home and the Cubs abroad are two different teams, here are the figures: They have won 37 and lost 13 at Wrigley field this season; on the road their record is a miserable 18 wins against 33 defeats.

The hitting, arguing, etc., in the first inning used up 37 minutes. Ten of these were used up by Donie Bush, the Reds' manager, while he was working himself into a high fever because Ump Pfirman didn't think Bottomley tagged Grimm while the latter was running to first.

The northeast wind was all that kept Babe Herman from enjoying a homer in the fifth, when two were on base. He hit one straight tward the bleacher in left center, but the wind blew it down and Hafey grabbed it as he leaned against the screen.

get it. To all appearances he tagged Grimm, after which he threw to the plate, but not in time to keep Demaree from scoring. Grimm, however, wasn't out according to the umpires, who stuck to their decision despite a lengthy talk by Donie Bush. The decision made no difference, however. Kolp was able to get Jurges and Root to close the activity.

Billy Herman and Cuyler did a little more promoting of their averages in the second and a run resulted, making the Cub lead 5 to 1. Herman doubled to left, stole third when Kolp let him take a big lead, and scored on a single by Cuyler.

The Reds retrieved this run at bargain rates in the third. Root hit Morrissey in the ribs with a pitched ball and the victim stole second to compensate himself for the blow. After Hafey had fanned, Moore singled to right to score Morrissey. Manager Grimm immediately concluded that Root was a poor risk, so slipped Henshaw into action and a double play resulted right after the change.

Cubs Keep Running Around.

A couple of phoney hits gave the Cubs an opening in the third, and then they stepped right up with a couple of taps that were real, scoring three runs thereby. One of the cheap hits was a slow bounder by Grimm to Morrissey with one out. After two were out Henshaw beat out the same sort of a hopper to short. A single to right by Koenig sent Grimm home and put Henshaw on third. Koenig stole second. Both scored when Billy Herman doubled to left. Moore let the ball get through his hands, giving the runner an extra base, but Cuyler couldn't bring him in.

The fifth, in which two more Cubs scored, was mainly Bluege's party. He put it on right. For a starter he booted Grimm's grounder. Then he let Jurges' roller slip through his hands. Grimm tried to make third on this blunder, but Morrissey recovered the ball behind short and nailed him with a throw to Adams, who had switched his duties to that corner. Jurges stole third on Henshaw's third strike and scored when Koenig doubled to right. Koenig took third on Billy Herman's safe bunt and ran home on Bluege's third error, which consisted of a wild peg on Cuyler's roller.

Reds Pick Up Three.

Henshaw managed to wriggle through various troublesome spots until the seventh, when the Reds actually scored three runs that were earned. Kolp started the rumpus with a single to center. This was followed by a pass to Adams, a fly to left by Morrissey, double by Hafey, single by Moore, and a pass to Bluege. After this shaking up Henshaw managed to get the next two men on fly balls.

The Reds were handed a run in the ninth. Moore walked and went from first to third because nobody paid any attention to him. He ran home on Bluege's fly to Cuyler.

After Rogell had made a nice play to throw out Appling at the start of the ninth, Dykes singled to right for the seventh hit off Marberry. Lyons batted for Hayes and shot a grounder over second. Gehringer, however, made a back hand catch of the ball and tossed to Rogell with his gloved hand to force Dykes.

Tigers Nearly Rally.

Berry then knocked his home run over the scoreboard, scoring Lyons ahead of him. The ball bounced back into the field after hitting the public address layout, causing the Detroit ensemble to put on a half-hearted squawk, which failed to impress either of the umpires. Jones grounded out to Gehringer.

Fox pushed off the Tiger ninth with a double to the scoreboard and moved to third on Doljack's sacrifice. Greenberg grounded to Appling and Fox was trapped, Appling to Berry. White batted for Pasek and Walker ran for Greenberg. Walker stole second, but White grounded out to Rhyne.

SECOND GAME

The Sox hopped off for a run in the first inning of the second game. With one out, Haas made his fourth single of the afternoon and went to third on Webb's single to deep center. Simmons scored Haas with a fly to Fox; then Appling fouled to Greenberg.

Stone beat out a single to Appling to start the Tigers' fourth, and went to third on Fox's single to center. Appling cut off Haas' throw to third and threw the ball to the stands in an effort to trap Fox off first, whereupon Stone scored the tying run and Fox went to second. Doljack put the Tigers ahead by scoring Fox with a single to left. Dykes threw out Greenberg, Doljack stopping at second. Hayworth fanned and Frasier lined to Swanson.

Sox Tie Up Score.

Swanson beat out a smash off Frasier's glove to start the sixth, went to second on Haas' sacrifice and to third on Webb's single. He scored the tying run on Simmons' fly to Stone. Appling doubled off the scoreboard, Webb stopping at third. Dykes flied to Stone.

Hayes opened the seventh with a single to right and advanced on Berry's sacrifice. Gaston singled to center, scoring Hayes. Swanson and Haas flied to Fox.

White batted for Frasier with one out in the seventh and singled over second. Rogell grounded out to Hayes, White stopping at second. Owen then tripled to right, scoring White with the tieing run. Gehringer lined to Haas.

Dykes Starts Rally.

Herring entered the game at the outset of the eighth. Dykes doubled off him to the scoreboard to launch the ninth. Hayes made two attempts to sacrifice then fanned, Berry grounded to Herring, who threw to Owen, whereupon Umpire Bill Dineen called out Dykes, who obviously was safe. Gaston walked. Swanson doubled to right, Berry scoring the winning run and Gaston stopping at third. Hogsett relieved Herring. Gehringer made a great play near first to throw out Haas.

Greenberg opened the Detroit ninth by fouling out to Berry. Walker batted for Hayworth and lined to Simmons. Schuble batted for Hogsett and doubled off the left field screen, a smack that would have been a homer prior to this season. Rogell then filed to Simmons.

INDIANA SHOALS RACE WILL START SATURDAY NIGHT

The annual race to the Indiana Shoals buoy, 19 miles southeasterly from Chicago, will be sailed Saturday night, starting at midnight.

The midnight race, annually sponsored for the fleet of the Columbia Yacht club, this year is open to yachts from all organizations. Competing skippers and crews will be entertained at a party and dance aboard the club ship preceding the race Saturday night.

This Makes Golf Wonderful Game for Squirrels

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Don Ahern of Willimantic, Conn., declared today that a collapsible ladder will have a place in his golf bag in all future tournaments.

Ahern, a contender for the New England championship, opposing Dom Soccoli of the Manchester Country club today, fired his ball into a lofty tree at the 17th green and it stayed there. Ahern called for a ladder, climbed twenty feet, and hit his ball with a putter. It landed on the edge of the green and he halved the hole with a five.

FEDERAL INCOME, EXPENSES COME NEARER BALANCE

Ordinary Deficit 32 Millions in Fiscal Month.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2—The federal government closed the first month of its new fiscal year with the budget exclusive of emergency items closer to balance than at any time since the depression started, the treasury department announced today.

Ordinary expenditure exceeded receipts by only 32 million dollars in July, the treasury announced today after a final checkup of the books. Emergency expenditures, however, added another 75 million dollars to the outgo side of the ledger, making the deficit on all accounts total about 108 millions.

One Fourth of Last Year.

This deficit was a little more than a fourth as large as that incurred by the government in the same month last year. At the end of July, 1932, the government had spent 412 million dollars more than it had received.

Reduction in the deficit resulted both from higher taxes and curtailed spending. The administration's economy campaign cut the ordinary expenses for the first month of the fiscal year to 196 million dollars, compared with 351 millions in the same month a year ago. The reduction has been made largely at the expense of the routine departments and the veterans.

Even the huge outlay of emergency units set up by the Roosevelt administration spent less last month than the Reconstruction Finance corporation dispensed single handed in the same month a year ago.

Emergency Spending Halted.

Expenses of all emergency units, including the R. F. C., last month were 75 million dollars, just half of the 150 millions spent last year by the R. F. C. in an effort to check middle western bank troubles.

On the income side of the ledger, the government enjoyed a 75 million dollar increase over the total for the same month a year ago due to increased customs and miscellaneous tax collections. Total revenue during July were 163 million dollars, compared with 88 millions during July, 1932.

The public debt at the end of the month was 22 billion 610 million dollars compared with 22 billion 539 million at the beginning of the month. The increase was due to borrowing by the treasury.

Illinois Life.

Investors' Guide: Would you kindly send me information on what is to happen to policyholders of Illinois Life?—H. R. U.

Answer: On July 23, 1933, the federal court approved the contract providing for reinsurance of policyholders of Illinois Life Insurance company, submitted by Central Life Assurance society of Des Moines.

The contract provides that Central Life reinsure and assume all policies on which premiums had been paid to July 15, 1933, subject to a lien of 70 per cent. Lapsed policies will be reinstated in accordance with the terms of the policies.

Central Life will pay valid death claims promptly for deaths occurring after July 23. There will be no deduction for the principal amount of the lien if death occurs prior to Jan. 1, 1939, but the company will deduct unpaid interest on the lien accruing from July 23. Claims for death occurring prior to the effective date of the contract will be paid in 30 equal monthly installments without interest, the first installment being paid on Oct. 23.

Any profits accruing out of management of the Illinois Life business must be credited to policyholders of that institution. The reinsuring company receives no profit out of the contract. It is reimbursed for expenses incurred.

When in 1941 the lien against the policies is discharged, the Illinois Life policyholders will become full participating policyholders of Central Life, enjoying all benefits that the other policyholders of that company have.

Ernest Palmer, director of insurance of Illinois, made the following statement in connection with the reinsurance contract:

"In the opinion of this department the contract . . . secures to policyholders . . . all benefits possible under the circumstances. The excellent reputation and standing of the reinsuring company and the safeguards to your rights contained in the contract, we believe, warrant assurance that your interests will be fully protected."

U.S. PLAN TO CUT WHEAT OUTPUT IN FULL SWING

BY PAUL POTTER.

The gigantic task of reorganizing the wheat production of 42 states of the Union and the organization necessary to reduce our wheat output by enlisting each individual farmer is now in full swing under direction of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and the new farm adjustment administration.

In many respects the job has taken on the aspects of the wartime drafting of men for the service, except that it will not be compulsory for the wheat farmer to "join up" unless he finds that the cash benefits to himself are so great an inducement that he cannot afford to stay out.

This week the state agricultural extension forces of the nation are holding regional meetings to inform the county agents and others about the mechanism of reducing the 1934 and 1935 wheat crops.

Form County Control Groups.

In each of the 42 states is being built up a state wheat committee of which the state college experts are members. The state organization is temporary, however. Through the county agents in 2,233 counties each county is creating a wheat control committee, which will be the direct contact of the individual farmer with his government.

These county committees will approve the volume which each farmer may produce next year to get his check from the government. The farmer himself will be expected to submit either the records of his local grain elevator or his thresherman to show how much wheat he grew in the last three years. When a farmer has shown such records he gets his quota of production and signs a contract with Uncle Sam to leave idle as many acres of land as Uncle Sam later will tell him must be taken out of all production.

The government has already determined that the nation will consume 456 million bushels of wheat in 1934 and is collecting a processing tax of 30 cents a bushel.

How Farmer Will Be Paid.

Out of this 30 cents the government is withholding 2 cents a bushel to create a fund with which it will finance the sale next year of the surplus to China or other countries at world market prices or below.

Out of this 30 cents, also, 20 cents a bushel will be paid to each farmer who signs up for his quota with his local committee during September. Next summer, when the farmer has harvested and shows his committee he kept his contract by reducing his acreage [to whatever Secretary Wallace will announce as the reduction by Sept. 1.] the farmer will receive another 8 cents a bushel.

Out of the 8 cents, however, will come the actual expenses incurred by the county committees in administering its duties. In other words, the county committee will be operated by the farmers themselves, and the total possible expense could not exceed 2 cents a bushel.

Revival of Old Plan.

This much of the plan is called the domestic allotment plan. It is purely a revised form of the old equalization fee principle fought for by farm organizations so many years. It was passed twice by congress as the McNary-Haugen bills, both times vetoed by Coolidge. However, constant fear of the United States dumping its surplus abroad, plus the zeal of European governments to increase returns of their wheat farmers, have caused tariffs to be built so high in nearly every foreign market as to restrict the market for American wheat largely to the orient.

The reason that Secretary Wallace has not announced just how much acreage the individual wheat farmer must leave idle or in pasture crops this fall is that he is waiting for the action of the wheat conference in London. The conference, attended by delegates from Canada, Australia, Argentina, and the United States, has been seeking to effect an agreement among all exporting wheat countries to cut acreage for 1934.

Acreage Cut in Doubt.

Wallace has declared the United States will cut at least 10 per cent, no matter what others do, and sell its exportable wheat wherever it can for whatever it can get. He would not consent to cutting more than 15 per cent. The conference has adjourned until Aug. 21, and, unless an informal understanding is reached in the meantime, Wallace is expected to tell American farmers who sign the contract by which they receive the bonuses how much to cut their acreage on Aug. 24.

So the situation simmers down to

What Price Interest When Bureaus Row?

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The argument between Secretary Wallace's department of agriculture and Secretary Woodin's treasury department over Wallace's borrowing from private banks to finance government cotton purchases has stirred up much interest in the financial community.

What is the rental value of money?

The treasury department says that 4-10 of one per cent per annum is a fair rate of interest on government borrowings. The Reconstruction Finance corporation thinks 4 per cent is a fair rate—just ten times the treasury's rate. Secretary Wallace borrowed from private banks at 2 to 2½ per cent.

Mr. Wallace has just borrowed 30 million dollars from a syndicate, headed by two New York banks, half of which is to be repaid in 45 days and the other half in 90 days. The money was needed to buy a million bales of cotton for use under the cotton planters relief plan.

Under the agricultural adjustment act Wallace has the authority to borrow money with which to buy cotton held under government loans. The same act empowers the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend him money for that purpose.

There is nothing in the act, however, which stipulates that the secretary must borrow from the R. F. C. The R. F. C. wanted 4 per cent interest, because it has to pay 3½ per cent interest on the money it borrows from the treasury. The treasury, in turn, gets the money by selling short term bills or certificates on which it pays interest of about .4 of 1 per cent.

The banking syndicate was glad to make a short term government loan at 2 to 2½ per cent interest, and Wallace was glad to get the money at an interest rate only a little more than half that charged by the R. F. C.

Bankers say that the treasury's extremely low borrowing rate of .4 of 1 per cent is possible only for two reasons. First, because the manipulation of the money markets by the federal reserve authorities under treasury direction, and, second, because high taxes and increased governmental interference with finance have made securities other than those issued by governmental bodies less attractive.

Allotment of another 118 millions of federal handouts from the administration's public works fund Wednesday brought total appropriations past the billion mark and likewise brought currency inflation another step nearer.

To date there has been practically no inflation at all. True, the federal reserve banks have bought some 200 millions more of government bonds, and arrangements have been made for issuing currency against the 10 millions of silver paid in by Great Britain on its war debt account, but at present there is actually less money in circulation than there was before the United States went off the gold standard.

Inflation thus far has been a bluff. To the extent that inflation has influenced prices they have gone up on the expectation of inflation rather than on any definite action in depreciating the currency.

With more than a billion dollars of extra spending already promised in the public works program, however, the time is approaching when the ordinary sources of credit will need priming.

Marshall Field's Retail Sales Rise 52.5% in July

The daily average business at Marshall Field & Co.'s main retail store in State street increased 52.5 per cent during July over the like period of 1932, according to an announcement made yesterday by John McKinley, president of the company. Mr. McKinley pointed out that the increase was made despite the fact that the store is closed on Saturday afternoons during the summer months.

British Liner Brings 9,000 Silver Bars Slated for U. S.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Nine thousand bars of silver, worth about 2½ million dollars and believed consigned by Great Britain to the United States to apply on war debts, were discharged here today by the liner Empress of Canada on her arrival from the orient. The cargo, under special guard, will be shipped Saturday to San Francisco on the steamer Emma Alexander.

STEEL OUTPUT HOLDS STEADY AT 57 PER CENT

Pig Iron Production Increases in July.

Pig iron production increased sharply during July. Steel output is holding its own, last week's rate of 57 per cent of capacity remaining unchanged from the preceding week. A possible influence which may slow down steel production is a possible lack of fuel as a result of a labor threat in southwestern Pennsylvania.

These are the high spots in the weekly review of the iron and steel industry by Iron Age.

July pig iron production totaled 1,819,428 tons, or 58,692 tons daily, compared with 1,265,007 tons, or 42,166 tons daily in June. The July output was at the highest rate since May, 1931. There was a net gain of 16 active furnaces during the month.

Demand Holds Up Well.

The magazine states that steel demand is showing unexpected staying powers and while the rate of production of ingots has declined in certain centers it has increased in others. The demand from the automobile industry, the largest single consumer of iron and steel, is reported as holding up unusually well.

"At Pittsburgh operations have declined from 50 to 49 per cent," Iron Age states, "at Chicago from 56 to 52 per cent, at Buffalo from 60 to 57 per cent, and in the Wheeling district from 90 to 85 per cent. On the other hand, production in the eastern Pennsylvania district has risen sharply from 41 to well over 47 per cent, the rate in the Cleveland-Lorain zone has advanced from 67 to 69 per cent and there have been slight gains in minor centers.

Fear Coal Field Strikes.

"From present indications steel output this month is less likely to be affected by seasonal influences than by a shortage of fuel. Efforts of the United Mine Workers to unionize coal and coke operations in southwestern Pennsylvania have assumed threatening proportions, in some cases causing entire suspension of work. Continuance of these labor difficulties for any length of time might well result in the exhaustion of accumulated supplies of fuel and pig iron, with ultimate curtailment or stoppage of steel production at various plants."

Discussing the automobile demand, the paper states that production of motor cars last week reached a new high point for the year and it is expected July assemblies will reach a total of 240,000 units. The August output is expected to compare favorably with that of June and July.

Naval Building to Help.

The magazine says that makers of heavy roll steel products will benefit from the government's naval program. Fabricated steel awards for the week aggregated 33,135 tons. More than 900 government building projects, calling for 160,000 tons, have been officially sanctioned.

Owing to a further slight upward adjustment in delivered prices on southern pig iron, the Iron Age pig iron composite has advanced from $15.90 to $15.94 a ton. The finished steel and scrap composites are unchanged at 1.973 cents a pound and $12.08 a ton, respectively.

Electric Power Output 15.4% Over Last Year

The output of electricity both for the Chicago district and the entire country continues to hold the gains which developed some weeks ago. Current figures show to better advantage in comparisons with 1932 results than they have done in recent weeks because of decreasing output a year ago.

For the Chicago district the output of electricity in the week ended July 29 totaled 97,350,000 kilowatt hours compared with $4,231,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding week last year—an increase of 15.6 per cent. The percentage of gain was the highest of any week in July.

Best Report Since May, 1929.

The Commonwealth Edison company states that preliminary figures on the percentage increase for the month of July over last year make the best showing since May, 1929.

For the entire country the Edison Electric institute reports that the output totaled 1,661,504,000 kilowatt hours compared with 1,654,424,000 kilowatt hours in the preceding week and with 1,440,386,000 kilowatt hours in the like 1932 week. The gain over last year was 15.4 per cent, the same as in the preceding week.

The institute stated that despite indications of some seasonal contraction in industrial activity, the electrical industry has been able to hold its rate of increase over last year. A factor was increased consumption in the middle Atlantic and central industrial regions.

How Sections Compared.

The percentage of gains in the various regions over last year compared with the gains of the preceding week are as follows: New England, up 24 per cent against 27.1 per cent; middle Atlantic, up 13.6 per cent against 11.7 per cent; central industrial, up 21.1 per cent against 19.2 per cent; southern states, up 14 per cent against 13.8 per cent and Pacific coast, 8 per cent, unchanged.

The department of the interior reports that the average daily output in June was 240,200,000 kilowatt hours—an increase of 6.5 per cent compared with May, the largest percentage increase in daily average output ever recorded. The normal change from May to June is a rise of about 1.5 per cent.

CHRYSLER UNITS REPORT GAINS IN JULY SHIPMENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—July shipments of Plymouth and De Soto, units of Chrysler Motors, continued at high levels and it was said by the company that August orders on hand insure operations at about the same levels as in July.

Plymouth shipped 31,000 cars in July, an increase of 73 per cent over last year. De Soto shipments of 3,500 cars broke all July records and were 224.7 per cent ahead of last year.

CANADIAN $75,000,000 LOAN TAKEN IN ONE MINUTE IN LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Canadian government borrowed £15,000,000 sterling [$75,000,000 at par] in one minute this morning when the subscription list was opened for the new 4 per cent loan at par. The list was opened at 9 o'clock and closed at one minute past owing to the overwhelming number of applications for the issue.

Proceeds of the bonds, which run for 20 and 25 years, will be used chiefly to redeem unconverted 5½ per cent Victory bonds.

The spectacular success at the commencement of the August holiday month is unusual. There was no official announcement as to the extent of the applications, but it is assumed the loan was subscribed many times over.

It was the first loan Canada has floated in the London market in 21 years, but the present 4 per cent trustee security strongly appealed to British financial houses, banks and insurance companies. The result shows that a large amount of idle money is available in London for high class investment securities.

U. S. Treasury Asks Bids on 75 Million New Bills

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Acting Secretary Acheson today invited tenders for $75,000,000 of 91-day bills which will be sold to the highest bidder next Monday. The bills will be dated Aug. 9 and mature Nov. 8. The proceeds will be used to retire bills maturing on Aug. 9.

Dollar Slumps on Renewal of Inflation Talk

New York, Aug. 2.—Reports from Washington received in Wall street today, declaring that active inflationary measures would shortly be taken, sent the dollar tumbling in the foreign exchange market, promoted a sharp rally in the stock market, and unsettled the government bond market.

Lately talk of inflation has, in the parlance of the markets, been "soft pedaled." There had been reports that, for the time being, inflation had been "called off." These reports, widely accepted, accounted largely for the recent buoyancy of the dollar in foreign exchange, for the dullness of the stock market, and for the enthusiastic reception accorded the treasury bond offer.

Today's reports, while no more authoritative than the earlier ones, apparently carried weight with many in the financial district. The pound sterling rallied sharply to $4.53½ and closed up 15 cents at $4.53¾. The franc went up to 5.35 cents, where it closed 12 points higher on the day. Measured in terms of the franc, the gold valuation of the dollar, which had risen as high as 75.5 cents on Tuesday, fell yesterday to 73.2 cents, a drop of about 3½ per cent.

The influence of the reports was felt throughout the foreign exchange list and spread to the securities markets. Canadian dollars rallied 1⅝ cents to 57⅜ per cent discount. Guilders were up 120 points to 55.20 cents.

Stocks Climb on New Rumor of Inflation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—One of those Washington grapevine dispatches which have played so important a part in stock market operations during the last four or five months reached the exchange about an hour before the close of today's dealings and—as usual—galvanized the list into fresh activity.

This time the "tip" conveyed word to the worldly wise that the administration is of a mind to set about devaluing the dollar to the end of "physical" inflation. A week or so ago wires from the capital were singing with the assurance—reputedly emanating from high official quarters—that those in the seats of authority had decided that devaluation was not necessary in view of the encouraging progress in trade revival registered to date.

It was said at that time that the devaluation plans had been sidetracked, if not finally dropped, and the speculative community thought so highly of its information that it accepted the news at its face value.

Rumor Roosevelt Will Act.

Today's revised "understanding" had it that subsequent developments, the nature of which were not specified, had persuaded certain advisers of the President that a shift from this position was in order. The intimation was held out that announcement of a decision to this end might be anticipated.

Up to the time of the report the market had been dragging along with the leaders showing a pronounced disposition to wilt to lower levels. United States Steel, American Can, Atchison, General Electric, and others were anywhere from fractions to more than a point below their previous closing levels.

As the "news" got around, however, buying orders began to pour in at a brisk rate and within a very few minutes a strong rally was in progress. The buying continued on through to the close, and the final prices on the more active issues were from 1 to 5 points above their lows of the day.

Homestake Mining Soars.

Homestake Mining, the leader of the gold mining group, skyrocketed more than 22 points from its bottom, rounding out the session with a net gain of nearly 27 points. Western Union sold up to 63¾, a net gain of 5½ points.

The so-called liquor stocks came into favor once more. National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, and others looked up sharply.

American Telephone, Du Pont, Union Pacific, Industrial Rayon, Celanese, Penney, General Mills, and General Railway Signal, and Illinois Central advanced more vigorously. U. S. Smelting climbed around 6 points.

Sales totaled 1,730,680 shares, about the same as yesterday.

N. Y. EXCHANGE PUTS NEW BRAKE ON SPECULATION

Margins Are Raised, Pools Regulated.

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The governors of the New York Stock exchange acted today to check rabid speculation by prescribing minimum margins, requiring weekly reports from members on pool, syndicate, and joint account operations and on options, and forbidding members to lend money to nonbanking firms and individuals.

The new rules were promulgated as permanent additions and amendments to the bylaws. They are designed to tighten drastically the curb on speculation and to restrict the opening of weak speculative accounts such as are generally credited in Wall street with having undermined the recent advancing markets.

The regulations specify that all brokerage accounts of $5,000 or less shall have a minimum margin of 50 per cent and the margin on larger accounts shall be at least 30 per cent. Heretofore the members have established their own marginal requirements.

Margins Recently Lower.

Margins have been as low as 20 per cent and recently were marked up to an average of 35 per cent and to 50 and 60 per cent on the highly speculative "wet stocks." Prior to the recent decline margins in certain popular issues which had boomed ranged around 50 per cent.

The new rules also require a minimum margin of ten points for all short accounts. For long accounts in United States government securities a margin of at least 5 per cent is required.

The governors also moved to perfect their compliance with the spirit of the national securities act by prohibiting members to pay expenses incurred by their "customers' men" in entertaining customers, forbiding the sale of securities to customers at their homes and the solicitation of new margin accounts at homes, and prohibiting customers' men from communicating with customers at their homes unless expressly permitted to do so.

May Govern Pools.

Reports on pool and syndicate operations have been required previously by the exchange as temporary measures during bear markets, but the new rules apparently are a permanent requirement. The committee on business conduct, which acts in matters dealing with the expulsion of members, is empowered to "disapprove of the connection of any member or firm with any pool, syndicate or joint account" in its discretion. GRAINS ADVANCE AGAIN AS TRADE GROWS CALMER

Fluctuations Stay Inside Daily Limits.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Almost normal conditions prevailed in the grain markets yesterday, and for the first time since July 20 buyers and sellers were able to operate freely without the limits on advances or declines for the session being seriously threatened.

Wheat, corn, and oats were up the maximum amount at the start, but the deadlock which has existed for nearly two weeks was quickly broken and, while price changes were erratic, there was a fair commission house trade on either side and the general run of the news was effective.

A sharp break followed the opening bulge which carried prices back to around Tuesday's finish, but the close was on a strong rally with wheat closing 3 to 3¼ cents higher. Corn was up 2¼ to 3⅛ cents; oats, 1⅝ to 2 cents, and rye, ¾ to 1¾ cents. Barley was ½ cent lower to ½ cent higher.

Inflation Talk Helps Market.

Inflation talk from Washington came to the fore as a influence in the grain markets after an absence of several weeks, and was partly responsible for the closing upturn. September wheat closed at $1.00¼ to $1.00⅝, with December at $1.03⅝ to $1.03⅞ and May at $1.08 to $1.08⅛. September corn finished at 56¼ to 56⅜ cents; December, 60⅜ to 61 cents, and May at 66¼ to 66½ cents.

Oats were up 3 cents at the start, the maximum permitted under the exchange regulations, and closed well toward the top with September at 41⅞ to 41⅝ cents; December, 45⅛ to 45¼ cents and May 48⅜ to 48⅞ cents. There was closing of spreads between rye and other grains, while trade was fairly general. September rye was 74¾ cents and December 80¼ cents at the close, with September barley at 57½ cents and December, 62⅜ cents.

Crop Reports Bullish.

There was no letup in the unfavorable character of the crop reports from the Canadian northwest. The dominion government weekly summary indicated considerable deterioration had occured as the result of the recent intense heat and dry weather. A scarcity of feed grain was forecast for some sections.

Private reports claimed temperatures as low as 22 had occured in parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan Tuesday night and a lowering in the grade of wheat and other grains was expected.

Winnipeg wheat, which led the advance on Tuesday and closed 9 cents higher that day, was 3⅞ cents lower yesterday, said to have been due in large part to selling orders from American operators who were liberal buyers the previous day. Liverpool closed equal to 1 to 1⅛ cents higher in American funds.

There was no evidence of an increase in country offerings of cash grain to arrive, despite the upturn in prices of the last two days.

FARMERS MUST RECEIVE LARGER REWARDS: SNOW

REGINA, Canada, Aug. 2.—(AP)—It has become popular to sympathize with the desperate position of the farmer because his suffering has reacted upon other groups, Bernard W. Snow, Chicago, told delegates to the world's grain conference in an address prepared for delivery today.

Agriculture, he said, must receive a higher reward for its service to humanity, and then pointed out that the world as a whole, suffers, not from a food surplus, but from immobility of supplies.

"The difference between the past and the present is that in the ages gone," he said, 'mankind struggled with nature for a sufficiency of supply, while today the outstanding world problem is man-created interference with distribution."

Snow, known as an international authority on agriculture problems, said most of the attempts to restrict competition in the grain trade had been applied to the processes of distribution with a growing tendency to deliberately block the channels of international trade.

TOBACCO SALES RESUMED WITH PRICES HIGHER

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Offerings were light on Georgia's bright leaf tobacco markets today but improved prices brought expressions of satisfaction from growers at Adel and Hahira, where farmers yesterday protested opening day quotations to federal and state officials.

Washington officials said they had not replied but were studying the Georgia situation, and indicated the market trend would be watched carefully a day or two before any decision on whether to act to raise the price of flue cured leaf.

Sales at Hahira, which were halted yesterday, went on as usual, with prices ranging much higher than on the opening day. R. V. Scruggs, a grower, said the same grades were bringing 3 cents more today than yesterday.

International Combustion Engineering Plan in Effect

The plan for reorganization of the International Combustion Engineering corporation has been declared operative by the reorganization committee, but will not immediately apply to the bonds and claims against the Heine Boiler company, a subsidiary. A new concern, Combustion Engineering company, Inc., has been organized with approximately $2,900,000 first mortgage bonds, $1,000,000 of 5 per cent debentures and 150,000 shares of common stock.

Household Finance Corp. Earns Less than Year Ago

The Household Finance corporation reported net income of $1,790,715 for the six months ended June 30, against $1,940,232 in the corresponding period last year. Net assets as of June 30 were $28,743,451 after deducting reserves and liabilities.

Margins Raised; All Pools to Be Regulated.

The announcement of the new regulations was made by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, in a statement which read in part as follows:

"The action taken by the governing committee represents a development of the policy of the exchange. All of these various steps have been under consideration for many months and have been adopted because we have become convinced that they are sound and in the public interest.

Explains Rule on Margins.

"The exchange has for many years required all members to secure proper and adequate margin. In order to strengthen this rule and to make clear what the exchange considers proper and adequate margin, the committee on business conduct has been given power to fix minimum marginal requirements from time to time."

Meanwhile the Herald Tribune said that a plan to transfer the stock exchange from New York to Jersey City or Newark, N. J., "is being seriously proposed among the rank and file of the stock exchange membership" to escape additional stock transfer taxes, which have been proposed at the special session of the legislature to rehabilitate New York City's finances.

The state would levy an additional tax of four cents a share and turn the proceeds over to the city. This would be in addition to the present state tax of four cents a share and the federal tax of four or five cents.

OIL PRICE WAR ENDS WITH CUT BY ALL BUYERS

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Another crude oil price war has ended in the midcontinent area with the two major buyers, the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey and Indiana, the victors.

The insurgents among the oil buyers, who insisted that best grades of crude from Oklahoma and Kansas were worth 75 cents a barrel early in July, had capitulated today and agreed with the Standards to pay only 62 cents a barrel. Sinclair-Prarie Oil Marketing company led the retreat late yesterday, and today virtually all purchasers that had met the higher figure fell in for the return march.

The Southern Oklahoma Oil and Gas association today sent a telegram to President Roosevelt and Secretary of Interior Ickes saying the recovery plan in the southwest "must be based on an equitable price for crude oil."

"Tariff commission shows average production cost is $1.09 a barrel," the message said. "The selling price must be in excess thereof to meet the requirement in raising wages and reducing labor hours."

SHELL UNION OIL HALVES ITS LOSS IN LAST QUARTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The Shell Union Oil corporation reports for the three months ended June 30 a consolidated net loss of $4,865,837 after interest, depreciation, depletion, intangible development costs, abandonments, and minority interest. This compares with a net loss of $9,239,550 in the preceding quarter and a net loss of $193,126 in the June quarter of 1932. For the six months ended June 30 the net loss was $14,105,387, as compared with a net loss of $2,935,426 in the first half of 1932.

"The statement of Shell Union Oil corporation for the quarter ended June 30, 1933, reflects, during a large part of the period, a continuation of the unfavorable economic conditions which were reported for the first three months of the year," the company stated.

PANAMA CANAL TOLLS IN JULY SHOW INCREASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA HEIGHTS, C. Z., Aug. 2.—The Panama Canal's July tolls aggregated $1,732,243, averaging $55,876 daily, compared to $54,313 in June and $47,378 in July, 1932. Ship transits averaged nearly 13 daily in July, against 10.52 in July, 1932. July's commercial traffic was the highest since January. The republic of Panama reports a huge increase in banana exports, increasing by 50,000 bunches monthly to 350,000. Monthly exports started at 140,000 in January.

First National Pictures, Warner Bros. Hold Meeting

The southern and western representatives of Warner Bros. and First National Pictures are holding their annual sales convention at the Drake hotel. Albert Warner, executive in charge of distribution, stated that at the New York meeting, which just closed, the companies arranged the most elaborate production programs in their history for the production season of 1933-'34, beginning in September. A minimum of sixty feature pictures is planned.

CREDITORS RAP FEES IN AM. BOND MORTGAGE SUITS

Say Receivers, Counsel Are Exorbitant.

Objections to the $800,000 in fees and commissions asked by the attorneys and receivers of the American Bond and Mortgage company were filed in the United States District court here yesterday by Attorney Saul S. Myers of New York. He acted on behalf of the Royal Indemnity company and approximately 500 other creditors of the defunct real estate financing concern.

Attorney Myers set forth in his petition that the estate has tangible assets of approximately $1,800,000 out of which the receivers and their attorneys are asking $800,000. The petition questions the authority of the court to allow any claims whatever, inasmuch as the company has been in both equity receivership and bankruptcy litigation.

List of Fees Asked.

The Chicago Title and Trust company and Arthur W. Draper are receivers for the company in Chicago. The petition of Attorney Myers declares that approximately $350,725 in tangible assets are in charge of the Chicago receivers. Of this amount, he said, claims of the receivers and their attorneys for fees and expenses amount to $242,000. If these claims are allowed, only $108,000 will remain for the general creditors.

The Chicago Title and Trust company and Receiver Draper have filed a claim for a "reasonable fee," the amount to be fixed by the court. Kirkland, Fleming, Green and Martin, counsel for the receivers, have filed claims for $35,077. Defrees, Buckingham, Jones and Hoffman, associate counsel, are asking fees of $40,000.

Eastern Lawyers Ask Fees.

Charles Evans Hughes Jr., former United States solicitor general, ancillary receiver in New York, is asking fees of $15,000. Attorney Myers asserts that there are tangible assets of $977,453 realized by the ancillary receiver. Against this, he states, claims of $550,000 for bankruptcy proceedings alone have been filed.

The New York law firm of McLaughlin and Sterne, attorneys for the company, and latter counsel for Mr. Hughes, filed a claim of $497,000 for fees and $80,000 for expenses for services in the bankruptcy proceedings.

The law firm of Cook, Nathan and Lehman, also counsel for Mr. Hughes, filed claims of $50,000.

Judge James H. Wilkerson set Aug. 7 for a hearing on the objections to claims for allowances in the equity proceedings. Referee Garfield Charles will hear objections to the allowances in the bankruptcy proceedings the same day.

SINCLAIR-PRAIRIE OIL DEAL FACES NEW COURT TEST

Another federal judge has granted a minority stockholders' petition objecting to the $440,000,000 consolidation of the Prairie Pipe Line company, the Prairie Oil and Gas company, and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company, as the "Consolidated Oil corporation."

Attorneys for the minority stockholders, headed by William Roy Carney of Chicago, yesterday received an opinion by Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins of Topeka, Kas., directing the two Prairie companies to answer or defend a bill filed in the name of Marie M. Carney to set aside the merger, and also the conveyance of the Prairie properties to the "Consolidated company" immediately after the merger.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, in Chicago, recently ordered the same defendants to answer a similar stockholders' suit to set aside the transfer of the pipe line properties of the Sinclair-Prairie Pipe Line company, extending from the Texas oil fields to Whiting, Ind., attorneys said.

Chicago Stocks Firm Up; Volume of Trading Small

Prices were higher on the Chicago exchange yesterday, but volume was small with only 45,000 shares crossing the tape. Merchandising issues were strong and beer stocks held steady.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.45c for spots. Trading was light and the only sale reported was 25,300 bags of Cuban for first half October shipment at 3.45c to an operator. Futures moved within a range of 1 to 2 points, but after declining slightly rallied partially on covering and buying that seemed to be inspired by renewed talk of inflationary possibilities. The close was not unchanged to 1 point lower. Sales, 20,900 tons. Range of prices follows:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Butter and egg futures slumped sharply on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, losing most of the wide gains recorded in the previous session. Heavy selling dropped butter 1¼c or over $200 per car, and eggs, ¾c, or $90 per car. Both commodities opened higher, gaining ¼c on fairly active buying, but selling increased and later liquidation was an important factor. Covering was the only supporting of much importance. Statistical news continued bearish and brought out much of the pressure. The Land o'Lakes reported butter production up nearly 16 per cent over last year and the four markets stored 168,000 lbs more than last year. The four market egg surplus gained 12,000 cases. Sales: Butter, 182 cars; eggs, 293 cars. Prices follow:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil today was less active and prices eased under scattered liquidation and commission house selling, promoted by the easier tallow and grease markets. Closing prices were 10 to 13 points lower. Sales were 16 contracts. Bleachable spot closed 5.50c; September, 5.75c; December, 5.90c; January, 5.95c; March, 6.05c.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Buyers are declining all offers at new prices, inclusive of processing tax. Readjustment of finished goods prices is proceeding steadily. Rayon stocks in producers' hands is negligible. Little new business is developing in silk or wool goods pending acceptance of trade codes. Burlap trading is light.

COTTON RANGE $2 BALE; CLOSES WITH SMALL GAINS

Cotton prices slid off $1.50 a bale or more after a moderate upturn covering a range of $2. At the close futures in Chicago were unchanged to 4 points net higher, and other markets were up 2 to 11 points, New York leading. Spots in New York were up 10 points to 10.45c, with New Orleans up only 5 points to 10.40c. Galveston was 10.30c, and Houston 10.35c. Liverpool finished 4 to 5 points net lower.

Buying was largely small orders, and the action of the market was a disappointment to traders considering the strength in stocks and grain.

The trade is inclined to go slow owing to the approach of the government crop report, which is due next Tuesday. Two private reports were issued during the day, one indicating a crop of 10,515,000 and the other 11,207,000 bales, both being based on acreage reduction through leases to the goverment. Last year's harvest was 13,002,000 bales. Prices follow:
